MEN O' WAR ROUT GERMAN FREIGHTERS IN GULF

FOUR NAZI SHIPS ARE INTERCEPTED LEAVING TAMPICO

One Scuttled By Crew Rather Than Surrender To 'Enemy' Forces

THREE OTHERS RETURN TO SAFETY OF HARBOR

Only One Of Vessels Loaded; Reported Trying To Reach Raider

TAMPICO, Mexico, Nov. 16—(P)—Captain H. Frenke, of the German cargo ship Idarwald, said tonight that one of four warships which blocked his attempted escape to sea last night and caused the scuttling of another German ship, the Phrygia, "very likely was one of the 50 destroyers transferred by the United States to Great Britain."

The Phrygia exploded and sank off the coast here today and the captain reported her crew "opened her and set her aflame" rather than obey an order flashed from the [illegible] warships demanding her surrender. She was one of four Nazi vessels that made a dash for the open sea.

The identity of the warships still had not been fixed here late tonight.

One captain said he saw the lights of a battleship on the [illegible] directing the destroyers' pursuit of the Germans.

Telling his story of the night which ended in a setback for the Germans, Captain Frenke said the Idarwald sighted "what appeared to be a war vessel as we left the Panuco river.

"Shortly afterward two other ships were sighted. Their reflectors were trained on the Idarwald and the ship was ordered to surrender by luminous signals.

"I zig-zagged back into port pursued by a warship.

"It was a destroyer of the obsolete type, very likely one of the 50 destroyers transferred by the United States to Great Britain.

"The destroyer chased me up to within two miles of the coast, violating Mexican territorial waters."

Apparently the attack on the Phrygia was the first [illegible] in the attempted dash, followed in turn by the Idarwald, the Rhein and the Orinoco.

LEWIS SAYS C. I. O. WILL STAND 'PAT'

Describes Conference With Sidney Hillman As 'Mostly Social'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 16—(P)—C. I. O. President John L. Lewis today described his surprise conference with Sidney Hillman after a long estrangement over policies as "mostly social" and forecast that the C. I. O.'s national convention next week would "not depart very far" from its declared policies and objectives.

Lewis' forecast created some fresh speculation about what will happen to the program of the Hillman followers when it reaches the convention, although leaders moving in and out of conferences indicated efforts were being made to avoid a major split.

In another hotel a block away, Hillman, labor member of the national defense commission and a C. I. O. vice-president who has been in sharp disagreement with Lewis over policies, declared, when asked if the convention would be split by disagreements, "I don't think so."

The two leaders who spent an hour and a half together Friday night, and strolled the resort city's famed boardwalk on apparently good terms, talked about the forthcoming convention at press conferences.

Hillman and his followers want the convention to go on record for a fresh try at unity conferences with the A. F. L., curb the reputed influence of MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 16—(P)—The W. M. Rees, a big towboat hauling 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline, went down suddenly stern-first in the Mississippi seven miles below Memphis about midnight.

In sub-freezing weather, the crew of 13, half of whom were asleep, scrambled to safety on the Arkansas shore and saved the cargo by tying the six barges to the bank.

The boat was en route from Plaquemine, La., to Rock Island, Ill. It was owned by New Orleans interests and under charter to Eddie Erlbacher of Cape Girardeau, Mo. It was Diesel-motored and had 1,200 horsepower. Estimates of the loss were not available immediately but the two motors were valued at $30,000 apiece new.

SAYS GOVERNMENT WILL FAVOR A. F. L.

Labor Group's Official Makes Statement Prior To Convention

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16—(P)—John L. Lewis' step from the C. I. O. presidency [illegible] American Federation of Labor official here today and predicted the government would in the future favor the A. F. L. to the detriment of its rival.

Upsets Shock Grid World; Notre Dame One Of Victims

By Herb Barker

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(P)—A wave of upsets shocked the football world today, knocked Notre Dame off the unbeaten list and missed Cornell's Big Red squad by exactly six seconds.

Still riding high when it was all over were Minnesota, Texas A. and M., Boston college, Stanford, and Tennessee, all, like Cornell, unbeaten and untied. A step back were Lafayette, unbeaten and untied in a comparatively easy schedule, and Penn State, Mississippi State and Texas Tech, all unbeaten but tied.

Notre Dame, whose claim to greatness had been seriously challenged by Army and Navy on successive weeks, finally came a cropper before Iowa's Hawkeyes who put up a brilliant defense before 50,000 at South Bend, and then cashed in on the one real scoring opportunity it had. This was a fourth quarter fumble by Steve Bagarus which Ken Pettit recovered for Iowa on the Notre Dame 24. The Hawkeyes drove over for a touchdown on four tries with Bill Green accounting for 23 yards and the score.

Boston college, paced by the great triple threat back, Charley O'Rourke, and a great line, spotted Georgetown 10 points in the first five minutes and then handed the Hoyas their first defeat in 24 games, 19-18. A crowd of 40,000 turned out at Boston for this duel of two of the biggest teams in intercollegiate football.

Dartmouth had Cornell beaten 3-0 on a fourth quarter field goal by Bob Krueger until Walter Scholl passed the Big Red down the field and finally contacted Bill Murphy in the end zone for the winning touchdown with six seconds to go. There was considerable argument that Cornell had been given an extra down at this critical stage of the proceedings but the 7-3 final score stood and Cornell stretched its unbeaten streak through 19 games.

John Kimbrough picked up 108 yards in 18 tries as Texas A. and M. routed Rice, 25-0, and now face only one hurdle—Texas—in a drive for a second successive Southwest title and a possible bid to the Rose Bowl.

Minnesota clinched the Western conference championship by riding roughshod over Purdue, 33-6, with

Delegates Arriving For 4-Day Meeting Of L. T. A. In City

Program Will Open Today, With Business Sessions Set Tomorrow

(The program of the L. T. A. and other news pertaining to the convention may be found on inside pages.)

Officials of the Louisiana Teachers' Association began arriving in Monroe last night as arrangements were completed for the annual convention of the group, expected to draw some 5,000 delegates to this city for four days beginning today.

State officials and nationally known speakers and educators are scheduled to address general sessions of the convention to be held nightly. Meetings of special sections will constitute the program during the mornings and afternoons.

Governor Sam H. Jones and Superintendent of Education John E. Coxe are scheduled to speak at the Tuesday night general session.

Principal speaker Monday night will be Linton Wells, widely known author and newspaperman, who is presently news analyst for a broadcasting chain. Wells will speak on "The Troubled World and Those Who Make It So."

Association President E. A. Lee, Natchitoches, will call officers and the executive council into session at [illegible] p.m. today.

Registration in the lobby of the Frances Hotel was got under way at 2 p.m., H. W. Wright, Baton Rouge, executive secretary of the association, said last night. Wright stated that he was exceedingly pleased with the preparations made by convention officials and he predicted the meeting this year would be the most successful in the history of the association.

Convention Chairman [illegible], Monroe publisher, said that the committees on arrangements had done an excellent job and that he hoped the teachers will enjoy every minute of their stay in the city.

Local hotels have been forced to turn down hundreds of reservations and most of the available rooms in private homes have been spoken for, the Chamber of Commerce, which is handling the housing problem, announced.

As hosts to Louisiana teachers in their [illegible] convention, the school systems of Ouachita parish and the city of Monroe are represented by Superintendent T. O. Rowe of the parish schools and Superintendent F. L. Neville of the city schools.

Other outstanding speakers who will address the convention include D. D.

CONGRESS FACING CONTROVERSIES IF SESSION GOES ON

Will Reassemble Monday, Take Up Question Of Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(P)—Congress, after a five weeks holiday for the national election campaign, will reassemble Monday to face the question of whether to take up half a dozen controversial issues or end its 11 months session.

Opposing adjournment are the Republican minorities in both Senate and House and some Democrats who argue that the uncertain state of international affairs make it advisable for Congress to stay on the job.

Nominally, Congress has been in session in recent weeks but, under a gentleman's agreement, has done nothing since October 11 except meet and recess for three-day periods. Only a handful of members has reported for any meeting of House or Senate. The gentlemen's agreement expires Monday, making regular business the order of the day.

Democratic leaders have not yet decided on the date they will propose for adjournment, although saying it will be sometime next week. A definite decision may be reached after their regular weekly conference on Monday with President Roosevelt.

It is expected that they will want to obtain Senate action first on the nomination of Dr. Harry A. Millis to be a member of the National Labor Relations Board, succeeding J. Warren Madden, and on Madden's nomination to be a judge of the United States court of claims.

If the adjournment proposal should be defeated, leaders may be forced to give consideration to demands that the Senate take up the Walter-Logan bill which proponents say would facilitate court reviews of action by

THANKSGIVING DAY IS SET THURSDAY

Special Services Will Be Held; Football Game In Afternoon

For the second time in as many years, Louisiana will disregard the old-fashioned Last-Thursday-in-November Turkey Day, and instead will observe President Roosevelt's "week ahead" Thanksgiving, which this year will fall on the coming Thursday, November 21.

Many churches in the Twin Cities will participate in a special Thanksgiving day service to be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in Temple B'Nai Israel, Monroe Jewish synagogue. Rev. Raymond T. Watson, pastor of the First Christian Church, will deliver the invocation, and Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will read the scripture.

Following the scripture-reading, Rev. A. M. Freeman, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will deliver the sermon, and Rabbi F. K. Hirsch, pastor of Temple B'Nai Israel, will give the benediction. The services will last one hour, and all religious denominations in the Twin Cities are cordially invited to attend to give public thanks for mercies granted during the past year.

Thursday will be a legal holiday. All business houses in the Twin Cities will be closed. All grade schools and high schools will also be closed for the day, but classes will be resumed Friday morning. Northeast Junior College's Thanksgiving holidays will extend from Thursday through Sunday. Classes will be resumed Monday.

The Northeast Junior College Indians will hold their first day football game of the current season Thursday when they engage Southeastern Louisiana College of Hammond at 2:30 p.m. in Brown Stadium.

In observing this Thursday as Thanksgiving, Louisiana is keeping in step with many other states throughout the nation. The new Turkey Day was begun by the president to give merchants "a better break," setting the holiday and Christmas farther apart.

Thanksgiving day originated with the New England colonists and has been regularly observed since President Lincoln's proclamation in 1863.

CONDITIONS AT PEN HELD 'DANGEROUS'

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 16—(P)—The House recess roving committee today reported existence of "a most unsatisfactory and perhaps dangerous condition of affairs" resulting from a division of authority at the Mississippi state penitentiary.

Completing its investigation of the October 27 escape from the Parchman prison farm of Kinnie Wagner, convicted murderer, the committee recommended to Governor Paul B. Johnson that J. T. Reed, the penitentiary superintendent, "be given full power and authority to manage and control the operation of the penitentiary" and "to dismiss or remove any employe, the character of whose services warrants such action."

To lack of such authority on Reed's part over certain employes the committee report attributed a "spirit of distrust, unrest and utter lack of cooperation" which it said was "rife on the farm."

PRISONER KILLED AS FIRE HITS JAIL

Verdict Of Accidental Death Is Returned By Coroner's Jury

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 16—(P)—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of a man who died last night in a fire that burned a small temporary jail at Hackberry.

Dr. S. O. Carter, Cameron parish coroner, at the inquest identified the victim as Shelby A. Corbello, 31, of West Lake, La., who he said was arrested last night on a charge of drunkenness.

The man had been placed in the temporary lockup by Cameron parish deputies who could not account for the origin of the fire, the coroner said.

FIRE SWEEPS PLANT OF DAIRY COMPANY

COLUMBUS, Miss., Nov. 16—(P)—Fire of undetermined origin swept through the plant of the Cooperative Dairies today with loss estimated unofficially at $15,000.

The blaze began in the center of the large one-story building adjoining the campus of Mississippi State College for Women and raged for an hour.

Duce Troops Smashed By Greek Force

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 17 (Sunday).—(P)—Italian troops fleeing in southern Albania from the advance of the Greeks have set on fire their base town of Koritza, the Greek high command reported today.

The high command's announcement was issued shortly after a government spokesman reported the recapture by the Greeks of the town of Konitza, in the central Pindus mountain region, to which the Italians penetrated in a sweep toward Metsovon.

The Italians have set fire to other villages in their retreat, the high command said, but did not name the towns.

A series of battles was fought, the high command said, "all over the entire front and Epirus and, particularly, in the mountainous regions east of Koritza" throughout the day.

"Many prisoners were taken by us and guns, howitzers and materials of all descriptions were captured," the communique added.

The ministry of home security charged that "enemy planes machine-gunned" peasants at work and grazing flocks on the island of Corfu but no damage or casualties were reported.

The high command also reported that Italian planes "again bombed towns and villages not representing

Unhappy Soldier's A Poor Soldier, So Draftees Will Have Their Fun

By Milton Brouner
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(P)—Relatives of John Q. Citizen may fear that in his idle moments the new soldier, through sheer boredom and loneliness, will get into mischief.

The war department, through the morale division attached to the office of the adjutant general, is trying to obviate any such danger, for the officers realize that an unhappy soldier is a poor soldier.

At most of the big army posts there is already or soon will be an army service club. This is what its name implies and is for the buck privates and the non-commissioned officers.

The outfit will be a real club with reading rooms supplied with books, papers and magazines, a writing room, a big room where dances can be held, a library and a cafeteria where the draftees can entertain their visiting relatives and friends.

In many instances there will be near this club a guest house where relatives of soldiers may put up for the night at a reasonable charge.

Each army service club will have a senior hostess, aged between 30 and 50, and two junior hostesses between the ages of 25 and 45. They must be well educated and have previous experience in a similar occupation. They will be paid by the government. They will arrange dances at which girls from the near by town will be welcome and will be well chaperoned.

The army library service will have libraries with about 5,000 carefully selected books at the big camps and traveling libraries which will serve the smaller posts. Trained librarians paid by the government will be in charge.

The draftee will not miss his movies. There is an army motion picture service, which will present movies at all the camps. Soldiers will get a book of 10 tickets for $1.40. Some of the movie big tents will seat as many as 2,000.

The men themselves will be encouraged to pick talent from their ranks for the holding of amateur dramatic shows, athletic contests, football and baseball games, and also song evenings. An army song book is being prepared for circulation among the draftees.

The morale division recently held a referendum among regular army soldiers as to the songs they like. There were no votes for any of the naughty ones of the last war like "Mademoiselle From Armentieres."

The 10 which got the top votes were "America," "God Bless America," "Star Spangled Banner," "Home on the Range," "I Am an American," "My Buddy," "The Caissons," "The Last Roundup," "You're in the Army Now," and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny." These and similar songs chosen by the "regulars" will be in the draftees' song book.

Greek Defenders Reported Driving Italians Back Over Front

(By Associated Press)

Europe's war flared briefly in the Gulf of Mexico Saturday when four warships, reported probably Canadian, spoiled the plan of four German freighters to slip unobserved out of Tampico, Mexico, for a dash through the British blockade.

Confronted by the warships, the Nazis fired and scuttled the 4,137-ton Phrygia, while the other three—the Idarwald, 5,033 tons, the Rhein, 6,031 tons, and the Orinoco, 9,660 tons—beat a retreat through a storm to the harbor where they had been tied up since the start of the war.

The incident recalled to many the scuttling of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and the liner Columbus almost a year ago.

Three thousand miles to the northeast R. A. F. bombing planes, braving a strong channel gale, battered Nazi long range gun positions and invasion ports on the French coast last night, 24 hours after attacks on Hamburg and Kiel and on Germany's railway terminals, public utilities plants and an oil refinery.

Coventry, English Midlands industrial city, lay wasted by bombs while rescuers sought dead and wounded in the wreckage and King George cheered the survivors with a brief visit.

German sources described the Coventry raid as part of an effort to bring England to her knees before increasing United States help makes the job more difficult and as retaliation

WARMER WEATHER SEEN HERE TODAY

Fair Skies Will Prevail; Mercury Hit 23.4 Early Saturday

Fair and warmer weather was promised for Sunday in the United States Weather Bureau forecast issued at New Orleans. The Twin City section for three consecutive days experienced temperatures in the 20s.

The mercury got down to 23.4 degrees early Saturday but climbed during the day to a maximum of 62.8, according to Civil Aeronautics observers at Selman Field.

The rise in temperature was expected to be general. Arkansas was advised it would experience higher temperatures.

(By Associated Press)

A sharp change to warmer weather was promised the south Sunday after one of the most severe November cold spells in its history.

The federal forecaster in Atlanta said a "decided and rapid warming-up" would follow sub-freezing temperatures early in the morning and he predicted sunny skies for the next two or three days.

Before the mercury began to rise yesterday, it dived to record-smashing lows in many southern cities. Crops were damaged by the wintry blasts that held sway from Mississippi to the Carolinas and at least one death was attributed to the cold. Temperatures were lower than in any other section of the nation.

Snow flurries were reported at Bristol, Tenn., but elsewhere in the south the weather was clear.

An elderly woman was burned to death at Nashville, Tenn., when she lighted a fire for protection against 18-degree weather.

Upsets Shock Grid World; Notre Dame One Of Victims

By Herb Barker

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A wave of upsets shocked the football world today, knocked Notre Dame off the unbeaten list and missed Cornell's Big Red squad by exactly six seconds.

Still riding high when it was all over were Minnesota, Texas A. and M., Boston college, Stanford, and Tennessee, all, like Cornell, unbeaten and untied. A step back were Lafayette, unbeaten and untied in a comparatively easy schedule, and Penn State, Mississippi State and Texas Tech, all unbeaten but tied.

Notre Dame, whose claim to greatness had been seriously challenged by Army and Navy on successive weeks, finally came a cropper before Iowa's Hawkeyes who put up a brilliant defense before 50,000 at South Bend, and then cashed in on the one real scoring opportunity it had. This was a fourth quarter fumble by Steve Bagarus which Ken Pettit recovered for Iowa on the Notre Dame 24. The Hawkeyes drove over for a touchdown on four tries with Bill Green accounting for 23 yards and the score.

Boston college, paced by the great triple threat back, Charley O'Rourke, and a great line, spotted Georgetown 10 points in the first five minutes and then handed the Hoyas their first defeat in 24 games, 19-18. A crowd of 40,000 turned out at Boston for this duel of two of the biggest teams in intercollegiate football.

Dartmouth had Cornell beaten 3-0 on a fourth quarter field goal by Bob Krueger until Walter Scholl passed the Big Red down the field and finally contacted Bill Murphy in the end zone for the winning touchdown with six seconds to go. There was considerable argument that Cornell had been given an extra down at this critical stage of the proceedings but the 7-3 final score stood and Cornell stretched its unbeaten streak through 19 games.

John Kimbrough picked up 108 yards in 18 tries as Texas A. and M. routed Rice, 25-0, and now face only one hurdle—Texas—in a drive for a second successive Southwest title and a possible bid to the Rose Bowl.

Minnesota clinched the Western conference championship by riding roughshod over Purdue, 33-6, with

Delegates Arriving For 4-Day Meeting Of L. T. A. In City

Program Will Open Today, With Business Sessions Set Tomorrow

(The program of the L. T. A. and other news pertaining to the convention may be found on inside pages.)

Officials of the Louisiana Teachers' Association began arriving in Monroe last night as arrangements were completed for the annual convention of the group, expected to draw some 5,000 delegates to this city for four days beginning today.

State officials and nationally known speakers and educators are scheduled to address general sessions of the convention to be held nightly. Meetings of special sections will comprise the program during the mornings and afternoons.

Governor Sam H. Jones and Superintendent of Education John E. Coxe are scheduled to speak at the Tuesday night general session.

Principal speaker Monday night will be Linton Wells, widely known author and newspaperman, who is presently news analyst for a broadcasting chain. Wells will speak on "This Troubled World and Those Who Make It So."

Association President E. A. Lee, Natchitoches, will call officers and the executive council into session at 2:30 p.m. today.

Registration, in the lobby of the Frances Hotel, will get underway at 2 p.m., H. W. Wright, Baton Rouge, executive secretary of the association, said last night. Wright stated that he was exceedingly pleased with the preparations made by convention officials and predicted the meeting this year would be the most successful in the history of the organization.

Convention Chairman Wilson Ewing, Monroe publisher, said that the committees on arrangements had "done an excellent job," and that he hoped the "teachers will enjoy every minute of their stay in the city."

Local hotels have been forced to turn down hundreds of reservations and most of the available rooms in private homes have been spoken for, the Chamber of Commerce, which is handling the housing problem, announced.

As hosts to Louisiana teachers in their 1940 convention, the school systems of Ouachita parish and the city of Monroe are represented by Superintendent T. O. Brown of the parish schools and Superintendent E. L. Neville of the city schools.

Other outstanding speakers who will address the convention include D. D.

THANKSGIVING DAY IS SET THURSDAY

Special Services Will Be Held; Football Game In Afternoon

For the second time in as many years, Louisiana will disregard the old-fashioned last-Thursday-in-November Turkey Day, and instead will observe President Roosevelt's "week ahead" Thanksgiving, which this year will fall on the coming Thursday, November 21.

Many churches in the Twin Cities will participate in a special Thanksgiving day service to be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in Temple B'Nai Israel, Monroe Jewish synagogue. Rev. Raymond T. Watson, pastor of the First Christian Church, will deliver the invocation, and Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will read the scripture.

Following the scripture-reading, Rev. A. M. Freeman, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will deliver the sermon, and Rabbi F. K. Hirsch, pastor of Temple B'Nai Israel, will give the benediction. The services will last one hour, and all religious denominations in the Twin Cities are cordially invited to attend to give public thanks for mercies granted during the past year.

Thursday will be a legal holiday. All business houses in the Twin Cities will be closed. All grade schools and high schools will also be closed for the day, but classes will be resumed Friday morning. Northeast Junior College's Thanksgiving holidays will extend from Thursday through Sunday. Classes will be resumed Monday.

The Northeast Junior College Indians will hold their first day football game of the current season, Thursday when they engage Southeastern Louisiana College of Hammond at 2:30 p.m. in Brown Stadium.

In observing this Thursday as Thanksgiving, Louisiana is keeping in step with many other states throughout the nation. The new Turkey Day was begun by the president to give merchants "a better break," setting the holiday and Christmas farther apart.

Thanksgiving day originated with the New England colonists, and has been regularly observed since President Lincoln's proclamation in 1863.

Will Reassemble Monday, Take Up Question Of Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Congress, after a five weeks holiday for the national election campaign, will reassemble Monday to face the question of whether to take up half a dozen provocative issues or end its 11 months session.

Opposing adjournment are the Republican minorities in both Senate and House and some Democrats who argue that the uncertain state of international affairs make it advisable for Congress to stay on the job.

Nominally, Congress has been in session in recent weeks but, under a gentleman's agreement has done nothing since October 11 except meet and recess for three-day periods. Only a handful of members has reported for any meeting of House or Senate. The gentleman's agreement expires Monday, making regular business the order of the day.

Democratic leaders have not yet decided on the date they will propose for adjournment, although saying it will be sometime next week. A definite decision may be reached after their regular weekly conference on Monday with President Roosevelt.

It is expected that they will want to obtain Senate action first on the nomination of Dr. Harry A. Millis to be a member of the National Labor Relations Board, succeeding J. Warren Madden, and on Madden's nomination to be a judge of the United States court of claims.

If the adjournment proposal should be defeated, leaders may be forced to give consideration to demands that the Senate take up the Walter-Logan bill which proponents say would facilitate court reviews of action by

CONDITIONS AT PEN HELD 'DANGEROUS'

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The House recess roving committee today reported existence of "a most unsatisfactory and perhaps dangerous condition of affairs" resulting from a division of authority at the Mississippi state penitentiary.

Completing its investigation of the October 27 escape from the Parchman prison farm of Kinnie Wagner, convicted murderer, the committee recommended to Governor Paul B. Johnson that J. T. Reed, the penitentiary superintendent, "be given full power and authority to manage and control the operation of the penitentiary" and "to dismiss or remove any employe, the character of whose services warrants such action."

To lack of such authority on Reed's part over certain employes the committee report attributed a "spirit of distrust, unrest and utter lack of cooperation" which it said was "rife on the farm."

PRISONER KILLED AS FIRE HITS JAIL

Verdict Of Accidental Death Is Returned By Coroner's Jury

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 16.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of a man who died last night in a fire that burned a small temporary jail at Hackberry.

Dr. S. O. Carter, Cameron parish coroner, at the inquest identified the victim as Shelby A. Corbello, 31 of West Lake, La., who he said was arrested last night on a charge of drunkenness.

The man had been placed in the temporary lockup by Cameron parish deputies who could not account for the origin of the fire, the coroner said.

COLUMBUS, Miss., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin swept through the plant of the Cooperative Dairies today with loss estimated unofficially at $15,000.

The blaze began in the center of the large one-story building adjoining the campus of Mississippi State College for Women and raged for an hour.

Duce Troops Smashed By Greek Force

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 17 (Sunday).—(AP)—Italian troops fleeing in southern Albania from the advance of the Greeks have set on fire their base town of Koritza, the Greek high command reported today.

The high command's announcement was issued shortly after a government spokesman reported the recapture by the Greeks of the town of Konitza, in the central Pindus mountain region, to which the Italians penetrated in a sweep toward Metsovon.

The Italians have set fire to other villages in their retreat, the high command said, but did not name the towns.

A series of battles was fought, the high command said, "all over the entire front and Epirus and, particularly, in the mountainous regions east of Koritza" throughout the day.

"Many prisoners were taken by us and guns, howitzers and materials of all descriptions were captured," the communique added.

The ministry of home security charged that "enemy planes machine-gunned" peasants at work and grazing flocks on the island of Corfu but no damage or casualties were reported.

The high command also reported that Italian planes "again bombed towns and villages not representing

Johnny Gets His Gun

Unhappy Soldier's A Poor Soldier, So Draftees Will Have Their Fun

(One of a series taking a draftee into Uncle Sam's new army.)

By Milton Bronner
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Relatives of John Q. Citizen may fear that in his idle moments the new soldier, through sheer boredom and loneliness, will get into mischief.

The war department, through the morale division attached to the office of the adjutant general, is trying to obviate any such danger, for the officers realize that an unhappy soldier is a poor soldier.

At most of the big army posts there is already or soon will be an army service club. This is what its name implies and is for the buck privates and the non-commissioned officers.

The outfit will be a real club with reading rooms, supplied with books, papers and magazines, a writing room, a big room where dances can be held, a library and a cafeteria where the draftees can entertain their visiting relatives and friends.

In many instances there will be near this club a guest house where relatives of soldiers may put up for the night at a reasonable charge.

Each army service club will have a senior hostess, aged between 30 and 50, and two junior hostesses between the ages of 25 and 45. They must be well educated and have previous experience in a similar occupation. They will be paid by the government. They will arrange dances at which girls from the near-by town will be welcome and will be well chaperoned.

The army library service will have libraries with about 5,000 carefully selected books at the big camps and traveling libraries which will serve the smaller posts. Trained librarians paid by the government will be in charge.

The draftee will not miss his movies. There is an army motion picture service, which will present movies at all the camps. Soldiers will get a book of 10 tickets for $1.40. Some of the movie big tents will seat as many as 2,000.

The men themselves will be encouraged to pick talent from their ranks for the holding of amateur dramatic shows, athletic contests, football and baseball games, and also song evenings. An army song book is being prepared for circulation among the draftees.

The morale division recently held a referendum among regular army soldiers as to the songs they like. There were no votes for any of the naughty ones of the last war like "Mademoiselle From Armentieres."

The 10 which got the top votes were "America," "God Bless America," "Star Spangled Banner," "Home on the Range," "I Am an American," "My Buddy," "The Caissons," "The Last Roundup," "You're in the Army Now," and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny." These and similar songs chosen by the "regulars" will be in the draftees' song book.

Greek Defenders Reported Driving Italians Back Over Front

(By Associated Press)

Europe's war flared briefly in the Gulf of Mexico Saturday when four warships, reported probably Canadian, spoiled the plan of four German freighters to slip unobserved out of Tampico, Mexico, for a dash through the British blockade.

Confronted by the warships, the Nazis fired and scuttled the 4,137-ton Phrygia, while the other three—the Idarwald, 5,033 tons, the Rhein, 6,031 tons, and the Orinoco, 9,660 tons—beat a retreat through a storm to the harbor where they had been tied up since the start of the war.

The incident recalled to many the scuttling of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and the liner Columbus almost a year ago.

Three thousand miles to the northeast R. A. F. bombing planes, braving a strong channel gale, battered Nazi long range gun positions and invasion ports on the French coast last night, 24 hours after attacks on Hamburg and Kiel and on Germany's railway terminals, public utilities plants and an oil refinery.

Coventry, English Midlands industrial city, lay wasted by bombs while rescuers sought dead and wounded in the wreckage and King George cheered the survivors with a brief visit.

German sources described the Coventry raid as part of an effort to bring England to her knees before increasing United States help makes the job more difficult and as retaliation

WARMER WEATHER SEEN HERE TODAY

Fair Skies Will Prevail; Mercury Hit 23.4 Early Saturday

Fair and warmer weather was promised for Sunday in the United States Weather Bureau forecast issued at New Orleans. The Twin City section for three consecutive days experienced temperatures in the 20s.

The mercury got down to 23.4 degrees early Saturday but climbed during the day to a maximum of 62.8, according to Civil Aeronautics observers at Selman Field.

The rise in temperature was expected to be general. Arkansas was advised it would experience higher temperatures.

(By Associated Press)

A sharp change to warmer weather was promised the south Sunday after one of the most severe November cold spells in its history.

The federal forecaster in Atlanta said a "decided and rapid warming-up" would follow sub-freezing temperatures early in the morning and he predicted sunny skies for the next two or three days.

Before the mercury began to rise yesterday, it dived to record-smashing lows in many southern cities. Crops were damaged by the wintry blasts that held sway from Mississippi to the Carolinas and at least one death was attributed to the cold. Temperatures were lower than in any other section of the nation.

Snow flurries were reported at Bristol, Tenn., but elsewhere in the south the weather was clear.

An elderly woman was burned to death at Nashville, Tenn., when she lighted a fire for protection against 18-degree weather.

NEWSMAN WRITES OF WAR REFUGEES

Thousands Of Europe's Unfortunates Trying To Escape Horrors

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The tragic struggle of France's war refugees to escape through Portugal is told in the following story by Lloyd Lehrbas, who recently returned from a four months' assignment in France and Portugal. The Associated Press correspondent traveled much of the "road to freedom" he describes.)

By Lloyd Lehrbas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Lisbond, bottleneck of liberty, is today crowded with hundreds of refugees of all nationalities attempting to escape from Europe's agony to a haven somewhere on the American continent.

All hotels, rooming houses and many private homes, in the picturesque Portuguese capital are filled beyond capacity, and every arriving train, plane and bus brings more.

Every ship and every clipper-plane leaving is as tightly packed as a can of Portugal's famous sardines, with fleeing Jews, Germans, Austrians, Czechs, Poles, Belgians, French—as well as homebound Americans—willing to pay a good price for a ride anywhere.

Thousands more wait in unoccupied France, and a never-ending human stream of men, women and children—mostly the very young and the old—stretches across Spain and Portugal, struggling against innumerable financial and citizenship obstacles, transportation and food difficulties, and racial animosities.

Unofficial estimates set the number of Jewish citizens in France at 400,000 and many of them now want to leave the country—if possible—rather than face the new and severe anti-Jewish measures decreed by the Petain-Laval government in unoccupied France.

Jews in German-occupied France, already living under much more severe restrictions, constitute no refugee or immigration problem at the moment because Jews are not permitted to leave or enter the German conquered zone, including Paris.

More thousands of foreign Jews, who fled to France just ahead of the German armies have been struggling to get away from unoccupied France before the feared German anti-Semitic net could enmesh them. Many must now give up that hope.

An official of an American Jewish relief organization told me just before I left France that between 30,000 and 40,000 Jewish refugees, chiefly Poles, were in Marseille alone, unable to return to their homes and unable to leave France.

An estimated 20,000, many of whom are Jews, have been held in concentration camps at Du Vernet, Gurs, San Cyprien, and elsewhere in unoccupied France for months. Under new decrees the prefects of departments are empowered to set up more concentration camps for foreign Jews or [illegible] to fixed places of residence for them, similar to German and Polish ghettos.

When nearly 1,000,000 Belgian refugees in unoccupied France returned to their homes they left behind an estimated 40,000 Belgians, including many Jews, who would not or could not return to German-ruled Belgium.

In a village near the Spanish border I met an elderly Jewish woman who told me her son was a teacher in the New York City schools. She had fled from Austria to the Netherlands, to Belgium, and finally to that remote, momentary haven. Over unoccupied France are hundreds more like her, all praying they can get to the United States. Most are Jews, many are Dutch, Russians, Italians and a score of other nationalities.

An unknown number, reaching into the thousands, are already living on charity and facing a bitter winter of privation while they wait . . . Wait . . . Wait with dying hope.

To leave France all including Americans must have an exit visa.

No French, British or male of military age who is a citizen or subject of any of the nations overrun by Germany is permitted to leave unoccupied France today, presumably because of pressure brought by the Nazis.

Women, children, and males of non-military age must get a visa permitting them to cross or enter some other country before they can get an exit visa.

Since the United States and some Central and South American countries are the only ones now granting entry permits the thousands who want to leave France must wait weeks or months before their turn comes. Limitation on the number permitted to emigrate from European countries to the United States will force some to wait years.

It takes American citizens, with none of the counts against them that belligerent or conquered nationalities have, from two to three weeks to secure an exit visa because of the yards and yards of red-tape that must first be unwound.

I met some refugees who have been struggling for months to get that vital stamp on their papers.

Once they secure an exit visa other obstacles immediately spring up.

Spain will not grant a transit visa unless the refugee already has a Portuguese transit visa, consuls explaining that Spain is already short of food and overcrowded with refugees to such an extent it wants no more mouths to feed for more than the length of time it takes to cross the country.

Presumably acting at Germany's request, the Spanish also refuse to allow any British or males of military age from conquered nations to pass through Spain without special permission.

To get the Portuguese transit visa, the refugee must have a ticket for the American vessels that leave once a week, the few Greek and Japanese ships that still call at Lisbon, or the clipper—and you can't buy those tickets in France.

Refugees who have relatives or friends in the United States, or Lisbon, may have them buy the tickets and send authenticated papers to the Portuguese consulate, a transaction that takes weeks. How the friendless get tickets no one knows. The penniless never do.

By the time the refugees have gone through that vicious circle they generally find that their French exit visa (good for only eight days) has expired and they have to start all over again. If they are delayed too long they will also have to get extensions of their Spanish Portuguese transit visas, or sit in impotent heartbreak while the valid date of their American entry papers approaches, and sometimes expires.

Once they do get started they have to worry about money. You can take only 500 francs (roughly $11) out of France without a special permit. You can't take any pesetas into Spain and you are thoroughly searched to make sure. There are [illegible] regulations concerning what other articles [illegible] you can carry with you [illegible].

Trains in Spain are packed and the [illegible] uncomfortable without eating cars or sleeping cars. [illegible] are [illegible] because of the shortage of gasoline. Hotels at [illegible] are [illegible] booked long ahead and restaurants serve scantily rationed food.

Some refugees [illegible]

Unknown to fame, [illegible] many others who left France [illegible] along that [illegible] road to Lisbon and the statue of Liberty that looks like a shrine to those who finally see it.

Thousands more wait in unoccupied France, and a never-ending human stream of men, women and children—mostly the very young and the old—stretches across Spain and Portugal, struggling against innumerable financial and citizenship obstacles, transportation and food difficulties, and racial animosities.

Unofficial estimates set the number of Jewish citizens in France at 400,000 and many of them now want to leave the country—if possible—rather than face the new and severe anti-Jewish measures decreed by the Petain-Laval government in unoccupied France.

Jews in German-occupied France, already living under much more severe restrictions, constitute no refugee or immigration problem at the moment because Jews are not permitted to leave or enter the German conquered zone, including Paris.

More thousands of foreign Jews, who fled to France just ahead of the German armies have been struggling to get away from unoccupied France before the feared German anti-Semitic net could enmesh them. Many must now give up that hope.

An official of an American Jewish relief organization told me just before I left France that between 30,000 and 40,000 Jewish refugees, chiefly Poles, were in Marseille alone, unable to return to their homes and unable to leave France.

An estimated 20,000, many of whom are Jews, have been held in concentration camps at Du Vernet, Gurs, San Cyprian, and elsewhere in unoccupied France for months. Under new decrees the prefects of departments are empowered to set up more concentration camps for foreign Jews, or designate fixed places of residence for them, similar to German and Polish ghettos.

When nearly 1,000,000 Belgian refugees in unoccupied France returned to their homes they left behind an estimated 40,000 Belgians, including many Jews, who would not or could not return to German-ruled Belgium.

In a village near the Spanish border I met an elderly Jewish woman who told me her son was a teacher in the New York City schools. She had fled from Austria to the Netherlands, to Belgium, and finally to that remote, momentarily haven. Over unoccupied France are hundreds more like her, all praying they can get to the United States. Most are Jews, many are Dutch, Russians, Italians, and a score of other nationalities.

An unknown number, reaching into the thousands, are already living on charity, and facing a bitter winter of privation while they wait . . . Wait . . . Wait with dying hope.

To leave France all—including Americans—must have an exit visa.

No French, British or male of military age who is a citizen or subject of any of the nations overrun by Germany is permitted to leave unoccupied France today, presumably because of pressure brought by the Nazis.

Women, children ,and males of non-military age must get a visa permitting them to cross or enter some other country before they can get an exit visa.

Since the United States and some Central and South American countries are the only ones now granting entry permits the thousands who want to leave France must wait weeks or months before their turn comes. Limitation on the number permitted to emigrate from European countries to the United States will force some to wait years.

It takes American citizens, with none of the counts against them that belligerent or conquered nationalities have, from two to three weeks to secure an exit visa because of the yards and yards of red-tape that must first be unwound.

I met some refugees who have been struggling for months to get that vital stamp on their papers.

Once they secure an exit visa other obstacles immediately spring up.

Spain will not grant a transit visa unless the refugee already has a Portuguese transit visa, consuls explaining that Spain is already short of food and overcrowded with refugees to such an extent it wants no more mouths to feed for more than the length of time it takes to cross the country.

Presumably acting at Germany's request, the Spanish also refuse to allow any British or males of military age from conquered nations to pass through Spain without special permission.

To get the Portuguese transit visa, the refugee must have a ticket for the American vessels that leave once a week, the few Greek and Japanese ships that still call at Lisbon, or the clipper—and you can't buy those tickets in France.

Refugees who have relatives or friends in the United States, or Lisbon, may have them buy the tickets and send authenticated papers to the Portuguese consulate, a transaction that takes weeks. How the friendless get tickets no one known. The penniless never do.

By the time the refugees have gone through that vicious circle they generally find that their French exit visa (good for only eight days) has expired and they have to start all over again. If they are delayed too long they will also have to get extensions of their Spanish Portuguese transit visas, or sit in impotent hearbreak while the valid date of their American entry papers approaches, and sometimes expires.

Once they do get started they have to worry about money. You can take only 500 francs (roughly $11) out of France, without a special permit. You can't take any pesetas into Spain—and you are thoroughly searched to make sure. There are numerous customs regulations concerning what other articles you may or may not carry with you without paying heavy duty.

Trains and plane are packed and the journeys long and uncomfortable without dining cars or sleeping cars. Automobiles and buses are rarities because of the shortage of gasoline. Hotels at stopovers are booked up long ahead, and restaurants serve scanty, rationed meals.

The close watch the German gestapo keeps on the French-Spanish border, and on travelers in Spain, is in evidence at every border station and on railroads, roads and airports.

To escape the French, German and Spanish police, many refugees hire smuggler—guides to lead them over the mountainous border. Some get through safely, but many are caught somewhere in Spain and thrown into jail or a concentration camp.

Some refugees, mostly authors, doctors and other professional men, have been smuggled out of unoccupied France by an unofficial "underground railway" organization, and a few more now are "somewhere" along the way, living in hourly fear of getting caught.

Unknown to fame, without friends, many others who left France with "thank Gods" on their lips are missing" somewhere along that heartbreaking road to Lisbon—and the statue of liberty that looks like a shrine to those who finally see it.

Former Monroe Resident Seeks Post In Louisiana Teachers' Group

W. J. Dodd, Oakdale, chairman of the educational committee of the Louisiana House of Representatives, is a candidate for the presidency of the Louisiana Teachers' Association.

The Teacher's Convention

Monroe this week will be the center of Louisiana, educationally speaking. The annual convention of the Louisiana Teachers Association, composed of those men and women whose task it is to mould the youth of our state into thinking individuals with minds of their own, begins today.

Everyone now agrees—though some held out for a long time—that education is essential to the general scheme of things. But in the light of present affairs, education takes on greater importance than ever before in our nation's history.

Where, for example, but in the United States and the few remaining democracies of this war-torn world, would 5,000 men and women whose job it is to teach the truth, be allowed to gather to iron out problems peculiar to their profession? Certainly not in the domains of Messrs. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin—not in Japan and Spain.

The dictators would never permit a gathering of teachers, if the aim of those teachers was to find a way better to teach the truth. Totalitarianism and truth can't live under the same roof. Free thought is directly opposed to dictatorship.

The sessions of the Louisiana Teachers Association's convention will run for four days. They will involve a lot of discussion, but the result can only be a better educational system in Louisiana. The youngsters from Oil City to Pointe-a-la-Hache, and from Lake Providence to Sulphur will profit by this convention.

The thousands gathering here are a far cry from the schoolma'ams and schoolmasters who used to hold classes where they could and take out part of their fee (sometimes all) by boarding at their students' homes. Now the teaching profession ranks among the largest and most important in the country today—so important, in fact, that if our present educational system were destroyed it is extremely doubtful if our democracy, as we know it today, could long survive.

It's comforting to have brought so close to us the living proof that while dictators are busy making trouble, the teachers, upon whom we must depend for our childrens' learning the truth, are making progress.

Welcome to Monroe, teachers. We're glad to have you—and fortunate, too.

VISIONARY? YES! VISIONARY AND VITAL

The name of Solomon, King of Israel, has become a synonym of wisdom.

Among his proverbs is one which is especially worth recalling just at this time, when we are all thinking about the future of free government. Solomon said:

"Where there is no vision, the people perish."

Just as the whole zest of life is in having something to look forward to, so in the life of a people, the only thing that gives a social order any meaning (and therefore any strength) is the feeling that "we are getting somewhere—we have a splendid goal to achieve."

There has been too much talk of "preserving democracy." Certainly it must be preserved, but always with the thought before us of what it may become, can become, not what it used to be. The glory of the free way of life is not in what it has done, but in what it may do.

Professor Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago is perhaps the dean of American political scientists. He is as deep a student of government as lives, yet he is no ivory-tower dreamer. Professor Merriam has broken many a lance in the field of practical politics, and many a written constitution, charter, and state paper bears the mark of his hand and brain.

He has seen a vision of the future of free society, such a vision as we must all see if we are to understand that free government is worth fighting for. He sees future free governments and societies in which the role of power will not be repressive merely, but dynamic and constructive. "In these coming days," he says, "men may achieve not merely that personal security and community stability which alone might mean monotony and boredom. Men may look forward to adventurous participation in the process of creative evolution—in the constructive transformation and betterment of life conditions."

The 17th and 18th centuries, Professor Merriam says, won civil liberties by protecting person and property against arbitrary seizure and force. The 19th established political liberty through the right to vote and hold office. These are largely negative.

The positive stage now appears. It is open to this and following generations actually to mold conditions of social life in a positive direction—to remove special privilege and obstacles to the full development of personality, with accompanying expansion of liberty—education, economic security, and cultural opportunities.

Psychology, psychoanalysis, psycho-biology, medicine are all tools now available for this constructive building, as well as the familiar tools of political and economic devices.

The golden age lay in the dim past, men once believed. Today's free man sees with Dr. Merriam a golden age in the free future.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON — Henry Wallace's forthcoming trip to Mexico as FDR's personal envoy at the inauguration of President-elect Manuel Avila Camacho is more than simply an elaborate good-will gesture toward Mexico.

It foreshadows a new role for Wallace himself—that of the New Deal's chief good-will emissary for Latin-America generally.

If the cards fall as they are now shuffled, the South Americans may see about as much of Wallace this winter as will the United States senate, over which as vice-president he is due to preside. Contemplated is a sort of roving commission which would have the new vice-president concerning himself much more with the Latin-American problem than with the senate's deliberations.

This role would fit Wallace for three reasons.

First, he's an expert on the farm angle of the trade problem between the United States and South America—and the farm angle is a huge part of it. Second, no New Dealer is more convinced than Wallace that it is vital for this country to cement good relations, both trade and cultural, with the southern continent. Third, he speaks Spanish.

Wallace isn't hopeful that America's old export markets in Europe will ever be substantially regained. He foresees a post-war world in which—no matter who wins—Uncle Sam is likely to find himself trading against one or more big combines. The big chance to meet these combines on something like an even footing is, as he sees it, wrapped up in the Latin-American market.

Wallace could devote a lot of time to this job because no one ever misses a vice-president no matter where he goes. Also the title would mean something in South America. So you can look for him to do considerable traveling.

Spot For Leahy

It appears now that the New Deal has at last found a spot for retired Admiral William D. Leahy, former head of the United States navy. Leahy has been governor of Puerto Rico for about a year and hasn't been at all happy, the job being no bed of roses for anyone. Currently he is reported to have told friends on the island that he'd be returning to Washington in a couple of months or so to take a government job "more in keeping with his past experience."

One guess (but only a guess) is that he may replace Frank Knox as secretary of the navy.

Grocers Cooperate

Most remarkable thing about the Department of Agriculture's food stamp plan, in some ways, is the manner in which the retail grocers of the country have policed themselves to make the thing work.

Biggest potential trouble spot in the whole set-up has always been the chance that the individual grocer wouldn't obey the rules. If he'd let the relief clients spend their blue stamps for other things that the officially designated surplus commodities the entire thing would have flopped.

Right now about 100,000 grocers are participating in the plan. To date there have been fewer than 200 reports of violations. About half of these reports, on investigation, turned out to be false. Most of the balance were mistakes due to simple misunderstandings. Only half a dozen were real violations, serious enough to take into court.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16—It's high time someone doffed a bonnet to that rugged individualist, John Barrymore, who, in a town gone monotonously drab, still remains a bright, defiant splash of color.

Opinion about John is sharply divided. There are those who consider him a great artist, and those who call him a ham. There are those who condemn his more eccentric nip-ups (I like that word "nip" where John is concerned), and those who applaud. Some laugh with him, others laugh at him. But by Allah, no one can remain unconscious of his presence, for Barrymore is a master showman.

In his youth, he made feminine hearts from Bangor to San Diego pound like trip-hammers. And now, when time and strenuous living have left his classic profile in a state of semi-ruin, he still rates high as front page copy. Off hand, I can't think of another attraction as enduring—unless you count the Acropolis.

Other Hollywoodians would be wise to cease laughing at Caliban's Gasconades long enough to study his technique. Show business is still show business, and theater-goers still are eager to see those personalities which excite their curiosity.

Mind you, I'm not suggesting that every mime in Hollywood should emulate all of John's exploits, for there is a limit to what one's nerves can stand. But a mild bit of copy-catting might do a lot for the box office. It's becoming increasingly difficult to interest the public in today's impeccably dignified professional gentlemen of the screen.

Hollywood needs: A better system for analyzing a picture's entertainment values in advance . . . Fewer ex-appealers and more sex-appealers. . . . A law against glamorous stars shocking their fans by street appearances in dowdy togs. . . . Enough moral stamina to avoid the use of censorable screen material which may draw snickers but offends many theater-goers. . . An institute of physio-therapy specializing in reducing swollen heads. . . . A detention camp where screen mamas can be imprisoned while their talented tots are on the set. . . . More stars like Gene Autry, Clark Gable and Joan Crawford, who never meet the public without making friends. . . . A few heroes on studio payrolls with courage to say "no" when a no is called for.

Short true story: A few years ago, executives of 20th Century-Fox's London studio hired, for a few dollars a week, a young apprentice writer who fairly bubbled enthusiasm. Original plots flowed from his typewriter like juice from a Yakima cider mill. But studio officials, who seemingly make it a rule to discourage unknown scribes, tossed his efforts into the discard. At the end of six months, he was discharged. Now, let's bring the story up to date. Recently, the same film company paid $50,000 for screen rights to a best-selling novel, "How Green Was My Valley," and offered its author a king's ransom to join the studio writing staff. That author, Richard Llewellyn, is the man who was once fired in London—and his answer to the new job offer was a firm (contemptuous?) "No!"

Cuff notes: MGM and Hays office censors are quibbling over Lana Turner's bathtub exposures for "Ziegfeld Girl" . . . Opportunity Dept.: Producer Anthony Veiller will pay $1,000 to any mother who, within the next month, submits new-born quadruplets for "New York Town" scenes. . . . Did Paulette Goddard really crack to pals that "she would soon be so famous Charlie Chaplin would be known as Paulette Goddard's husband"? . . . Clark Gable and Carole Lombard are packing for a trailer-trek to Nebraska, where they'll visit her relatives. . . . On Thursday, Virginia Gilmore played maid-of-honor via long distance telephone for her school chum's wedding in Louisville.

The Hollywood parade: Victor McLaglen, idealist. Since hearing Mr. McLaglen express his pet theory, "Women have no faults that men don't drive 'em to," his loyal friends have organized a protective league—to keep him from talking to beauty operators. . . . Nelson Eddy, opportunist. Mr. Eddy, it is said, wears no starch in his collars, finding it more expedient to wear it in his back. . . . Ann Sheridan, individualist. Miss Sheridan's refusal to conform to Hollywood molds is illustrated by her ambition to play the harmonica, instead of aping other stars who only desire to toot their own horns.

Arthur Lake tells about the producer who, after a six-year engagement, was still financially unable to wed. One evening the would-be bride demanded a showdown. "Gee, honey," moaned the big shot, "I don't see how I can manage marriage right now, but I do want to be fair. How about giving me another year's option?"

SO THEY SAY

There is no disagreement among us about the defense of America.—Wendell Willkie, recent G. O. P. presidential candidate.

If capitalism, even under strain, leaves education in the lurch, it loses one of its own credits and increases its own danger.—Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, president Union College, urging greater endowments.

Nothing can touch America if it has unity; nobody can harm it, if its people stand together.—Richard L. Strout, political reporter.

BARBS

Everybody agrees that national unity is a fine thing, so let's make up our minds what it really means.

The Japs bought $19,000,000 worth of American machine tools last year. Any monkey wrenches?

Dallis Grubbs, Harrisburg, Neb., dug 462 bushels of spuds in 10 hours. Now, the army?

JUDICIAL UPPERCUT

CHICAGO—By order of the court, Irving Kiehn, 32, a prize-fighter, must cease introducing his wife as his sister.

The wife, Harriet, 25, complained to Judge Rudolph Desort that she was tired of being represented as a sister.

Kiehn explained the sister angle by saying that he goes to social functions where it is a handicap to be known as a married man.

NICE BOSSY

BAKERSFIELD, Calif.—A $60 cow caused a $13,000 wreck on the Tehachapi-Bakersfield highway.

Highway patrol officers said a huge gasoline truck and trailer came down a grade, struck the cow and "jack-knifed," piling up in a ditch. Forty-two hundred gallons of gasoline caught fire and destroyed the truck.

The driver, Lawrence Antonini, escaped without injury.

The cow died.

One ugly aspect of our modern world is the slide of diplomacy down into a shoddy game of spy and counter-spy. Not that this is entirely new. In Plutarch's chronicles of early Greece, diplomacy and espionage are often inseparable. From there on, down to Talleyrand and beyond, no knowing diplomat ever had one of his own men shot because he had access to a peep-hole or a pipe-line.

But not all diplomats have been slickers. Behind what appears to be the elaborate make-believe of diplomatic punctilio, in spite of the tra- [illegible]

We certainly wore our heart on our sleeve. We shepherded them all over the country, gave them a complete picture of our power developments, at the international power conference at Washington, showed them our factories, laboratories, railroads and bus systems. When the New York Bankers' club was entertaining them at a luncheon, some disturbers down in the street were carrying banners, sounding a warning against the guests as visitors up to no good. A squad of fifty policemen rushed them. A newspaper story of the next day said, "Fortunately, the noise of the disturbance did not reach up to the luncheon on the thirty-eighth floor." Even then we could have used a few domestic listening posts.

He will grow and if he is well-taught and treated, he will become as useful and as intelligent an adult as his father or mother or teacher. If every stage of their development had been posted on a card or on the town hall walls, would they have been any the better for it, or as good as they are today?

Some of these new report cards are too much for the teacher and for the pupil, too. The successful pupil needs no such analysis. The unsuccessful one should be analyzed by his teacher, his records kept privately, and provision made for his growth through treatment and wise guidance.

Records look good in the cabinets and they sound well in conferences, but unless they function for the good of the pupil they might better go down the chute today.

What's the best way to introduce the new baby into a family of brothers and sisters? This and similar questions are helpfully answered in Angelo Patri's booklet, "Your Child and Other People." Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 24
Text: Luke 8:4-15
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The title of this lesson, "Attitudes Towards the Gospel Message," rightly interprets the real point and meaning of a great parable that has almost universally been wrongly titled. This socalled "Parable of the Sower" ought really to have been called the "Parable of the Ground," or the "Parable of the Hearer"; for its lesson is not "Take heed how ye sow," but "Take heed how ye hear."

The parable was a favorite method of Jesus in His teaching and preaching. Sometimes today those who read the Gospels seize upon this to point out how simple was the teaching of Jesus, how much it appealed to the people, and how easily it was understood.

A keener reading, however, would show how incorrect this is. The parables seem simple in their story form, but almost invariably those who heard Jesus were somewhat puzzled. The story may have taken hold in their minds, but they did not understand what it meant; so they asked Him again and again to interpret the parable and make its meaning plain.

The Christian truth contained in the gospel and in the application of the gospel to life is deep and varied. It cannot always be made simple. There are things that ought to be made so clear that he who runs may read; but there are other things in the gospel that reveal the fullness and richness of their meaning only through study and meditation and prayer.

The way of the Christian life is not morally or spiritually easy. Truth is a quest, and those who would know and understand the truth must be willing to take pains and make sacrifices that they may know and understand.

But to get back to the parable Jesus interpreted. It is a parable for hearers. The seed sown is the word, but in human hearts and minds is the ground. God has broadcast the seed very widely, but if our hearts are stony, the seed will not take root or produce anything. If the ground of our hearts is shallow, there will be no growth or harvest. But if we take the seed of God's word and truth into deep and honest hearts, it will bring forth fruit manifold.

This parable at least seems clear and plain when we put the emphasis upon the hearer. To make it a parable of the sower would be to pervert the real truth; for if the sower considered too much the ground, he might not sow at all. Or if he watched to see whether every seed were taking root, he might become discouraged.

So far as sowing is concerned, the truth is expressed in the verse of a well-known hymn:

"Sow in the morning thy seed,
At eve hold not thy hand;
"To doubt and fear give thou no ear;
"Broadcast it o'er the land."

It is the fact that the seed of God's truth is so widely broadcast that makes it important that we should carefully consider and prepare the ground of our own hearts.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON—If Italy, in its attempted blitzkrieg on Greece, starts raining bombs on Athens, it will be the destruction of what nearly all American continental travelers refer to as "the most superficially American city in Europe or Asia."

This is a phrase that needs some explaining, but it boils down to the fact that there are few if any cities on the continent where an American can feel so much at home . . . so little a stranger in a foreign land.

Almost daily now, I find newspapermen, foreign service officials, former tourists shaking their heads sadly over the prospective plight of Athens and recalling visits to the metropolis of the Aegean as their happiest days abroad. Why?

Because at the kiosks on the streets of Athens, you probably can buy more American newspapers and magazines than anywhere else outside this hemisphere. On the Athens rialto are at least a dozen movies where neon lights boldly announce Hollywood films in American and without the bother of Greek subtitles. In the drug stores you find all of the locally nationally-advertised brands of toilet articles. In the restaurants, you can get American food cooked in the Greek-American manner. In the groceries, you can buy American canned goods and in the shops and department stores are wares bearing American labels.

Tops Them All

I have no intention of exaggerating [illegible] Athens, Greece, is not Athens, Ga., but I haven't talked to a traveler here who hasn't commented that it is probably easier to get by in Athens, Greece, without speaking a foreign language than in any of the continental [illegible]

Jugoslavia's Boy King Becomes a War Lord

THIS being a king is a tough job. And getting ready to rule 15,000,000 subjects is just as hard. King Peter II of Jugoslavia, with 18 months of army training ahead of him, has discovered that.

Jugoslavia's boy king has started the final phase of his training as a monarch. An intensive course in military science winds up seven years of preparation for the day—Sept. 6, 1941—when he will be crowned.

Peter was a boy of 11, as pictured on the 1933 Jugoslav stamp above, when the assassination of his father, on Oct. 9, 1934, called him home from an English school, started him on the way to being a king.

Five years were devoted to study of languages—he speaks five—elements of administration and government, history, science and the elements of military education. He had little time for play, lived according to a strict routine.

He's in the army now, as a buck private. But he won't spend much time in the barracks. Teachers of Belgrade Military School come to the palace to give him instruction.

The Teacher's Convention

Monroe this week will be the center of Louisiana, educationally speaking. The annual convention of the Louisiana Teachers Association, composed of those men and women whose task it is to mould the youth of our state into thinking individuals with minds of their own, begins today.

Everyone now agrees—though some held out for a long time—that education is essential to the general scheme of things. But in the light of present affairs, education takes on greater importance than ever before in our nation's history.

Where, for example, but in the United States and the few remaining democracies of this war-torn world, would 5,000 men and women whose job it is to teach the truth, be allowed to gather to iron out problems peculiar to their profession? Certainly not in the domains of Messrs. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin—not in Japan and Spain.

The dictators would never permit a gathering of teachers, if the aim of those teachers was to find a way better to teach the truth. Totalitarianism and truth can't live under the same roof. Free thought is directly opposed to dictatorship.

The sessions of the Louisiana Teachers Association's convention will run for four days. They will involve a lot of discussion, but the result can only be a better educational system in Louisiana. The youngsters from Oil City to Pointe-a-la-Hache, and from Lake Providence to Sulphur will profit by this convention.

The thousands gathering here are a far cry from the schoolma'ams and schoolmasters who used to hold classes where they could and take out part of their fee (sometimes all) by boarding at their students' homes. Now the teaching profession ranks among the largest and most important in the country today—so important, in fact, that if our present educational system were destroyed it is extremely doubtful if our democracy, as we know it today, could long survive.

It's comforting to have brought so close to us the living proof that while dictators are busy making trouble, the teachers, upon whom we must depend for our childrens' learning the truth, are making progress.

Welcome to Monroe, teachers. We're glad to have you—and fortunate, too.

VISIONARY? YES! VISIONARY AND VITAL

The name of Solomon, King of Israel, has become a synonym of wisdom.

Among his proverbs is one which is especially worth recalling just at this time, when we are all thinking about the future of free government. Solomon said:

"Where there is no vision, the people perish."

Just as the whole zest of life is in having something to look forward to, so in the life of a people, the only thing that gives a social order any meaning (and therefore any strength) is the feeling that "we are getting somewhere—we have a splendid goal to achieve."

There has been too much talk of "preserving democracy." Certainly it must be preserved, but always with the thought before us of what it may become, can become, not what it used to be. The glory of the free way of life is not in what it has done, but in what it may do.

Professor Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago is perhaps the dean of American political scientists. He is as deep a student of government as lives, yet he is no ivory-tower dreamer. Professor Merriam has broken many a lance in the field of practical politics, and many a written constitution, charter, and state paper bears the mark of his hand and brain.

He has seen a vision of the future of free society, such a vision as we must all see if we are to understand that free government is worth fighting for. He sees future free governments and societies in which the role of power will not be repressive merely, but dynamic and constructive. "In these coming days," he says, "men may achieve not merely that personal security and community stability which alone might mean monotony and boredom. Men may look forward to adventurous participation in the process of creative evolution—in the constructive transformation and betterment of life conditions."

The 17th and 18th centuries, Professor Merriam says, won civil liberties by protecting person and property against arbitrary seizure and force. The 19th established political liberty through the right to vote and hold office. These are largely negative.

The positive stage now appears. It is open to this and following generations actually to mold conditions of social life in a positive direction—to remove special privilege and obstacles to the full development of personality, with accompanying expansion of liberty—education, economic security, and cultural opportunities.

Psychology, psychoanalysis, psycho-biology, medicine are all tools now available for this constructive building, as well as the familiar tools of political and economic devices.

The golden age lay in the dim past, men once believed. Today's free man sees with Dr. Merriam a golden age in the free future.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON — Henry Wallace's forthcoming trip to Mexico as FDR's personal envoy at the inauguration of President-elect Manuel Avila Camacho is more than simply an elaborate good-will gesture toward Mexico.

It foreshadows a new role for Wallace himself—that of the New Deal's chief good-will emissary for Latin-America generally.

If the cards fall as they are now shuffled, the South Americans may see about as much of Wallace this winter as will the United States senate, over which as vice-president he is due to preside. Contemplated is a sort of roving commission which would have the new vice-president concerning himself much more with the Latin-American problem than with the senate's deliberations.

This role would fit Wallace for three reasons.

First, he's an expert on the farm angle of the trade problem between the United States and South America—and the farm angle is a huge part of it. Second, no New Dealer is more convinced than Wallace that it is vital for this country to cement good relations, both trade and cultural, with the southern continent. Third, he speaks Spanish.

Wallace isn't hopeful that America's old export markets in Europe will ever be substantially regained. He foresees a post-war world in which—no matter who wins—Uncle Sam is likely to find himself trading against one or more big combines. The big chance to meet these combines on something like an even footing is, as he sees it, wrapped up in the Latin-American market.

Wallace could devote a lot of time to this job because no one ever misses a vice-president no matter where he goes. Also the title would mean something in South America. So you can look for him to do considerable traveling.

Spot For Leahy

It appears now that the New Deal has at last found a spot for retired Admiral William D. Leahy, former head of the United States navy. Leahy has been governor of Puerto Rico for about a year and hasn't been at all happy, the job being no bed of roses for anyone. Currently he is reported to have told friends on the island that he'd be returning to Washington in a couple of months or so to take a government job "more in keeping with his past experience."

One guess (but only a guess) is that he may replace Frank Knox as secretary of the navy.

Grocers Cooperate

Most remarkable thing about the Department of Agriculture's food stamp plan, in some ways, is the manner in which the retail grocers of the country have policed themselves to make the thing work.

Biggest potential trouble spot in the whole set-up has always been the chance that the individual grocer wouldn't obey the rules. If he'd let the relief clients spend their blue stamps for other things that the officially designated surplus commodities the entire thing would have flopped.

Right now about 100,000 grocers are participating in the plan. To date there have been fewer than 200 reports of violations. About half of these reports, on investigation, turned out to be false. Most of the balance were mistakes due to simple misunderstandings. Only half a dozen were real violations, serious enough to take into court.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16.—It's high time someone doffed a bonnet to that rugged individualist, John Barrymore, who, in a town gone monotonously drab, still remains a bright, defiant splash of color.

Opinion about John is sharply divided. There are those who consider him a great artist, and those who call him a ham. There are those who condemn his more eccentric nip-ups (I like that word "nip" where John is concerned), and those who applaud. Some laugh with him, others laugh at him. But by Allah, no one can remain unconscious of his presence, for Barrymore is a master showman.

In his youth, he made feminine hearts from Bangor to San Diego pound like trip-hammers. And now, when time and strenuous living have left his classic profile in a state of semi-ruin, he still rates high as front page copy. Off hand, I can't think of another attraction as enduring—unless you count the Acropolis.

Other Hollywoodians would be wise to cease laughing at Caliban's Gasconades long enough to study his technique. Show business is still show business, and theater-goers still are eager to see those personalities which excite their curiosity.

Mind you, I'm not suggesting that every mime in Hollywood should emulate all of John's exploits, for there is a limit to what one's nerves can stand. But a mild bit of copy-catting might do a lot for the box office. It's becoming increasingly difficult to interest the public in today's impeccably dignified professional gentlemen of the screen.

Hollywood needs: A better system for analyzing a picture's entertainment values in advance. . . . Fewer ex-appealers and more sex-appealers. . . . A law against glamorous stars shocking their fans by street appearances in dowdy togs. . . . Enough moral stamina to avoid the use of censorable screen material which may draw snickers but offends many theater-goers. . . . An institute of physio-therapy specializing in reducing swollen heads. . . . A detention camp where screen mamas can be imprisoned while their talented tots are on the set. . . . More stars like Gene Autry, Clark Gable and Joan Crawford, who never meet the public without making friends. . . . A few heroes on studio payrolls with courage to say "no" when a no is called for.

Short true story: A few years ago, executives of 20th Century-Fox's London studio hired, for a few dollars a week, a young apprentice writer who fairly bubbled enthusiasm. Original plots flowed from his typewriter like juice from a Yakima cider mill. But studio officials, who seemingly make it a rule to discourage unknown scribes, tossed his efforts into the discard. At the end of six months, he was discharged. Now, let's bring the story up to date: Recently, the same film company paid $50,000 for screen rights to a best-selling novel, "How Green Was My Valley," and offered its author a king's ransom to join the studio writing staff. That author, Richard Llewellyn, is the man who was once fired in London—and his answer to the new job offer was a firm (contemptuous?) "No!"

Cuff notes: MGM and Hays office censors are quibbling over Lana Turner's bathtub exposures for "Ziegfeld Girl." . . . Opportunity Dept.: Producer Anthony Veiller will pay $1,000 to any mother who, within the next month, submits new-born quadruplets for "New York Town" scenes. . . . Did Paulette Goddard really crack to pals that "she would soon be so famous Charlie Chaplin would be known as Paulette Goddard's husband"? . . . Clark Gable and Carole Lombard are packing for a trailer-trek to Nebraska, where they'll visit her relatives. . . . On Thursday, Virginia Gilmore played maid-of-honor via long distance telephone for her school chum's wedding in Louisville.

The Hollywood parade: Victor McLaglen, idealist. Since hearing Mr. McLaglen express his pet theory, "Women have no faults that men don't drive 'em to," his loyal friends have organized a protective league—to keep him from talking to beauty operators. . . . Nelson Eddy, opportunist. Mr. Eddy, it is said, wears no starch in his collars, finding it more expedient to wear it in his back. . . . Ann Sheridan, individualist. Miss Sheridan's refusal to conform to Hollywood molds is illustrated by her ambition to play the harmonica, instead of aping other stars who only desire to toot their own horns.

Arthur Lake tells about the producer who, after a six-year engagement, was still financially unable to wed. One evening the would-be bride demanded a showdown. "Gee, honey," moaned the big shot, "I don't see how I can manage marriage right now, but I do want to be fair. How about giving me another year's option?"

The wife, Harriet, 25, complained to Judge Rudolph Desort that she was tired of being represented as a sister.

Kiehn explained the sister angle by saying that he goes to social functions where it is a handicap to be known as a married man.

The judge couldn't see the point, and issued an injunction restraining Irving from making the false introductions.

BAKERSFIELD, Calif.—A $60 cow caused a $13,000 wreck on the Tehachapi-Bakersfield highway.

Highway patrol officers said a huge gasoline truck and trailer came down a grade, struck the cow and "jack-nifed," piling up in a ditch. Forty-two hundred gallons of gasoline caught fire and destroyed the truck.

The driver, Lawrence Antonini, escaped without injury.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1940, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Congressman Dies keeps on pegging fifth-column tips to the F. B. I. Some of these tips lead to German diplomatic officials in this country. There have been several thumping big exposures. But the G-men are held in leash. Our state department seems to fear that drastic action against propaganda and espionage might bring about a break in our diplomatic relations with Germany. Thus we would lose our last few listening posts on the continent.

One can accord to Secretary Hull high motives and a specially informed viewpoint. But there does seem to be considerable urgency about some effective action against foreign sabotage, particularly in view of the fact that Mr. Dies definitely foresees and forecasts certain specific disasters to come. One could conceive this going on to a day when we might have left nothing else but listening posts in Europe.

Woodrow Wilson was reluctant to press vigorously against spies and wreckers in 1914 and 1915, or conceive of such outrages against neutrality as the Black Tom disaster. When the final record of death and devastation was revealed, he said: "I found it impossible to believe that this could happen." Therefore, he vigorously sanctioned legislation to strengthen our intelligence services and the federal investigating and punitive powers.

Like Woodrow Wilson, Secretary Hull is a very high-minded man. He, too, may find it hard really to believe that such things can happen—os any decent man finds it hard to believe. But they do happen. The spies and saboteurs are with us again.

One ugly aspect of our modern world is the slide of diplomacy down into a shoddy game of spy and counter-spy. Not that this is entirely new. In Plutarch's chronicles of early Greece, diplomacy and espionage are often inseparable. From then on, down to Tallyrand and beyond, no knowing diplomat ever had one of his own men shot because he had access to a peep-hole or a pipe-line.

But not all diplomats have been slickers. Behind what appears to be the elaborate make-believe of diplomatic punctilio, in spite of the traditional hocus-pocus of precis writing, in spite of the standardized double-talk and trick phrasing, there has grown up in the centuries since Grotius an effort to formulate in law and language a procedure of honest intercourse among nations. In many instances it has failed tragically. In others, it has served. And our state department is, of course, admitting the failure of diplomacy when its concern for continued diplomatic relations with Germany involves only "listening posts."

It appears to me that we will be eternally on the short end of this espionage and sabotage business. We've never had to do it and I doubt if we could learn. But perhaps we can learn to defend ourselves against it, on our own home grounds, and, if we are successful, never will have to engage in the more or less common practice of sending wrecking crews abroad.

As for listening posts, we might just let the newspaper boys attend to that in Europe and Asia, and establish a few listening posts at home. Such watchfulness might have served us well in September, 1936, when charming and ingratiating old General Franz Ritter von Epp, head of the German Colonial League, paid a visit to this country, with 105 German engineers, scientists and industralists. They said they had tremendous admiration for this country's great technical and industrial achievements, and had come here to study them.

We certainly wore our heart on our sleeve. We shepherded them all over the country, gave them a complete picture of our power developments, at the international power conference at Washington, showed them our factories, laboratories, railroads and bus systems. When the New York Bankers' club was entertaining them at a luncheon, some disturbers down in the street were carrying banners, sounding a warning against the guests as visitors up to no good. A squad of fifty policemen rushed them. A newspaper story of the next day said, "Fortunately, the noise of the disturbance did not reach up to the luncheon on the thirty-eighth floor." Even then we could have used a few domestic listening posts.

OUR CHILDREN

ANALYTIC REPORT CARD HARMFUL

By Angelo Patri

Children are never as perfect as their teachers, yet their parents expect them to be. They, being children, and as yet undeveloped human beings, fall short of adult standards in many ways and quite naturally. Why should they be expected to be one hundred per cent? Why do parents who never got one hundred per cent any time, any where, demand it of their children? Yet they do, and so do teachers.

Parents ought to have a report from the school every so often so that they can have some idea of how their children are doing, what they are learning, what success they are having, and what they need in the way of help. The old card that said "Satisfactory" or "Unsatisfactory" left great gaps through which failing children, disinterested parents and helpless teachers could slip easily and unconsciously. The card that analyzes the child minutely, in fifty items on character alone, is even more impossible.

How can a teacher who meets a pupil daily for five busy hours know that much about a child? And how could she find the time to study him so minutely, or to write out those fifty odd items conscientiously month by month? Does a child change in character each month? Each day? Not at all? When and how is the teacher to keep such minute watch as that?

Imagine the effect a care of this kind has on the failing child. He looks down the long row of red marks. He sees himself charted as a failure again and again. He is untidy, noisy, noncooperative, lacks initiative, etc., down the list. He feels himself naked to his enemies. No help for such a one as he.

And what happens to him after he gets that card? His family are disgusted with him. So is the teacher. He is scolded, maybe beaten. That's the result of the whole tedious business. Much of what was recorded in red ink on that card was but the expression of his stage of growth.

He will grow and if he is well-taught and trained, he will become as useful and as intelligent an adult as his father or mother or teacher. If every stage of their development had been posted on a card or on the town hall walls, would they have been any the better for it, or as good as they are today?

Some of these new report cards are too much for the teacher and for the pupil, too. The successful pupil needs no such analysis. The unsuccessful one should be analyzed by his teacher, his records kept privately, and provision made for his growth through treatment and wise guidance.

Records look good in the cabinets and they sound well in conferences, but unless they function for the good of the pupil they might better go down the chute today.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON—If Italy, in its attempted blitzkrieg on Greece, starts raining bombs on Athens, it will be the destruction of what nearly all American continental travelers refer to as "the most superficially American city in Europe or Asia."

This is a phrase that needs some explaining, but it boils down to the fact that there are few if any cities on the continent where an American can feel so much at home . . . so little a stranger in a foreign land.

Almost daily now, I find newspapermen, foreign service officials, former tourists shaking their heads sadly over the prospective plight of Athens and recalling visits to the metropolis of the Aegean as their happiest days abroad. Why?

Because at the kiosks on the streets of Athens, you probably can buy more American newspapers and magazines than anywhere else outside this hemisphere. On the Athens rialto are at least a dozen movies where neon lights boldly announce Hollywood films in American and without the bother of Greek subtitles. In the drug stores you find all of the locally nationally-advertised brands of toilet articles. In the restaurants, you can get American food cooked in the Greek-American manner. In the groceries, you can buy American canned goods and in the shops and department stores are wares bearing American labels.

Torn Them All

I have no intention of exaggerating this. Athens, Greece, is not Athens, Ga., but I haven't talked to a traveler here who hasn't commented that it is probably easier to get by in Athens, Greece, without speaking a foreign language than in any of the continental cities.

The reason for all this is simply that probably more Greeks than any other nationality have come to America to make their fortunes, large or small, and returned to live out their days and rear their families in the "old country." Living is so cheap (or at least has been down through the years) that a man with a few thousand dollars can return to his little village, buy a small farm, a cow, goats and a few olive trees and live like the king of his community. These affluent repatriots, having gotten a taste of American life, demand such things as western and detective stories, a copy of the "old home town" newspaper, American movies, and a few luxuries such as American toothpaste, scented soap, ten-cent lipstick.

Lived At Little Rock

A friend told me this story. She was traveling less than two years ago in the mountains where the people have been hearing the thunder of guns. At a little village, the party stopped and she hiked off alone to a tiny house that topped a nearby crest. There were a half a dozen children about and when they found that the lady came from America, they insisted that she wait to meet their father. Soon he came and in the heartiest Americanese that ever rolled over the Ozarks, told his visitor that he had lived for 19 years and amassed "his fortune" in the "greatest little city in the southwest," Little Rock, Ark.

All over Greece, from Crete to Macedonia, it is the same. The condition is enhanced no doubt by the fact that there is a conflict in our naturalization laws and Greece does not recognize an American natural . . . if he returns to Greece. Many now are finding out about that. Having returned to the old country, they are being inducted into the service, regardless of their American naturalization papers.

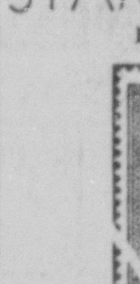
Acropolis And Parthenon?

There is one other point that former tourists to Athens are wondering about. Will the axis, raining bombs from the sky above Athens, blast the Acropolis and complete destruction of the Parthenon which was started by an Italian and a German just 253 years ago?

In 1687, the Doge, Morosini, and a German prince, laid siege to Athens, blew up the powder magazine in the Parthenon, and began the vandalism of Pericles' great masterpiece of Attic art which eventually reduced it to its present state of ruin.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein



Jugoslavia's Boy King Becomes a War Lord

THIS being a king is a tough job. And getting ready to rule 15,000,000 subjects is just as hard. King Peter II of Jugoslavia, with 18 months of army training ahead of him, has discovered that.

Jugoslavia's boy king has started the final phase of his training as a monarch. An intensive course in military science winds up seven years of preparation for the day—Sept. 6, 1941—when he will be crowned.

Peter was a boy of 11, as pictured on the 1933 Jugoslav stamp above, when the assassination of his father, on Oct. 9, 1934, called him home from an English school, started him on the way to being a king.

Five years were devoted to study of languages—he speaks five—elements of administration and government, history, science and the elements of military education. He had little time for play, lived according to a strict routine.

He's in the army now, as a buck private. But he won't spend much time in the barracks. Teachers of Belgrade Military School come to the palace to give him instruction.

STOKES SEEKING DEPARTMENT POST

Announces Candidacy For President Of Classroom Teachers

Milton Stokes, Evergreen, first vice-president of the department of classroom teachers, of the Louisiana Teachers' association, has announced his candidacy to the presidency of the department.

Officers will be elected at the convention to be held here Sunday through Thursday.

Receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Louisiana State normal in 1935, Mr. Stokes did graduate work at Louisiana State university for three years beginning in 1937. He was awarded a Louisiana State scholarship to Peabody in 1940, and in the same year he was elected vice-president of the Louisiana club at Peabody.

Mr. Stokes also is a life member of the National Education association, vice-president of the Alumni association at Southeastern college, chairman of the legislative committee of the department of classroom teachers, and chairman of the research committee of the Avoyelles Parish Teachers association.

During his term as first vice-president of the department of classroom teachers, an organization made up of approximately 90 per cent of the membership of the L. T. A., Mr. Stokes said that he worked with one objective—that of making the department the outstanding section of the association.

His platform as a presidential candidate follows:

Continue efforts to secure an adequate salary. The president of the department of classroom teachers should be an ex-officio member of all L. T. A. committees. The time scheduled for the annual meeting of the department should not conflict with other meetings of teachers engaged in classroom activities. Will work toward securing an increased allocation of funds for the department. The department should send an outstanding classroom teacher to the national convention of classroom teachers. Propose that the campaign to establish local units of classroom teachers be continued. Will strive to bring about a spirit of closer cooperation between executive council of L. T. A. and department of classroom teachers.

"While fully realizing the responsibilities thrown upon the president's shoulders, I offer my experience and training as evidences of my ability to serve the department."

STOKES SEEKING DEPARTMENT POST

Announces Candidacy For President Of Classroom Teachers

Milton Stokes, Evergreen, first vice-president of the department of classroom teachers, of the Louisiana Teachers' association, has announced his candidacy to the presidency of the department.

Officers will be elected at the convention to be held here Sunday through Thursday.

Receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Louisiana State normal in 1935, Mr. Stokes did graduate work at Louisiana State university for three years beginning in 1937. He was awarded a Louisiana State scholarship to Peabody in 1940, and in the same year he was elected vice-president of the Louisiana club at Peabody.

Mr. Stokes also is a life member of the National Education association, vice-president of the Alumni association at Southeastern college, chairman of the legislative committee of the department of classroom teachers, and chairman of the research committee of the Avoyelles Parish Teachers association.

During his term as first vice-president of the department of classroom teachers, an organizatin made up of approximately 90 per cent of the membership of the L. T. A., Mr. Stokes said that he worked with one objective—that of making the department the outstanding section of the association.

His platform as a presidential candidate follows:

Continue efforts to secure an adequate salary. The president of the department of classroom teachers should be an ex-officio member of all L. T. A. committees. The time scheduled for the annual meeting of the department should not conflict with other meetings of teachers engaged in classroom activities. Will work toward securing an increased allocation of funds for the department. The department should send an outstanding classroom teacher to the national convention of classroom teachers. Propose that the campaign to establish local units of classroom teachers be continued. Will strive to bring about a spirit of closer cooperation between executive council of L. T. A. and department of classroom teachers.

"While fully realizing the responsibilities thrown upon the president's shoulders, I offer my experience and training as evidences of my ability to serve the department."

ETS SHOCK FOOTBALL WORLD

George Franck and Bruce Smith breaking loose for frequent gains. Stanford, heading straight for the Pacific Coast crown and the Rose Bowl, once more uncovered a brilliant offense and tripped Oregon State, 28-14.

Tennessee rolled up a 41-14 count on Virginia; Lafayette bowled over Western Maryland, 40-7; Mississippi State slugged Millsaps, 46-13; Penn State blanked New York university, 25-0; and Texas Tech turned back Wake Forest, 12-7.

In the south, Duke and Auburn were victims of amazing upsets and Alabama just barely made the grade against Georgia Tech, 14-13. Duke was upset by North Carolina, 6-3, thanks to Jim LaLanne's passing, while Leo Bird led Louisiana State to a 21-13 triumph over tough Auburn. Clemson just got up to tie Southwestern of Tennessee, 12-12, in another surprise and Furman's 25-7 victory over South Carolina was still another.

Tulane got going in the fourth quarter to pull out a 21-13 decision over Georgia in one of the few games in the south that followed preliminary specifications.

A crowd of 76,749 saw Bob Westfall pace Michigan to a 20-13 victory over Northwestern while Don Scott counted twice to carry Ohio State past Illinois, 14-6. Wisconsin in-and-outers were definitely "in" and routed Indiana, 27-10. Ray Apolskis' 70-yard run with an intercepted pass and the subsequent extra point gave Marquette a 7-6 decision over Michigan State. In the Big Six, Oklahoma stopped Missouri, 7-0, and Iowa State halted Kansas State, 12-0.

Southern Methodist and Texas were victors in Southwest conference tests, the former routing Arkansas, 28-0, and Texas pushing past Texas Christian, 21-14. Baylor trounced tough Tulsa, 20-6.

In the east, West Virginia surprised by nipping Kentucky, 9-7, with a late rally while Nebraska was pushed to the limit before it got past Pitt, by the same score. George Washington won over Kansas, 6-0, and Hardin Simmons, unbeaten and untied, won over Catholic, 27-19.

Penn, getting ready for Cornell next week, ran up a 48-0 score on Army, worst defeat an Army team ever suffered. Navy gained plenty of ground but was lucky to get a scoreless tie with Columbia when Len Will's try for a Columbia field goal just missed. Bob Sandbach's fourth-quarter field goal gave Princeton a 10-7 victory over Yale as Harvard's fast-improving forces took Brown over the jumps, 14-0. Indian Bill Geyer's 55-yard touchdown run and the ensuing extra point enabled Colgate to trip Syracuse, 7-6, while Holy Cross surprised by getting a 6-6 draw with Temple. Villanova won over Manhattan, 13-6, and Williams, routing Amherst, 19-6, won the Little Three crown.

In the far west, Washington kept its slim championship hopes alive by whipping Southern California, 14-0. California stopped Oregon, 14-6, and U. C. L. A. finally won a ball game after seven straight defeats, beating Washington State, 34-26. Gonzaga surprised Detroit, 13-7.

In the Big Seven, Colorado whipped Brigham Young, 25-2; Denver beat Utah State, 34-6, and Utah won over Colorado State, 27-0.

GREEKS CRUSHING ITALIAN TROOPS

military importance but no casualties were reported."

The recapture of Konitza meant the reoccupation of one of the last salients still held by the Italians in Greek territory.

It was part of a general offensive declared to be driving the Italians back on the entire front from the Yugoslav frontier to the Ionian sea.

Along the coast, the Greek navy was reported shelling the retreating Fascists behind their lines.

The government spokesman said that in addition to the success at Koritza there were reports, not yet officially confirmed, that 750 Italian prisoners had been taken and four big guns seized.

There were also reports that Greek troops had taken the village of Morava, about three miles from the important Italian base of Koritza in Albania. Koritza is at the northern sector of the battle front while Konitza is in the central Pindus region.

The whole lofty 100-mile-long battlefront erupted violently. Every weapon in the Greek armory—bayoneted rifles, machine guns, artillery, bombing planes—was thrown into the struggle in the hope that the war was approaching a decision.

The official radio, echoing military dispatches to the press, announced to the country:

"The enemy has been dislodged from all positions. The organized defense can hardly withstand the Greek attacks for more than a few hours."

The activity of the Greek navy, reported by the newspaper Zina, was not discussed in detail, but it was declared that all Italian positions were "increasingly menaced" and that Italian communications generally were in imminent peril of destruction.

Greek sources asserted that the entire Italian army in Albania was in danger of being cut into three parts and thus encircled segment by segment.

The heaviest of the day's action was in the northern sector, where there was violent artillery dueling and air-fighting.

The Italians were reported to have rushed reinforcements to that region—before they could establish satisfactory communication with supply bases, the Greeks said—but to have failed nevertheless to halt the slow encirclement of Koritza, Albania, by Greek forces completing the operation from the northeast.

In the center of the front the Greeks, operating from a high, cold line on the Grammos mountains, claimed to be pressing a steady advance toward Leskovik, Albania.

They said the Italians were retreating in the Kalamas district and had hastily recrossed the river of that name.

Everywhere, according to Greek accounts, the major action was on Albanian territory and at some points well within that Italian-dominated country, from which the invasion was sprung 20 days ago.

FOUR NAZI SHIPS ARE INTERCEPTED

inoco. The Orinoco was having engine trouble and lagging close to port when the Idarwald and Rhein turned and scampered back.

Captain J. Schurt, of the Phrygia, said he gave the order to scuttle ship because its capture seemed imminent.

All day there was elaborate mystery as to just what had happened and nobody in authority was willing to say categorically that it was the action of British or Canadian warships which had balked the attempt of the four freighters to reenter the German shipping service.

The Phrygia's captain, J. Schurt, had been understood originally to have said in a report to port authorities that four warships—he thought were British or Canadian—had opened fire upon the freighters some five miles off the Mexican coast.

But later, he declared the interpreter had misunderstood him and that what actually had happened was that the warships simply spelled out with flares a demand that the Phrygia give up.

"On leaving the port," he declared, "we saw the four ships. They fired signals demanding that we surrender. The Idarwald and Rhein raced for shore but due to the proximity of one warship to us and the bad condition of our vessel we opened her and set her aflame."

At this tense moment, according to the captain's story, the fourth vessel—the Orinoco—was still in the vicinity of the harbor bar. She headed back immediately.

The story of the flares explained why it was that no one along the waterfront had heard gunfire during the night—a circumstance which for a time had caused much speculation.

The crew of the Phrygia—she carried about 40 men—came ashore in lifeboats without casualty.

Of the four ships it developed late in the day that only the Orinoco had carried a cargo and she had great stores of pork, sugar, coffee beans and the like. The others sailed with ballast apparently assigned to the job of protecting the Orinoco.

Three of the vessels had given their destination as the Canary islands, the fourth as Vigo, Spain. Even at the hour of their sailing, however, there had been speculation among shipping men that they perhaps were headed for a rendezvous with a German war vessel.

The Phrygia blew up this afternoon and slowly sank five miles south of the Tampico jetties. She went to the same sort of graveyard as the 32,581-ton German liner Columbus, scuttled last December far off the United States Atlantic coast in a vain effort to breach the British blockade.

Before Captain Schurt broke his silence every available and potential informant had shown a marked restraint as to what had happened to the Phrygia.

"I doubt whether we would know (whether any British warships were in the vicinity) since our boys usually do their work very quietly," said an official of the British consulate in Mexico City.

Edward Traulsen, the German consul-general, however, remarked that he had heard that the freighters ran into "enemy vessels."

Although the burning Phrygia disappeared from the view of shore observers this morning and was believed by them to have sunk, the consul said she still was burning.

A Mexican navy gunboat put out to investigate.

It was not known whether the Phrygia caught fire, was set afire or was scuttled. Her crew reached shore in lifeboats.

The 9,660-ton Orinoco, the last to leave anchorage, never actually cleared the harbor. She ostensibly developed engine trouble and returned. The Idarwald, 5,033 tons, and the Rhein, 6,051 tons, returned presumably because they had noted the [illegible] of the Orinoco. They tied up at the [illegible] spots where they had spent the months since the outbreak of war. Visitors were forbidden.

During the night searchlight beams—such as those on British men-of-war—had been observed south-east of the harbor at about the time the German ships started leaving port.

ROOF HANGS HEAVY OVER SOLONS

Although the roofs of the United States Senate and House chambers are in constant danger of crashing, nothing can be done to strengthen them while Congress is in session. ENGLISH AIRMEN IN BASE ATTACK for a British raid on Munich November 8 when Adolf Hitler spoke there.

The Nazis raided London, Hastings, Southampton and the Thames Estuary during the day.

The defenders of Greece were reported driving the Italians back, from Yugoslavia's frontier to the Ionian sea, using bayonets, machine guns, artillery and bombing planes in a terrible offensive along the whole 100-mile front.

The British declared in a communique that the R. A. F. attacked Italian positions in Albania yesterday, starting several fires northeast of Koritza, an Italian base.

Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia, noting the aggressive activity of the "free French" forces of General Charles de Gaulle in Gabon, French equatorial Africa, predicted axis intervention unless the Vichy government disposed of De Gaulle's attempt to take over the colony and cut a path to Egyptian Sudan.

FIRE DAMAGES FAN, ROOF OF RESTAURANT

The motor on the exhaust fan at the Rendezvous restaurant on Louisville avenue was considerably damaged and the east end of the roof slightly damaged, when a grease pan caught fire Saturday night, Monroe firemen said.

Bobby Poppas, restaurant manager, said that the blaze occurred in the opposite side of the building from the dining room, and it was not until the fire engine arrived that he learned of the fire.

HOUSING PROJECT PLAN IN ALEXANDRIA SECTION

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 16—(AP)—The federal government will shortly begin the construction of a housing project in or near Alexandria, United States Senator John H. Overton said here this morning.

"The exact number of units," he said, "will be determined after an analysis of the housing needs arising out of the construction of the army camps near Alexandria, and the stationing of troops at Camp Beauregard and the army camps."

J. W. Beasley, a member of the Alexandria housing authority, said that Morgan W. Walker, chairman of the authority, is in Washington, D. C., today in connection with the authority's efforts to obtain a $5,000,000 housing project for families of army men here.

UPSETS SHOCK FOOTBALL WORLD

George Franck and Bruce Smith breaking loose for frequent gains. Stanford, heading straight for the Pacific Coast crown and the Rose Bowl, once more uncovered a brilliant offense and tripped Oregon State, 28-14.

Tennessee rolled up a 41-14 count on Virginia; Lafayette bowled over Western Maryland, 40-7; Mississippi State slugged Millsaps, 46-13; Penn State blanked New York university, 25-0; and Texas Tech turned back Wake Forest, 12-7.

In the south, Duke and Auburn were victims of amazing upsets and Alabama just barely made the grade against Georgia Tech, 14-13. Duke was upset by North Carolina, 6-3, thanks to Jim LaLanne's passing, while Leo Bird led Louisiana State to a 21-13 triumph over tough Auburn. Clemson just got up to tie Southwestern of Tennessee, 12-12, in another surprise and Furman's 25-7 victory over South Carolina was still another.

Tulane got going in the fourth quarter to pull out a 21-13 decision over Georgia in one of the few games in the south that followed preliminary specifications.

A crowd of 76,749 saw Bob Westfall pace Michigan to a 20-13 victory over Northwestern while Don Scott counted twice to carry Ohio State past Illinois, 14-6. Wisconsin in-and-outers were definitely "in" and routed Indiana, 27-10. Ray Apolskis' 70-yard run with an intercepted pass and the subsequent extra point gave Marquette a 7-6 decision over Michigan State. In the Big Six, Oklahoma stopped Missouri, 7-0, and Iowa State halted Kansas State, 12-0.

Southern Methodist and Texas were victors in Southwest conference tests, the former routing Arkansas, 28-0, and Texas pushing past Texas Christian, 21-14. Baylor trounced tough Tulsa, 20-6.

In the east, West Virginia surprised by nipping Kentucky, 9-7, with a late rally while Nebraska was pushed to the limit before it got past Pitt, by the same score. George Washington won over Kansas, 6-0, and Hardin Simmons, unbeaten and untied, won over Catholic, 27-13.

Penn, getting ready for Cornell next week, ran up a 48-0 score on Army, worst defeat an Army team ever suffered. Navy gained plenty of ground but was lucky to get a scoreless tie with Columbia when Len Will's try for a Columbia field goal just missed. Bob Sandbach's fourth-quarter field goal gave Princeton a 10-7 victory over Yale as Harvard's fast-improving forces took Brown over the jumps, 14-0. Indian Bill Geyer's 55-yard touchdown run and the ensuing extra point enabled Colgate to trip Syracuse, 7-6, while Holy Cross surprised by getting a 6-6 draw with Temple. Villanova won over Manhattan, 13-6, and Williams, routing Amherst, 19-6, won the Little Three crown.

In the far west, Washington kept its slim championship hopes alive by whipping Southern California, 14-0; California stopped Oregon, 14-6, and U. C. L. A. finally won a ball game after seven straight defeats, beating Washington State, 34-26. Gonzaga surprised Detroit, 13-7.

In the Big Seven, Colorado whipped Brigham Young, 25-2; Denver beat Utah State, 34-6, and Utah won over Colorado State, 27-0.

ENGLISH AIRMEN IN BASE ATTACK

for a British raid on Munich November 8 when Adolf Hitler spoke there.

The Nazis raided London, Hastings, Southampton and the Thames Estuary during the day.

The defenders of Greece were reported driving the Italians back, from Yugoslavia's frontier to the Ionian sea, using bayonets, machine guns, artillery and bombing planes in a terrible offensive along the whole 100-mile front.

The British declared in a communique that the R. A. F. attacked Italian positions in Albania yesterday, starting several fires northeast of Koritza, an Italian base.

Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia, noting the aggressive activity of the "free French" forces of General Charles de Gaulle in Gabon, French equatorial Africa, predicted axis intervention unless the Vichy government disposed of De Gaulle's attempt to take over the colony and cut a path to Egyptian Sudan.

FIRE DAMAGES FAN, ROOF OF RESTAURANT

The motor on the exhaust fan at the Rendezvous restaurant on Louisville avenue was considerably damaged and the east end of the roof slightly damaged, when a grease pan caught fire Saturday night, Monroe firemen said.

Bobby Poppas, restaurant manager, said that the blaze occurred in the opposite side of the building from the dining room, and it was not until the fire engine arrived that he learned of the fire.

GREEKS CRUSHING ITALIAN TROOPS

military importance but no casualties were reported."

The recapture of Konitza meant the reoccupation of one of the last salients still held by the Italians in Greek territory.

It was part of a general offensive declared to be driving the Italians back on the entire front from the Yugoslav frontier to the Ionian sea.

Along the coast, the Greek navy was reported shelling the retreating Fascists behind their lines.

The government spokesman said that in addition to the success at Koritza there were reports, not yet officially confirmed, that 750 Italian prisoners had been taken and four big guns seized.

There were also reports that Greek troops had taken the village of Morava, about three miles from the important Italian base of Koritza in Albania. Koritza is at the northern sector of the battle front while Konitza is in the central Pindus region.

The whole lofty 100-mile-long battlefront erupted violently. Every weapon in the Greek armory—bayoneted rifles, machine guns, artillery, bombing planes—was thrown into the struggle in the hope that the war was approaching a decision.

The official radio, echoing military dispatches to the press, announced to the country:

"The enemy has been dislodged from all positions. The organized defense can hardly withstand the Greek attacks for more than a few hours!"

The activity of the Greek navy, reported by the newspaper Zima, was not discussed in detail, but it was declared that all Italian positions were "increasingly menaced" and that Italian communications generally were in imminent peril of destruction.

Greek sources asserted that the entire Italian army in Albania was in danger of being cut into three parts and thus encircled segment by segment.

The heaviest of the day's action was in the northern sector, where there was violent artillery duelling and air-fighting.

The Italians were reported to have rushed reinforcements to that region—before they could establish satisfactory communication with supply bases, the Greeks said—but to have failed nevertheless to halt the slow encirclement of Koritza, Albania, by Greek forces completing the operation from the northeast.

In the center of the front, the Greeks, operating from a high, cold line on the Grammos mountains, claimed to be pressing a steady advance toward Leskovik, Albania.

They said the Italians were retreating in the Kalamas district and had hastily recrossed the river of that name.

Everywhere, according to Greek accounts, the major action was on Albanian territory and at some points well within that Italian-dominated country, from which the invasion was sprung 20 days ago.

FOUR NAZI SHIPS ARE INTERCEPTED

inoco. The Orinoco was having engine trouble and lagging close to port when the Idarwald and Rhein turned and scampered back.

Captain J. Schurt, of the Phrygia, said he gave the order to scuttle ship because its capture seemed imminent.

All day there was elaborate mystery as to just what had happened and nobody in authority was willing to say categorically that it was the action of British or Canadian warships which had balked the attempt of the four freighters to reenter the German shipping service.

The Phrygia's captain, J. Schurt, had been understood originally to have said in a report to port authorities that four warships—he thought were British or Canadian—had opened fire upon the freighters some five miles off the Mexican coast.

But later, he declared the interpreter had misunderstood him and that what actually had happened was that the warships simply spelled out with flares a demand that the Phrygia give up.

"On leaving the port," he declared, "we saw the four ships. They fired signals demanding that we surrender. The Idarwald and Rhein raced for shore but due to the proximity of one warship to us and the bad condition of our vessel we opened her and set her aflame."

At this tense moment, according to the captain's story, the fourth vessel —the Orinoco—was still in the vicinity of the harbor bar. She headed back immediately.

The story of the flares explained why it was that no one along the waterfront had heard gunfire during the night—a circumstance which for a time had raised much speculation.

The crew of the Phrygia—she carried about 40 men—came ashore in lifeboats without casualty.

Of the four ships it developed late in the day that only the Orinoco had carried a cargo—and she had great stores of pork, sugar, coffee, beans and the like. The others sailed with ballast, apparently assigned to the job of protecting the Orinoco.

Three of the vessels had given their destination as the Canary islands, the fourth as Vigo, Spain. Even at the hour of their sailing, however, there had been speculation among shipping men that they perhaps were headed for a rendezvous with a German war vessel.

The Phrygia blew up this afternoon and slowly sank, five miles south of the Tampico jetties. She went to the same sort of graveyard as the 32,581-ton German liner Columbus, scuttled last December far off the United States Atlantic coast in a vain effort to breach the British blockade.

Before Captain Schurt broke his silence every available and potential informant had shown a marked restraint as to what had happened to the Phrygia.

"I doubt whether we would know (whether any British warships were in the vicinity) since our boys usually do their work very quietly," said an official of the British consulate in Mexico City.

Edward Traulsen, the German consul-general, however, remarked that he had heard that the freighters ran into "enemy vessels."

Although the burning Phrygia disappeared from the view of shore observers this morning and was believed by them to have sunk, the consul said she still was burning.

A Mexican navy gunboat put out to investigate.

It was not known whether the Phrygia caught fire, was set afire or was scuttled. Her crew reached shore in lifeboats.

The 9,660-ton Orinoco, the last to leave anchorage, never actually cleared the harbor. She ostensibly developed engine trouble and returned.

The Idarwald, 5,033 tons, and the Rhein, 6,031 tons, returned presumably because they had noted distress of the Orinoco. They tied up at the precise spots where they had spent the months since the outbreak of war. Visitors were forbidden.

During the night searchlight beams —such as those on British men-of-war —had been observed southeast of the harbor at about the time the German ships started leaving port.

HOUSING PROJECT PLAN IN ALEXANDRIA SECTION

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The federal government will shortly begin the construction of a housing project in or near Alexandria, United States Senator John H. Overton said here this morning.

"The exact number of units," he said, "will be determined after an analysis of the housing needs arising out of the construction of the army camps near Alexandria, and the stationing of troops at Camp Beauregard and the army camps."

J. W. Beasley, a member of the Alexandria housing authority, said that Morgan W. Walker, chairman of the authority, is in Washington, D. C., today in connection with the authority's efforts to obtain a $5,000,000 housing project for families of army men here.

TAR HEEL COACH, JESS NEELY LEAD SOUTH'S ELEVEN

Two Mentors Named To Drill Gray All-Stars In Montgomery Tilt

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 16—(AP)—Raymond (Bear) Wolf, of the University of North Carolina, and Jess Neely, of Rice Institute, will coach the Dixie All-Stars in Montgomery's third annual North-South gridiron classic December 28.

The selections were announced today by the Blue and Gray association, sponsor of the game between senior college standouts from either side of the Mason-Dixon line and dedicated to North-South solidarity through sportsmanship.

Carl Snavely, of Cornell, and Lynn Waldorf, of Northwestern, were chosen several months ago to handle the "Yankee" squad for the third successive year.

The "Rebels" won an exciting 33-20 victory last year, although they dropped the first encounter, 7-0. Profits go to Mayor W. A. Gunter's monument [illegible]

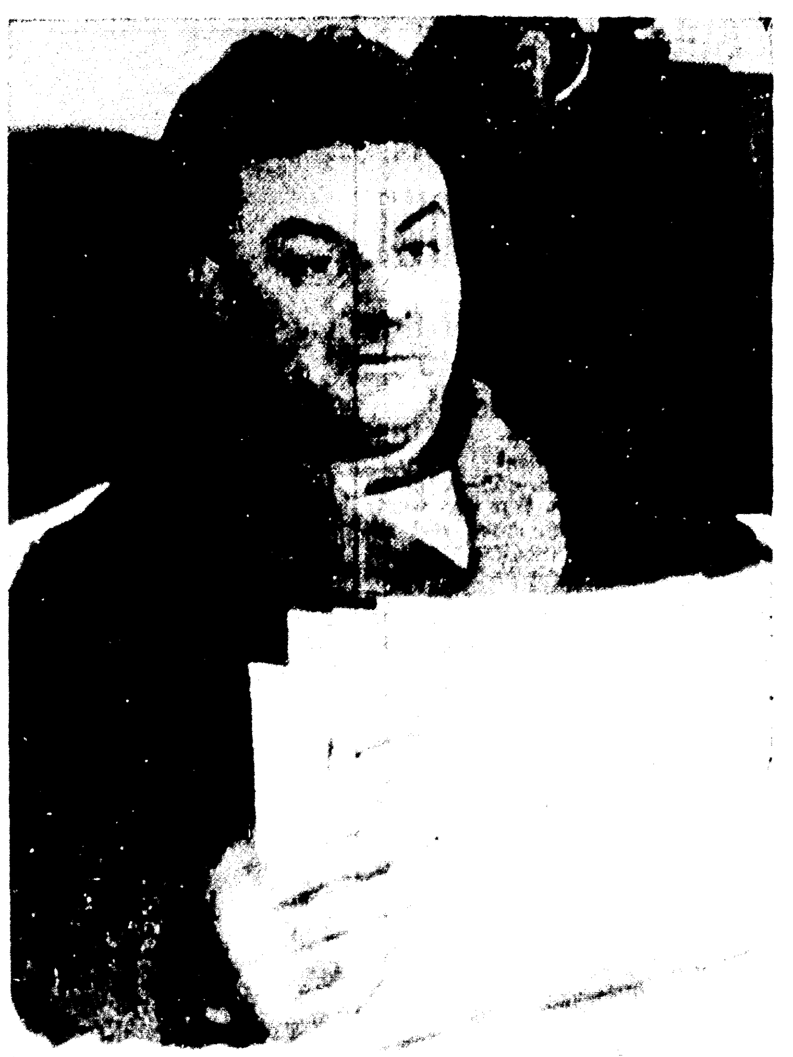
FAVORED TO MANAGE CUBS?



There's talk going around in sports circles that either Jimmy Wilson, [illegible] Cincinnati coach and a hero of the last World Series, or Billy Meyer, manager of the Kansas City Blues, will be chosen to succeed Gabby Hartnett as manager of the Chicago Cubs. Meyer, [illegible] candidate for a job once held by his close friend, Joe McCarthy, [illegible] of the New York Yankees, has never had a major league [illegible] but has made a [illegible] for himself in the minors. In three years at the helm of the Kansas City Blues he won the championship twice and finished second once. And the year he finished second his team won the playoffs and then defeated Newark in the Little World Series.

Meyer's baseball strategy is built around speed and daring and his clubs [illegible] have led their league in base stealing. Some observers believe his willingness to gamble would be a helpful factor should he get the Cub position.

While rumor has it that President Wrigley already has his 1941 manager under contract and has only to announce his choice formally, there is always a chance some "longshot" may sneak in ahead of Wilson and Meyer. Such a man might be Kiki Cuyler, manager of the Southern Association Chattanooga club and one-time star Cub outfielder.

ATHLETIC GROUP TO MEET TODAY

State Prep School Body To Discuss Important Matters Here

The executive committee of the Louisiana Inter-High School Athletic Association will meet this afternoon at Ouachita Parish High School [illegible] are expected to be [illegible] by the men who guide high school athletics in the state, according to a [illegible] of the committee.

It was reliably reported last night that an attempt will again be made to force the winner of the New Orleans prep league football championship to participate in the preliminaries of the state playoff to determine the Louisiana Class AA champion. Each year a number of state school men have urged that the New Orleans teams be forced to compete in the elimination series, but so far without success.

Another probable topic of discussion today will be that of extending the high school football season as requested by Shreveport school officials, it was reported. An epidemic of infantile paralysis has forced postponement of several games at Shreveport and it was said that school authorities have asked that the season be extended to permit playing of these games.

Other matters will be discussed in what is expected to be a lengthy session of the committee.

Members of the executive committee are: J. M. Boyett, Vinton, chairman; C. L. Madden, Choudrant, vice-chairman; Grover C. Coffman, Shreveport, secretary; D. C. Alwes, Donaldsonville; W. L. Colvin, Jeanerette; S. R. Emmons, Minden; Jack Hayes, Ouachita Parish High School, Monroe; Rev. Joseph C. Mulhearn, New Orleans, and Gordon A. Webb, Brously.

GREENIES RALLY TO TAKE INITIAL CONFERENCE WIN

Wave Held Scoreless During Entire First Half By Bulldogs

By Mortimer Kreeger

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16—(AP)—Tulane's powerhouse, short-circuited for half the ball game by Georgia's scrapping Bulldogs, started functioning in the second half today to win 21-13 for its first Southeastern conference victory.

Thirty thousand fans were kept on their feet as the teams battled up and down the field, each threatening often.

The game started out contrary to expectations. The light Georgians opened up the big Tulane line for Kenneth Keuper and other backs to sift through for substantial gains. The coaches must have told the Greenies plenty during the half, for they came back with an inspired offense and a nearly perfect defense.

Georgia looked unbeatable on a 47-yard drive for its first score. Keuper's [illegible]-yard smash through center and Frank Sinkwich's passes did the damage, and Sinkwich tossed to George Poschner on fourth down for the score. Leo Costa went into kick the extra point but failed.

Shortly after a Tulane drive had [illegible] from the Green Wave's 40 to the Georgia [illegible] in the third period, Sinkwich tried a pass deep in his own territory and Leonard Stern, Tulane [illegible], intercepted on the Bulldogs' [illegible]. On the third play Harry Hays, [illegible] substitute halfback, swept right end for eight yards and a touchdown and Jim Thibaut put Tulane ahead [illegible] with a placekick.

The lead didn't last long, however, for Lamar Davis, Georgia's shifty right half, took Roman Bentz's high [illegible] on the [illegible]-yard line, followed beautiful interference and outran Tulane's fastest backs for a touchdown. [illegible] went in and made the placekick good.

After a long Tulane drive had [illegible] [illegible] Bubba [illegible], sophomore halfback playing with a broken thumb, [illegible] a punt to Georgia's 20 and started throwing passes to set up a touchdown on the [illegible]. Fred Gloden, [illegible] fullback, went over in three plays.

Cornell Beats Dartmouth, 7 To 3, On Disputed Play

Indian Captain Protests That Deciding Score Was Made On Fifth Down

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 16—(AP)—Mighty Cornell, one of the nation's outstanding football teams, was rocked and shaken by an inspired band of Dartmouth Indians for 57 minutes today before it unleashed a belated aerial drive that gave it a 7-3 victory before a startled crowd of 10,000.

Out-fought until the last three minutes of play by their underdog rivals, the Ithacans pulled the game out of the fire during the last six seconds of play when, on a disputed fourth down and six yards to go, Walt Scholl ended a 57-yard overhead thrust by tossing a touchdown pass to Halfback Bill Murphy. That more than off-set the 17-yard placement field goal the Indians' Bob Krieger booted early in the final period.

Captain Lou Young and his players, however, insisted that Cornell's scoring play came on a fifth down and just before it was made, the former demanded that Referee "Red" Friesell give his team the ball on its 20-yard line, for Fullback Ray Hall had batted down a Scholl pass on the previous play.

The disputed series started after Scholl had passed to Murphy for a first down on Dartmouth's five yard line with one minute to play. Cornell then rushed to the one-yard line where, after stopping the clock by rushing right end Al Kelley back into the game, it drew a five-yard penalty for an extra time out.

Most of the writers' charts showed that Mort Landsberg had rushed twice and Scholl once before the latter uncorked the pass that Hall batted down behind his goal-line. Friesell refused to discuss the game-deciding incident and the only comment Earl Blaik, the Dartmouth coach, made was, "I have every confidence in Referee Friesell." Cornell's Carl Snavely first thought that both teams had been offside, thereby nullifying a play, but the officials assured him that such had not been the case.

BUCKS DOWN ILLINI

AGGIES SMOTHER RICE OWLS, 25-0

'Jitterbug' Henderson, A. And M. End, Snags Eight Straight Passes

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 16—(AP)—Methodically, almost casually, the Texas Aggies poured ruthless power and a fabulous passing game into Rice institute today for a 25-0 triumph that took them to the very brink of a second successive unbeaten season.

Never, in their classic string of 19 victories, had the Cadets struck with such viciousness as today—tumbling through once-beaten Rice for 406 yards by ground and air.

Once again it was John Kimbrough, the massive all-America fullback, in the bell wether role. The grinning 222-pounder prosecuted and closed his all-America case for 1940 by shredding Rice's stout line for 10[illegible] yards on 18 carries for an average six yard gain.

He butted, he dived, he jolted and he simply overpowered the second ranking line of the Southwest conference.

But today John Kimbrough shared the glory with a six foot sophomore end—a gangling lad named Bill (Jitterbug) Henderson who threw the crowd of 30,000 into a panic with eight consecutive catches for a total of 117 yards.

Not until this astonishing string-bean, essentially a basketball player, had enrolled at Texas A. and M., did he play football. Now he ranks as the league's top pass snagger.

He was in the Rice secondary all afternoon, grabbing passes all the way from two to 34 yards.

Only once was Rice in this ball game. Deep in the fourth period, second and third stringers dotting the Aggie line, they put on a drive featuring Bob Brumley, a magnificent back, that surged to the Aggie 14. But there it stopped. Prior to that the Aggie 42 was their best effort.

CHOCTAWS DOWN WILDCATS, 32 TO 6

Heavier But Slower Louisianians Hopelessly Outclassed In Tilt

CLINTON, Miss., Nov. 16—(AP)—Mississippi College's Choctaws brought their 1940 football season to a spectacular close today with a 32 to 6 victory over Louisiana College's Wildcats.

The heavier but slower Louisianians were hopelessly outclassed by the razzle-dazzle deception and stalward line play of the Choctaws, who ran up touchdowns in each quarter and in the last five minutes turned the task of protecting the lead over the reserves.

A 41-yard dash by James McLeod and a crash over tackle by Charlie Armstrong brought the first Mississippi tally. Then late in the opening quarter Ollie Childs, Louisiana College's star of the day, intercepted a Choctaw pass and raced 35 yards for the visitors' lone tally.

A second Choctaws touchdown drive started with aerial fireworks—five successive would-be laterals on one play, initiated by Armstrong and good for 15 yards when the ball was downed after the second exchange because the third pass was ruled a forward pass.

Bob Majure then passed to Armstrong and Lonnie Tadlock ran 31 yards for the second score, Armstrong kicking the goal. Soon after Tadlock ripped off three successive first downs, then Hughes passed to Majure for another touchdown.

A blocked punt and a 22-yard dash by Armstrong raised the tallies once more, and an intercepted pass and short dash by Tadlock brought the final touchdown.

NATION'S BEST TRACK STARS IN SUGAR BOWL

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16—(AP)—Lou [illegible] di Benedetto, National A. A. U. president and chairman of the Sugar Bowl track committee, declared today "the finest array of quarter-milers ever to meet in the South" would compete in their specialty in the Sugar Bowl track meet.

Runners from the East, Mid-west, Pacific coast and the South have accepted invitations to compete, di Benedetto said.

They include Grover Klemmer, National A. A. U. champion from the University of California; John Quigley, Manhattan College, defending Sugar Bowl champion; Roy Cochran, University of Indiana, and Arky Erwin, Louisiana State University.

Another possible starter is Gene Littler of the University of Nebraska.

UNDERDOG L. S. U. TURNS BACK AUBURN, 21-13

LEO BIRD STARS AS TIGERS ROMP OVER PLAINSMEN

Fleet Halfback Sets Up Two Scores, Makes Third One Himself

By LeRoy Simms

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Leo Bird, a 170-pound junior halfback from Shreveport, La., passed and ran underdog Louisiana States to a 21 to 13 victory over Auburn in a Southeastern Conference game here today before 11,000 chilled spectators.

Bird passed to Dudley Pillow, his big right end, for the first L. S. U. score, made the second one inevitable with a 28-yard toss to Fulkerson to put the ball on the Auburn one, and then scored the third one himself after an Auburn fumble had been recovered just a foot away from pay dirt.

The fleet Louisiana halfback completed 7 of his 18 tosses for a total gain of 100 yards and ran for 48 more to pace the L. S. U. backfield men.

Auburn started off as if it would win the game going away. McGowen and Irby, subbing for the injured Rufus Deal at fullback, alternated in smashes which carried to the invaders' 18 before the attack was stalled, and then Samford blocked Gorinski's punt and Theo Cremer, junior end from Birmingham, fell on the ball for a touchdown. Dick McGowen converted and the Plainsmen were seven points ahead.

Bird lost little time in putting his team back in the running. He brought a subsequent McGowen punt back to the Auburn 40, passed to Jenkins for first down on the 24, and three plays later, sent the scoring toss to Pillow.

One of eight Auburn fumbles halted a promising Plainsman drive in the third period and started L. S. U. to victory. Lipkis fell on the ball on his 47. Bird got 5 and Weaver 15. Bird picked up four more in two tries and shot a pass down to Fulkerson, standing on Auburn's 10. Fulkerson was slammed out of bounds by McGowen a yard away from the goal line. Gorinski took it over.

Aubudn came back with another touchdown, marching 65 yards on passes and running plays. The scoring play started with McMahan, reserve quarterback, running to his left. Just as he seemed about to go down under a mass of tacklers he tossed a short pass to McGowen, who ran the remaining 15 yards to score. McGowen's placement for the extra point went to the left of the posts.

The final score resulted from another Auburn miscue. With the ball on the Tiger 11, the pass from center got by McGowen and Fulkerson fell on it at the one foot line. Bird scored on the second play.

Auburn strove desperately to get back into the game, with Bill Yearout tossing long passes, but the game's end caught the Plainsmen still in their own territory.

Besides Bird, the L. S. U. standouts were Gianelloni at guard and Fulkerson. Ty Irby, sophomore fullback starting his first game, was Auburn's leading ground gainer, picking up 50 yards in a dozen stabs at the line.

The lineups and summary:

TAR HEEL COACH, JESS NEELY LEAD SOUTH'S ELEVEN

Two Mentors Named To Drill Gray All-Stars In Montgomery Tilt

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Raymond (Bear) Wolf, of the University of North Carolina, and Jess Neely, of Rice Institute, will coach the Dixie All-Stars in Montgomery's third annual North-South gridiron classic December 28.

The selections were announced today by the Blue and Gray association, sponsor of the game between senior college standouts from either side of the Mason-Dixon line and dedicated to North-South solidarity through sportsmanship.

Carl Snavely, of Cornell, and Lynn Waldorf, of Northwestern, were chosen several months ago to handle the "Yankee" squad for the third successive year.

The "Rebels" won an exciting, 33-20, victory last year, although they dropped the first encounter, 7-0. Profits go to Mayor W. A. Gunter's municipal charities.

Neely, a 1924 graduate of Vanderbilt, is in his first year as head coach at Rice but in 1939 he led Clemson through a successful season and to a 6-to-3 triumph over Boston college in the Cotton Bowl. He went to Clemson from an assistant coach's job at Alabama.

Wolf, a 1927 graduate of Texas Christian, is in his fifth year at North Carolina and went there from a coaching assignment at his alma mater. His 1939 team was tied by Tulane but bowed only to Duke.

The North Carolina mentor is a devotee of the wide-open system, and will bring along his ace passing combination—James (Sweet) LaLanne, halfback, and Paul Severin, end. Neely, while far from unschooled in razzle-dazzle attacks, learned his football under the late Dan McGugin, a disciple of power.

Fifteen of the 22-member southern squad already have been selected, and Blue and Gray Association officials said they hoped to complete the list within possibly 10 days.

Only three have been picked for the Waldorf-Snavely outfit, but the "Yankee" coaches have promised to push along recommendations after Thanksgiving and report their array will be as colorful as in 1939, when they brought some of the nation's top-flight performers from the east and midwest.

Blue and Gray officials report advance ticket sales far ahead of last year, receipts several days ago having topped those on hand last year 24 hours before the kick-off.

The year-end sports program has been broadened this year to include a skeet shoot, field trials, golf tournament and fox hunt.

BASTROP DEFEATS WINNSBORO, 34-7

WINNSBORO, Nov. 16.—(Special)—The Bastrop Rams overpowered a fighting Winnsboro Wildcat eleven here Friday night 34-7. The Wildcats made the only touchdown that a Class A eleven has been able to score against the Rams this season.

Bastrop's first touchdown came in the first quarter, when Atkins passed to Currington, who lateraled to P. Foreman, who tucked the pigskin under his arms and ran 60 yards for the score.

Atkins again connected with an aerial in the second quarter to Ferschoff, Ram right end, who went over standing up from the 35-yard stripe.

A few minutes later, Winnsboro desperately threw a pass from behind its own goal, which fell incomplete, giving Bastrop a safety.

The Rams scored once in the third period with Foreman getting loose for 35 yards and the counter. Two more were added in the final period. Parks converted on the third and last scores.

The Wildcats scored in the second quarter, staging a 40-yard march. Clawson capped the drive with a plunge from the three yard line for the score. Meyer converted from placement.

The starting lineups:

Bastrop	Pos.	Winnsboro
Currington	LE	Guimbellot
Parks	LT	Reynolds
Manning	LG	Stephens
Perry	C	Adams
D. Foreman	RG	Butler

NATION'S BEST TRACK STARS IN SUGAR BOWL

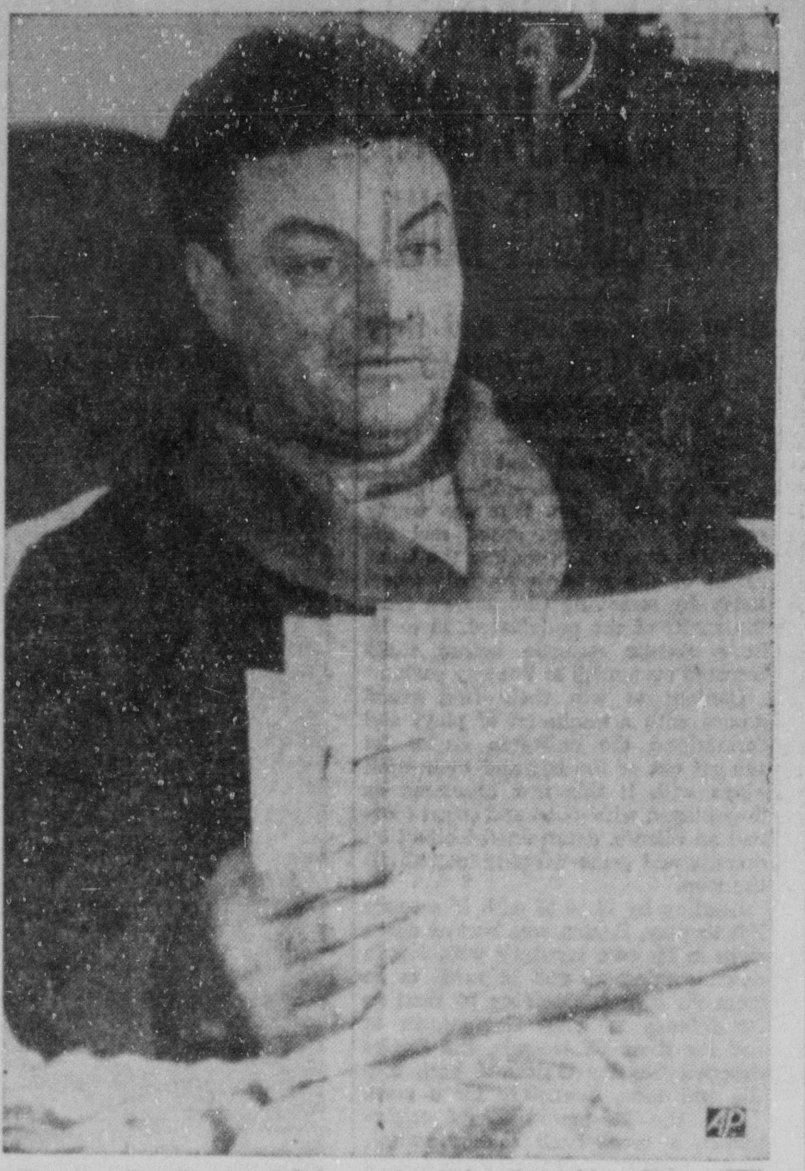
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Lorenzo di Benedetto, National A. A. U. president and chairman of the Sugar Bowl track committee, declared today "the finest array of quarter-milers ever to meet in the South" would compete in their specialty in the Sugar Bowl track meet.

Runners from the East, Mid-west, Pacific coast and the South have accepted invitations to compete, di Benedetto said.

They include Grover Klemmer, National A. A. U. champion from the University of California; John Quigley, Manhattan College, defending Sugar Bowl champion; Roy Cochran, University of Indiana, and Arky Erwin, Louisiana State University.

Another possible starter is Gene Littler of the University of Nebraska.

FAVORED TO MANAGE CUBS?



There's talk going around in sports circles that either Jimmy Wilson (above), Cincinnati coach and a hero of the last World Series, or Billy Meyer, manager of the Kansas City Blues, will be chosen to succeed Gabby Hartnett as manager of the Chicago Cubs. Owner P. K. Wrigley fired Gabby after 19 years with the Cubs as catcher and manager. This picture of Wilson was made some time ago when he was ill.

Hero Of '40 World Series May Be Named Cub Pilot

Jimmy Wilson Holds Slight Edge In Speculation Over Job

By Earl Hilligan

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The hero of the 1940 World Series may be the successor to Gabby Hartnett as manager of the Chicago Cubs.

He is Jimmy Wilson, who at 40 years of age came off the coaching lines to give the Cincinnat Reds a great catching performance in their series victory over Detroit's Tigers. And Wilson apparently holds a slight edge in the speculation which says either he or Bill Meyer, Kansas City club manager who has been given permission to seek a new post, this week will become the new Cub pilot.

It is reliably reported that Hartnett's successor will be named Tuesday and it is known that both the Cub president, P. K. Wrigley, and his new general manager, James T. Gallagher, have a high regard for Wilson's ability.

Wilson, who has said he would give the matter "deep consideration if approached," piloted the Philadelphia Phillies from 1934 to 1938. The team was down in its usual seventh or eighth place those years, yet Wilson is given credit for developing some fine players, particularly pitchers. He did much to make Claude Passeau, now with the Cubs, one of the game's best right handers.

Meyer, now a candidate for a job once held by his close friend, Joe McCarthy, pilot of the New York Yankees, has never had a major league managers' post but has made a name for himself in the minors. In three years at the helm of the Kansas City Blues he won the championship twice and finished second once. And the year he finished second his team won the playoffs and then defeated Newark in the Little World Series.

Meyer's baseball strategy is built around speed and daring and his clubs usually have led their league in base stealing. Some observers believe his willingness to gamble would be a helpful factor should he get the Cub position.

While rumor has it that President Wrigley already has his 1941 manager under contract and has only to announce his choice formally, there is always a chance some "longshot" may sneak in ahead of Wilson and Meyer. Such a man might be Kiki Cuyler, manager of the Southern Association Chattanooga club and one-time star Cub outfielder.

ATHLETIC GROUP TO MEET TODAY

State Prep School Body To Discuss Important Matters Here

The executive committee of the Louisiana Interscholastic Athletic Association will meet this afternoon at Ouachita Parish High School, starting at 3 p.m., and several important decisions are expected to be handed down by the men who guide high school athletics in the state, according to a member of the committee.

It was reliably reported last night that an attempt will again be made to force the winner of the New Orleans prep league football championship to participate in the preliminaries of the state playoff to determine the Louisiana Class AA champion. Each year a number of state school men have urged that the New Orleans teams be forced to compete in the elimination series, but so far without success.

Another probable topic of discussion today will be that of extending the high school footbal season, as requested by Shreveport school officials, it was reported. An epidemic of infantile paralysis has forced postponement of several games at Shreveport and it was said that school authorities have asked that the season be extended to permit playing of these games.

Other matters will be discussed in what is expected to be a lengthy session of the committee.

Tulane's Powerhouse Downs Fighting Georgia, 21 To 13

By Mortimer Kreeger

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Tulane's powerhouse, short-circuited for half the ball game by Georgia's scrapping Bulldogs, started functioning in the second half today to win 21-13 for its first Southeastern conference victory.

Thirty thousand fans were kept on their feet as the teams battled up and down the field, each threatening often.

The game started out contrary to expectations. The light Georgians opened up the big Tulane line for Kenneth Keuper and other backs to sift through for substantial gains. The coaches must have told the Greenies plenty during the half, for they came back with an inspired offense and a nearly perfect defense.

Georgia looked unbeatable on a 47-yard drive for its first score. Keuper's 20-yard smash through center and Frank Sinkwich's passes did the damage, and Sinkwich tossed to Georgia Poschner on fourth down for the score. Leo Costa went into kick the extra point but failed.

Shortly after a Tulane drive had carried form the Green Wave's 40 to Georgia's two in the third period, Sinkwich tried a pass deep in his own territory and Leonard Stern, Tulane guard, intercepted on the Bulldogs' 13. On the third play Harry Hays, fleet substitute halfback, swept right end for eight yards and a touchdown and Jim Thibaut put Tulane ahead 7-6 with a placekick.

The lead didn't last long, however, for Lamar Davis, Georgia's shifty right half, took Roman Bentz's high kickoff on his 3-yard line, followed beautiful interference and outran Tulane's fastest backs for a touchdown. Costa went in and made the placekick good.

After a long Tulane drive had fallen short Bubber Ely, sophomore halfback playing with a broken thumb, returned a punt to Georgia's 30 and started throwing passes to set up a touchdown on the five. Fred Gloden, sub fullback, went over in three plays

Cornell Beats Dartmouth, 7 To 3, On Disputed Play

Indian Captain Protests That Deciding Score Was Made On Fifth Down

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Mighty Cornell, one of the nation's outstanding football teams, was rocked and shaken by an inspired band of Dartmouth Indians for 57 minutes today before it unleashed a belated aerial drive that gave it a 7-3 victory before a startled crowd of 10,000.

Out-fought until the last three minutes of play by their underdog rivals, the Ithacans pulled the game out of the fire during the last six seconds of play when, on a disputed fourth down and six yards to go, Walt Scholl ended a 57-yard overhead thrust by tossing a touchdown pass to Halfback Bill Murphy. That more than offset the 17-yard placement field goal the Indians' Bob Krieger booted early in the final period.

Captain Lou Young and his players, however, insisted that Cornell's scoring play came on a fifth down and just before it was made, the former demanded that Referee "Red" Friesell give his team the ball on its 20-yard line, for Fullback Ray Hall had batted down a Scholl pass on the previous play.

The disputed series started after Scholl had passed to Murphy for a first down on Dartmouth's five yard line with one minute to play. Cornell then rushed to the one-yard line where, after stopping the clock by rushing right end Al Kelley back into the game, it drew a five-yard penalty for an extra time out.

Most of the writers' charts showed that Mort Landsberg had rushed twice and Scholl once before the latter uncorked the pass that Hall batted down behind his goal-line. Friesell refused to discuss the game-deciding incident and the only comment Earl Blaik, the Dartmouth coach, made was, "I have every confidence in Referee Friesell." Cornell's Carl Snavely first thought that both teams had been offside, thereby nullifying a play, but the officials assured him that such had not been the case.

BUCKS DOWN ILLINI

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Ohio State's Don Scott, striving for 1940 All-America quarterback honors, scored two touchdowns today to enable the Buckeyes to hand Illinois its sixth straight defeat, 14-6, before 15,571 shivering fans.

AGGIES SMOTHER RICE OWLS, 25-0

'Jitterbug' Henderson, A. And M. End, Snags Eight Straight Passes

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Methodically, almost casually, the Texas Aggies poured ruthless power and a fabulous passing game into Rice institute today for a 25-0 triumph that took them to the very bring of a second successive unbeaten season.

Never, in their classic string of 19 victories, had the Cadets struck with such viciousness as today—tumbling through once-beaten Rice for 406 yards by ground and air.

Once again it was John Kimbrough, the massive all-America fullback, in the bell wether role. The grinning 222-pounder prosecuted, and closed, his all-America case for 1940 by shedding Rice's stout line for 108 yards on 18 carries for an average six yard gain.

He butted, he dived, he jolted and he simply overpowered the second ranking line of the Southwest conference.

But today John Kimbrough shared the glory with a six foot sophomore end—a gangling lad named Bill (Jitterbug) Henderson who threw the crowd of 30,000 into a panic with eight consecutive catches for a total of 117 yards.

Not until this astonishing stringbean, essentially a basketball player, had enrolled at Texas A. and M., did he play football. Now he ranks as the league's top pass snagger.

He was in the Rice secondary all afternoon, grabbing passes all the way from two to 34 yards.

Only once was Rice in this ball game. Deep in the fourth period, second and third stringers dotting the Aggie line, they put on a drive featuring Bob Brumley, a magnificent back, that surged to the Aggie 14. But there it stopped. Prior to that the Aggie 42 was their best effort.

New Orleans has the heaviest average rainfall of any major American city.

Heavier But Slower Louisianians Hopelessly Outclassed In Tilt

CLINTON, Miss., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Mississippi College's Choctaws brought their 1940 football season to a spectacular close today with a 32 to 6 victory over Louisiana College's Wildcats.

The heavier but slower Louisianians were hopelessly outclassed by the razzle-dazzle deception and stalward line play of the Choctaws', who ran up touchdowns in each quarter and in the last five minutes turned the task of protecting the lead over the reserves.

A 41-yard dash by James McLeod and a crash over tackle by Charlie Armstrong brought the first Mississippi tally. Then late in the opening quarter Ollie Childs, Louisiana College's star of the day, intercepted a Choctaw pass and raced 35 yards for the visitors' lone tally.

A second Choctaws touchdown drive started with aerial fireworks—five successive would-be laterals on one play, initiated by Armstrong and good for 15 yards when the ball was downed after the second exchange because the third pass was ruled a forward pass.

Bob Majure then passed to Armstrong and Lonnie Tadlock ran 31 yards for the second score, Armstrong kicking the goal. Soon after Tadlock ripped off three successive first downs, then Hughes passed to Majure for another touchdown.

A blocked punt and a 22-yard dash by Armstrong raised the tallies once more, and an intercepted pass and short dash by Tadlock brought the final touchdown.

HUSKIES WHIP TROJANS

SEATTLE, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Two touchdown runs by crashing Jack Stackpool, hard-hitting fullback—one of them for 78 yards—gave the University of Washington Huskies a 14 to 6 victory over the Trojans from Southern California today before a homecoming crowd of 30,000.

Ninety-two hundred weed seeds were found in the crop of one mourning dove.

MICHIGAN REPULSES NORTHWESTERN, 20 TO 13

WOLVERINES HALT 72-YARD ADVANCE IN FINAL QUARTER

Red Grange Sees Harmon Come Within One Touchdown Of Record

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Michigan's determined football forces repulsed a clawing 72-yard march of Northwestern's Wildcats in the late minutes here today to win a 20 to 13 scoring circus before 76,749 blanketed spectators.

Harold (Red) Grange, the former Illinois "Galloping Ghost" took his first look at Tom Harmon and saw the Michigan All-America halfback score his 30th touchdown to come within one of the famous Redhead's record; but it was Bob Westfall, Michigan fullback, who stole the show.

Westfall twice stabbed across Northwestern's goal and, with three minutes to play, came up with the defensive gem by throwing Oliver (Red) Hahnenstein, wildest of the Wildcats, a yard short of a first down on the Michigan seven.

Hahnenstein personally had put Northwestern back into the game with an 80-yard touchdown gallop in the fourth period that narrowed Michigan's lead to seven points. Then, with Hahnenstein and Fullback Don Clawson leading the way, Northwestern went 72 yards in 13 plays before Westfall stepped in.

Northwestern's other touchdown came on a 48-yard aerial thrust on the first play of the second period when Bill De Correvont, the one-time national interscholastic high scorer, pitched a 26-yard pass to End Bob Motl, who ran the rest of the way unmolested.

Michigan scored twice in the first period, Harmon going over from the one-foot line after End Ed Frutig had blocked Hahnenstein's punt from the end zone. It was the 30th touchdown of Tommy's career and left him one short of Grange's mark of 31 with one game to go.

Westfall's first touchdown came nine minutes later after Sophomore (Tippy) Lockard had returned Hahnenstein's wobbly punt from the end zone for 23 yards to the five. On the third play Westfall plunged over from the one-foot line.

Harmon place-kicked both extra

COTTON STATES TO HOLD ANNUAL WINTER MEETING

Conference Slated For Greenville, Miss., This Morning

The annual winter meeting of the Cotton States League club officials will take place in Greenville, Miss., today.

Representatives from the seven clubs in the loop and also from Vicksburg and Hattiesburg, Miss., are expected to be present at the conference.

The eighth, Pine Bluff, Ark., gave up its franchise near the end of the 1940 season. The club was continued in the league as a road club. Vicksburg and Hattiesburg are interested in this vacancy.

Max Moses, president of the White Sox, will represent the local club and has stated, together with his associates in the ownership, that they wish to sell.

A sports committee of the local Chamber of Commerce made the owners an offere on the franchise, players, and equipment, which was refused, the present owners deciding that they could make a better financial settlement by selling the players separately.

The Monroe White Sox finished some seven games in front of the El Dorado Oilers in the regular schedule and then went on to defeat Greenville and the Oilers in the Shaughnessy playoffs to win the pennant. Nevertheless, due to cold weather during the first part of the campaign, the games were poorly attended and resulted in a loss to the owners.

The sports committee, through the Chamber of Commerce secretary, George D. Holland, notified President Emmet Harty of the league that they were willing to take over the franchise and conduct the club on a civic basis with local fans taking an active and financial part in the management.

Besides the Monroe difficulties, which may be straightened out at the meeting, the league will discuss with a committee of four representing the Vicksburg interests, the possibility of Vicksburg taking over the Pine Bluff franchise. This committee will secure the information on operating a club and then report back to a general committee, which has been formed to promote baseball interest in Vicksburg.

Members of this four-man committee, which will attend the league meeting are J. C. O'Neil, Sam Hazel, Herbert Jolly, and John Gill.

The Hattiesburg Chamber of Commerce named President Harty as their representative and asked him to advise them on the operation of a club.

A schedule committee will also be named at the meeting and plans for the 1941 Cotton States race are to be made. Monroe, in all probability, will continue in the league again next year.

EAGLES LOOKING FOR INVITATION TO SUGAR BOWL

Have Only Auburn and Holy Cross Left On 1940 Grid Schedule

By Bill Boni

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A grand Boston College team that was amply equipped with fight, speed and inspiration fought its way into the front ranks of the nation's football teams today by removing Georgetown from the ranks of the undefeated, 19 to 18, in a frantic struggle before 40,000 frenzied customers at Fenway park.

Content to win their first seven games with a minimum of plays and formations, the unbeaten Eagles let the cat out of the bag and their trick plays with it this raw afternoon as they played wide-open and smart football on offense, determined football on defense and game-winning football all the way.

Leading by 19 to 16 with 65 seconds left to play, Boston was backed down deep in its own territory with fourth down coming up and 18 yards to go from its own 9. Deciding to trust to its defense to keep Georgetown at bay for those 65 seconds, the Eagles dropped Charley O'Rourke back into the end zone, ostensibly for a punt.

But the [illegible]-pound Eagle triple-threat, a great back this afternoon, wasn't risking a blocked kick. Like a penned-up fox, and just as smart, O'Rourke scurried back and fourth in his end zone until finally he was downed, as he had meant to be all the time. That safety brought Georgetown up to within a point of Boston, but Boston's faith in its defense proved to be founded on fact as the clock ran out with the desperate Hoyas fast getting nowhere.

Thus Georgetown went down to defeat for the first time in three seasons and 24 games, and B. C. came through its eighth straight this year without either defeat or tie. Tonight Eagle supporters were looking ahead to [illegible] Auburn and Holy Cross in the [illegible] and then an invitation to the New Orleans Sugar Bowl.

OUACHITA TEAMS START PRACTICE

Lion Coaches State Prospects Are Bright For Two Cage Squads

The Ouachita Parish High school basketball squads have begun work under Coach Leo Hartman and [illegible]

[illegible]

Andre Jeansonne, Lois Jane Gerson, Marie Goldman and Rosemary Harris are veterans of three years who will be back on the sextette. Florence Farlow, Julia Mae Rogers and Esther DeHarsh are two-year lettermen returning.

Dixie Burchell, Jean Bennett, Vera Van, Kelsay Ruth Seaver, and Eva May Rogers are the first-year girls bidding for places on the team.

The Ouachita girls hold five state championships. In 1939 they were defeated only once and then went on to win the Central Louisiana tally. They did not participate in the state rally.

The boys' squad is not yet at full strength, as Henry Hazlett, a veteran guard, and "Cotton" Hall, veteran forward, are still playing football.

Three high scoring members of the '39 team were lost through graduation. They were Dean Fields, all-state forward, Nelson Able, and Francis Whitlocks.

Malcolm Stone is slated to take Fields' position, while Junior Mears, James Smith, J. H. Butler, or W. E. Fordham will take Able's slot.

Mack Hinds, Thomas Mitchell, Allen Coats and Albert Bass are fighting for Whitlocks' place.

Regulars on last year's team, who will return, are Bobby Kilpatrick, Douglas Hinton and Hazelitt, guards, and Hall, forward.

Coach Hartman says that the the team should have plenty of speed and height needed in prep school basketball.

To develop future stars, the coach has several teams of freshmen working out on the court at noon daily.

Only one contest has been booked so far, that with Bolton High, December 13.

EXPORTER MANAGER MAY GO TO BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Buffalo Evening News says Albert Ladner Vincent, 1940 manager of the Beaumont, Tex., team in the Texas League, "may be the next manager" of the Buffalo Bisons in the International League.

The News says that Vincent has "behind him the approval and support of the Detroit Tigers, with whom the Bisons have been allied for the 1941 season."

Don Beach, secretary of the Buffalo club, said Vincent is "only one of a half dozen applicants," for the job vacated after three seasons by Steve O'Neill, who has been named Detroit coach.

NEVILLE PREPPING FOR FINAL CLASH

Tigers Meet Rayville Hornets In New Stadium Wednesday Afternoon

The Neville High Tigers will play the final game of their regular schedule Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. at their new stadium.

The Tigers came out of their bruising battle with the Carr Central High school Greenies of Vicksburg last Friday night in good shape. The loss was to a team outside the state and did not affect Neville's standing in the Northeast Louisiana Class A race.

The winner of the Rayville-Neville clash, however, will meet the powerful Bastrop Rams for the Northeast Louisiana title.

Coach Percy Brown announced that he would not scrimmage the Bengals this week as they will have only two days to polish up their play for the Hornets.

Even though the game with Vicksburg was played in below freezing temperatures and the turf was frozen, the Neville [illegible] started off in the first quarter like champions but penalties set them back and the heavier Greenies [illegible]

MICHIGAN REPULSES NORTHWESTERN, 20 TO 13

Red Grange Sees Harmon Come Within One Touchdown Of Record

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Michigan's determined football forces repulsed a clawing 72-yard march of Northwestern's Wildcats in the late minutes here today to win a 20 to 13 scoring circus before 76,749 blanketed spectators.

Harold (Red) Grange, the former Illinois "Galloping Ghost" took his first look at Tom Harmon and saw the Michigan All-America halfback score his 30th touchdown to come within one of the famous Redhead's record; but it was Bob Westfall, Michigan fullback, who stole the show.

Westfall twice stabbed across Northwestern's goal and, with three minutes to play, came up with the defensive gem by throwing Oliver (Red) Hahnenstein, wildest of the Wildcats, a yard short of a first down on the Michigan seven.

Hahnenstein personally had put Northwestern back into the game with an 80-yard touchdown gallop in the fourth period that narrowed Michigan's lead to seven points. Then, with Hahnenstein and Fullback Don Clawson leading the way, Northwestern went 72 yards in 13 plays before Westfall stepped in.

Northwestern's other touchdown came on a 48-yard aerial thrust on the first play of the second period when Bill De Correvont, the one-time national interscholastic high scorer, pitched a 26-yard pass to End Bob Motl, who ran the rest of the way unmolested.

Michigan scored twice in the first period, Harmon going over from the one-foot line after End Ed Frutig had blocked Hahnenstein's punt from the end zone. It was the 30th touchdown of Tommy's career and left him one short of Grange's mark of 31 with one game to go.

Westfall's first touchdown came nine minutes later after Sophomore (Tippy) Lockard had returned Hahnenstein's wobbly punt from the end zone for 23 yards to the five. On the third play Westfall plunged over from the one-foot line.

COTTON STATES TO HOLD ANNUAL WINTER MEETING

Conference Slated For Greenville, Miss., This Morning

The annual winter meeting of the Cotton States League club officials will take place in Greenville, Miss., today.

Representatives from the seven clubs in the loop and also from Vicksburg and Hattiesburg, Miss., are expected to be present at the conference.

The eighth, Pine Bluff, Ark., gave up its franchise near the end of the 1940 season. The club was continued in the league as a road club. Vicksburg and Hattiesburg are interested in this vacancy.

Max Moses, president of the White Sox, will represent the local club and has stated, together with his associates in the ownership, that they wish to sell.

A sports committee of the local Chamber of Commerce made the owners an offere on the franchise, players, and equipment, which was refused, the present owners deciding that they could make a better financial settlement by selling the players separately.

The Monroe White Sox finished some seven games in front of the El Dorado Oilers in the regular schedule and then went on to defeat Greenville and the Oilers in the Shaughnessy playoffs to win the pennant. Nevertheless, due to cold weather during the first part of the campaign, the games were poorly attended and resulted in a loss to the owners.

The sports committee, through the Chamber of Commerce secretary, George D. Holland, notified President Emmet Harty of the league that they were willing to take over the franchise and conduct the club on a civic basis with local fans taking an active and financial part in the management.

Besides the Monroe difficulties, which may be straightened out at the meeting, the league will discuss with a committee of four representing the Vicksburg interests, the possibility of Vicksburg taking over the Pine Bluff franchise. This committee will secure the information on operating a club and then report back to a general committee, which has been formed to promote baseball interest in Vicksburg.

Members of this four-man committee, which will attend the league meeting are J. C. O'Neil, Sam Hazel, Herbert Jolly, and John Gill.

The Hattiesburg Chamber of Commerce named President Harty as their representative and asked him to advise them on the operation of a club.

A schedule committee will also be named at the meeting and plans for the 1941 Cotton States race are to be made. Monroe, in all probability, will continue in the league again next year.

BLOCK HIGH BEARS DEFEAT ENTERPRISE

JONESVILLE, Nov. 16.—(Special)—In two of the fastest and most exciting games witnessed on the Enterprise floor this year, the Block High senior girls and senior boys defeated the Enterprise senior girls and boys in the second contests of a two-game series.

The Block Bears began functioning during the last half, scoring 17 points, to defeat the Enterprise aggregation 22 to 13. EAGLES LOOKING FOR INVITATION TO SUGAR BOWL

Have Only Auburn and Holy Cross Left On 1940 Grid Schedule

By Bill Boni

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A grand Boston College team that was amply equipped with fight, speed and inspiration fought its way into the front ranks of the nation's football teams today by removing Georgetown from the ranks of the undefeated, 19 to 18, in a frantic struggle before 40,000 frenzied customers at Fenway park.

Content to win their first seven games with a minimum of plays and formations, the unbeaten Eagles let the cat out of the bag and their trick plays with it this raw afternoon as they played wide-open and smart football on offense, determined football on defense and game-winning football all the way.

Leading by 19 to 16 with 65 seconds left to play, Boston was backed down deep in its own territory with fourth down coming up and 18 yards to go from its own 9. Deciding to trust to its defense to keep Georgetown at bat for those 65 seconds, the Eagles dropped Charley O'Rourke back into the end zone, ostensibly for a punt.

But the 155-pound Eagle triple-threat, a great back this afternoon, wasn't risking a blocked kick. Like a penned-up fox, and just as smart, O'Rourke scurried back and fourth in his end zone until finally he was downed, as he had meant to be all the time. That safety brought Georgetown up to within a point of Boston, but Boston's faith in its defense proved to be founded on fact as the clock ran out with the desperate Hoyas fast getting nowhere.

Thus Georgetown went down to defeat for the first time in three seasons and 24 games, and B. C. came through its eighth straight this year without either defeat or tie. Tonight, Eagle supporters were looking ahead to anti-climatic victories over Auburn and Holy Cross in the last two games and then an invitation to the New Orleans Sugar Bowl.

This was a football team which proved to have the plays and the punch when the pressure was on. Hit squarely on the button by two breaks that helped Georgetown to a 10-0 lead in the first five minutes of play, Coach Frank Leahy's Eagles came back to stage two glittering scoring parades for a 13-10 lead at half time.

Then, when Georgetown went 65 yards from the third-quarter kickoff to lead again by 16-13, the Eagles once again had what it took to put on a 67-yard retaliatory drive of their own that brought them the payoff score.

OUACHITA TEAMS START PRACTICE

Lion Coaches State Prospects Are Bright For Two Cage Squads

The Ouachita Parish High school basketball squads have begun work and Coach Leo Hartman and Mrs. E. Manheim stated that they were well pleased with the material reporting for the girls and boys teams.

The girls' team has been practicing daily and is expected to have another good team as it has had for the past five or six years. Coach Manheim has several veterans, who will be depended upon to carry out the starting assignments.

Audry Jeansonne, Lucy Jane Gerson, Marie Golemon and Rosemary Harris are veterans of three years, who will be back on the sextette. Florence Furlow, Julia May Rogers and Esther DeHarah are two-year lettermen returning.

Dasie Burchell, Jean Bennett, Vera Van, Kelsay Ruth Seivers, and Eva May Rogers are the first-year girls bidding for places on the team.

The Ouachita girls hold five state championships. In 1939 they were defeated only once and then went on to win the Central Louisiana rally. They did not participate in the state rally.

The boys' squad is not yet at full strength, as Henry Hazilett, a veteran guard, and "Cotton" Hall, vteran forward, are still playing football.

Three high scoring members of the '39 team were lost through graduation. They were Dean Fields, all-state forward; Nelson Able, and Francis Whitlocks.

Malcolm Stone is slated to take Fields' position, while Junior Mears, James Smith, I. H. Butler, or W. E. Fordham will take Able's slot.

Mack Hinds, Thomas Mitchell, Allen Coats and Albert Bass are fighting for Whitlocks' place.

Regulars on last year's team, who will return, are Bobby Kilpatrick, Douglas Hinton and Hazelitt, guards, and Hall, forward.

Coach Hartman says that the the team should have plenty of speed and height needed in prep school basketball.

To develop future stars, the coach has several teams of freshmen working out on the court at noon daily.

Only one contest has been booked so far, that with Bolton High, December 13.

EXPORTER MANAGER MAY GO TO BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Buffalo Evening News says Albert Lidner Vincent, 1940 manager of the Beaumont, Tex., team in the Texas League, "may be the next manager" of the Buffalo Bisons in the International League.

The News says that Vincent has "behind him the approval and support of the Detroit Tigers, with whom the Bisons have been allied for the 1941 season."

Don Beach, secretary of the Buffalo club, said Vincent is "only one of a half dozen applicants," for the job vacated after three seasons by Steve O'Neill, who has been named Detroit coach.

NAVY, COLUMBIA TIE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Navy crashed like big breakers against the rock-bound defenses of Columbia today and was lucky to escape with a scoreless tie before 31,000 fans.

Although the heavier Midshipmen rolled over the Lions with nine first downs to three, just as they had dominated their last two losing frays with Penn and Notre Dame, the heroics and the drama belonged to the Lions.

NEVILLE PREPPING FOR FINAL CLASH

Tigers Meet Rayville Hornets In New Stadium Wednesday Afternoon

The Neville High Tigers will play the final game of their regular schedule Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. at their new stadium.

The Tigers came out of their bruising battle with the Carr Central High school Greenies of Vicksburg last Friday night in good shape. The loss was to a team outside the state and did not affect Neville's standing in the Northeast Louisiana Class A race.

The winner of the Rayville-Neville clash, however, will meet the powerful Bastrop Rams for the Northeast Louisiana title.

Coach Percy Brown announced that he would not scrimmage the Bengals this week as they will have only two days to polish up their play for the Hornets.

Even though the game with Vicksburg was played in below freezing temperature and the turf was frozen, the Neville gridders started off in the first quarter like champions, but penalties set them back and the heavier Greenie eleven finally got started in the second quarter to score three times and sew up the game.

Norman Dillard, big fullback, will still be on the sidelines when the Tigers play Rayville. He was injured in the opening minutes of the Homecoming tilt with Ruston and has been out over since.

The Rayville team is one of the strongest in this section of the state, losing only to Bastrop this year. Their game with the Rams was close all the way with the winner being in doubt up to the final quarter.

The Hornets will be at full strength for the clash with Neville and will have had a 10-day rest.

Neville has won four games this season, beating Menard Memorial High of Alexandria, Mangham, Oak Grove, and Farmerville. They won on first downs from Ruston in a scoreless draw at their Homecoming and stadium dedication, and have been beaten by Bossier City, Istrouma, and Vicksburg.

A loss to Rayville would end their season for good and even them up in the won-lost records, not counting the tilt with Ruston.

IOWA TRIPS MIGHTY NOTRE DAME TEAM, 7-0

HAWKEYES BLAST DREAMS OF IRISH OF PERFECT YEAR

Amazing Iowans Perform Brilliantly When Breaks Come Their Way

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Mighty Notre Dame fell from the ranks of the nation's undefeated and untied teams today, bowing to the amazing Iowa Hawkeyes, who performed brilliantly when the breaks came their way to score a 7 to 0 victory before 50,000 shivering spectators.

The hopes of the Fighting Irish for their first perfect season in a decade foundered on their own mistakes and the inspired play of the Iowans, who had lost four games in a row.

Iowa, using only 15 men in the entire game, staved off every Irish thrust until the final period when their opportunity came. Notre Dame, early in the fourth, drove to the Hawks' one yard line but the much-defeated underdogs held and took the ball on downs. Jim Youel punted out and the Irish roared back to the 10 yard line.

At this point Captain Milt Piepul fumbled and Iowa's captain, Mike Enich, recovered the ball [illegible] to the Iowa 46.

Cup To Be Given To Winner Of Miami-Nassau Ocean Yacht Race

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor will donate a perpetual challenge trophy for first prize in the Miami-Nassau ocean yacht race.

Commodore Roland T. Symonette of the Nassau Yacht Club informed Miami Yacht Club officers of the Duke's offer. The two clubs sponsor the annual 185 nautical mile race.

The Duke accepted the title of commodore of the Nassau Yacht Club soon after he became governor of the Bahamas.

Nassauvians say the Duke sees the annual contest as an international sporting event that not only brings British and American yachtsmen together in friendly competition but attracts United States boatmen to Nassau.

The race is a handicap event and the Duke's trophy will go to the skipper of the boat which has the fastest corrected time.

The yacht Stormy Weather has been the winner for the past three years.

This year the race will begin February 11. The dates fit into the coordinated schedule of the southeastern ocean racing conference.

The program will begin this winter with the Sir Thomas Lipton cup race here February 8 and will include the Governor's Cup race at Nassau, the St. Petersburg-Havana race and the Havana-Key West race.

OUACHITA ELEVEN TO PLAY BOLTON

Lions Journey To Alexandria For Tilt With Bears Thanksgiving Day

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions will clash with the Bolton High Bears in Alexandria Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

After this game the Lions will have only the postponed Byrd contest remaining on their schedule and it is doubtful that they will ever play that game. The epidemic of infantile paralysis which caused the Shreveport schools to be closed and the cessation of football practice until November 25, forced the local school officials to postpone the game which was scheduled here.

Then should Fair Park defeat the Yellow Jackets, the Lions would be champions of the North Louisiana Class AA bracket and the game would not affect the standing to any great extent. Principal Jack Hayes and Coach Mack Avants, however, declared that a decision in the case would not be reached until the Shreveport schools opened.

The Lions, although given an extra week's rest by the postponement of the game, will still be crippled for their tilt with the Bears. Both Cullen Kirby and Mitchell Funderburk, first string wings, have injuries that will keep them on the bench for the remainder of the season. Both were hurt in the game with Fair Park. Kirby suffered a broken leg and Funderburk had the ligaments in his knee badly torn.

The Bolton eleven is coached by P. S. Walker and runs its plays from the Notre Dame formation. The Bears have engaged in a tough schedule this year, which has caused their victories to be fewer than their defeats. They have lost to Lake Charles, Jennings, Istrouma and Minden.

Velpo Guess, a converted backfielder, and Henry Hazlett, a 6 foot 4 inch gridder, have taken over the end assignments for the Lions. Hazlett has looked especially good during the week's practice, Coach Avants said. Milam Town and Burton Sikes will be their replacements.

Sam McInnis and Sonny Foreman will be the tackles, Wayne Doss and "Cotton" Hall will be the guards, with Bill Eason at center.

Hewitt, Brown, Pate, and Pace will start in the backfield with McKeithen, Simpson, Moncrief, and Burdine the second string.

Earl Sinclair, Rudy Eason, Jack Downing, Jack Dray, Henry Smith, and Melton will also see plenty of service in the line.

Northeast Junior College Plays Southeastern Lions

Spirited Rivalry Will Be Renewed At Brown Stadium Friday

The Northeast Junior collegians, no longer among the unbeaten teams, will meet the Southeastern Louisiana College Lions at Brown Stadium Thursday afternoon at 2:30 p.m., in a Thanksgiving Day contest.

This will be the seventh renewal of a gridiron rivalry that produces a hard-fought game regardless of past records of the two teams.

In the six previous games the Indians have won three and lost one. The other two were ties. The Northeast Junior College eleven won in 1934, 26-6, repeated in 1935, 16-6, and won last year, 2-0. The Lions won their lone victory in 1936, 22-7, while the contest in '37 and '38 ended in scoreless ties.

The Indians suffered their first defeat of the year Friday night at the hands of the Arkansas Tech eleven. Five victims have fallen before the Indians, including the Pensacola Flyers, who met defeat, 14-0. The Flyers tied the Southeastern eleven in Hammond, 7-7.

The Lions lost to Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs, 26-6, Friday night.

Coach Jim Malone of the Indians and Coach Lloyd Stovall of the Lions were teammates at Louisiana State University, while Assistant Coach Ernie Seago of Northeast Junior College and Assistant Coach Jess Fatheree of Southeastern were teammates at the same school several years later.

The contest between these two teams have been featured by upsets. In the 1937 tilt, the Indians were the highest scoring eleven in junior college circles while the Lions had only a fair season, but the game ended in a scoreless tie. The following year the Lions were heavy favorites to win and the Indians held them to another scoreless tie. Again, in 1939, the Lions were supposed to win and, when the results were in, the score was 2-0 in favor of the Indians.

During the first three years of this gridiron rivalry the Southeastern school was a junior college, but in 1937 they became a four-year college and entered the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association and later entered the Louisiana Intercollegiate Conference.

However, the annual tilt with the Indians remained their big game of the year, and the Lions would rather beat the Indians than any other team on their schedule.

This will be the next to the last game on the Indians' schedule. A tilt with the East Central Mississippi Junior College will be the final clash. That game is also scheduled for Brown Stadium.

HUSKERS TAKE PITT

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Pitt jinx which the Nebraska Cornhuskers buried a year ago nearly heaved its way through the cold sod of the stadium here today but couldn't quite make it, and the Huskers left the snow-laden gridiron with a 9-to-7 decision, their sixth since they were defeated by Minnesota in the season's opener.

TENNESSEE VOLS WALLOP VIRGINIA

Cavalier Back Runs Back Kickoff Through Entire Team For Tally

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Courage and Little Bill Dudley were insufficient today, and a fighting crew of Virginia Cavaliers went down under Tennessee's steamroller, 41-14, before 7,000 frost-bitten fans.

The Virginia team, unable to penetrate beyond Tennessee's 47 in the first quarter, uncorked a barrage of passes in the third period to march 71 yards to its first touchdown. The second came in the final quarter when Dudley gathered in Tennessee's last kickoff and raced 87 yards for the tally. The slender halfback, who weighs 168 pounds, also kicked both extra points.

Virginia's touchdowns were the first scored on Tennessee on Shield Watkins field since Ken Kavanaugh of Louisiana State turned the trick in 1938.

For the rest of the game it was all Tennessee. The big Orange team, winning its 30th consecutive game in regular season competition, drove relentlessly over the lighter Virginia team. Most of the Vols' six touchdowns came on straight, hard football with a minimum of frills and little chance-taking.

FERRIDAY, Nov. 16.—(Special)—Ferriday's Bulldogs cleared another barrier in their race for the class C championship of North Louisiana and a possible state title by disposing of a light, but battling Franklin county, Mississippi, Aggie team, from Meadville Friday night at Fisher Field by a score of 19 to 0.

Playing without the services of S. G. Williams, high scoring fullback and All-State Victor Cross, standout terminal, the Bulldogs outplayed the visiting Mississippians, leading 6 to 0 in the last period after James Beard, reserve back crossed the Aggies goal line in the second quarter.

The Bulldogs sparked by Austin Wilson, stellar quarterback, scored 13 more points on Wilson's broken field run for a marker. Welch's extra point placement and Ben Green's interception of a Meadville pass in the closing minutes of the contest. Green, an end, ran 40 yards, after an interception, for a score.

Coach Charles Loomis' locals were playing under wraps as the team meets the undefeated Newellton Bears in Newellton Thanksgiving day, November 21 in a game which may decide the North Louisiana Class B title.

Newellton is without a tie while Ferriday was tied by Clarks. Last year's runners-up, Clarks, also made more first downs than the Bulldogs and if Newellton ties the locals, they might win because of this. However, a Bulldog victory would send the Canines into the playoff with another Class B team.

OLE MISS WINS BREATHER, 38-7

Rebels Down Fighting Band Of Tennessee Teachers In Easy Manner

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The University of Mississippi Rebels played in fitful bursts of excellent form today to down the West Tennessee Teachers of Memphis 38 to 7.

The Southeastern conference team won about as it wanted from the alert but out-manned Teacher eleven, scoring in every period with first, second and third string performers.

The Teachers blocked punts and intercepted several passes early in the tilt, and produced a definite threat in John Van Pulpen to keep the Rebels guessing, especially in the second period.

Tackle John Pivarnik set up the first touchdown for Ole Miss when he intercepted Preton Watts' hurried pass, and from the West Tennessee 20 Les Dodson and Jimmy Tillman drove for a score.

A fumble by Van Pulpen, gathered in by Bill Hazel, enabled Merle Hapes to tally in the second period. A pass interception by Dan Wood gave Junie Hovious his scoring chance three plays later, and Ole Miss led 19-0 at the half.

Dodson led an [illegible] third period drive of 72 yards and gave the Rebels a 25-0 margin, but Watts sparked another for the Teachers equally as good. He ran the ball and passed to Sam Hindsman for most of the yardage and closed the march with a short aerial to Hindsman for the marker.

The "H-Boys" Hovious and Hapes alternated with runs and passes to Bill Eubanks and Bubber North to chalk up a pair of touchdowns in the final period, moving 93 yards for the first, and from the Ole Miss 35 for the second.

IOWA TRIPS MIGHTY NOTRE DAME TEAM, 7-0

HAWKEYES BLAST DREAMS OF IRISH OF PERFECT YEAR

Amazing Iowans Perform Brilliantly When Breaks Come Their Way

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Mighty Notre Dame fell from the ranks of the nation's undefeated and untied teams today, bowing to the amazing Iowa Hawkeyes, who performed brilliantly when the breaks came their way to score a 7 to 0 victory before 50,000 shivering spectators.

The hopes of the Fighting Irish for their first perfect season in a decade foundered on their own mistakes and the inspired play of the Iowans, who had lost four games in a row.

Iowa, using only 15 men in the entire game, staved off every Irish thrust until the final period when their opportunity came. Notre Dame, early in the fourth, drove to the Hawks' one yard line but the much-defeated underdogs held and took the ball on downs. Jim Youell punted out and the Irish roared back to the 10 yard line.

At this point Captain Milt Piepul fumbled and Iowa's captain, Mike Enich, snatched the ball in mid-air and ran 36 yards to the Iowa 46.

The aroused Irish stopped the attack and Youell punted to the Irish 25. Al Couppee intercepted Bob Saggau's pass on the first play and returned eight yards to the 23. The Hawks drove to the 17 and Bill Gallagher tried a field goal from the 25 but his boot was wide of the uprights.

The luckless Irish started from their own 20, but again on the first play little Steve Bagarus fumbled and Ken Pettit recovered on the Notre Dame 24. Big Bill Green roared through the Irish for 22 yards in two plays, Gallagher added one at center and then Green smashed over right guard for the touchdown. Gallagher placekicked the point.

NORTH CAROLINA BEATS DUKE, 6-3

Sweet LaLanne Leads Tar Heels In Stunning Upset Of Blue Devils

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—With an astounding surge of power which netted a fourth quarter touchdown, an inspired, brilliantly fighting University of North Carolina football team scored a stunning 6 to 3 upset today over Dukes' Blue Devils.

Forty-one thousand persons watched the amazing display by a team which had previously been off-color as often as it had clicked.

Carolina's offense had been held tight by Duke until midway the third quarter, Duke leading 3-0 at that time and the Tar Heels not having made a first down, but quickly the tables were turned and the upset was accomplished.

Jim (Sweet) LaLanne touched off the fireworks with a 10-yard line slice from his 25, and a 75-yard scoring drive was under way after that initial first down.

LaLanne was the spearhead of the attack and it was a 10-yard flip by him to Joe Austin which tallied the touchdown. Paul Severin, who once saved the contest with a never-say-die chase and tackle of Steve Lach, failed to convert from placement, but the six points got bigger and bigger and finally stood up.

Duke tallied its three points late in the second quarter when Tony Rufa booted a 21-yard field goal from placement.

Cup To Be Given To Winner Of Miami-Nassau Ocean Yacht Race

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor will donate a perpetual challenge trophy for first prize in the Miami-Nassau ocean yacht race.

Commodore Roland T. Symonette of the Nassau Yacht Club informed Miami Yacht Club officers of the Duke's offer. The two clubs sponsor the annual 185 nautical mile race.

The Duke accepted the title of commodore of the Nassau Yacht Club soon after he became governor of the Bahamas.

Nassauvians say the Duke sees the annual contest as an international sporting event that not only brings British and American yachtsmen together in friendly competition but attracts United States boatmen to Nassau.

The race is a handicap event and the Duke's trophy will go to the skipper of the boat which has the fastest corrected time.

The yacht Stormy Weather has been the winner for the past three years.

This year the race will begin February 11. The dates fit into the coordinated schedule of the southeastern ocean racing conference.

The program will begin this winter with the Sir Thomas Lipton cup race here February 8 and will include the Governor's Cup race at Nassau, the St. Petersburg-Havana race and the Havana-Key West race.

MAROONS DEFEAT MILLSAPS, 46 TO 13

Mississippi State Piles Up 34 Points In First Three Periods

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 16.—(AP)—With second and third-string men carrying the load, Mississippi State scored in every period to defeat a game Millsaps College team, 46-13, today before 10,500 fans, including 6,704 high school day guests.

After piling up a 34-0 lead in the first three periods, the Maroons' third and fourth-string men swapped a pair of touchdowns with Millsaps.

Walter Craig, Maroon wingback, scored from the eight-yard line in the first period after State had recovered a Millsaps' fumble on the 14-yard line. Wilbur Dees kicked the point from placement, and State waited until the second to get its second touchdown. Billy Jeferson, big tailback, scored from the 18 after an 85-yard drive. Sonny Bruce kicked the point and State led, 14-0, at halftime.

State scored again two minutes after Dees had returned the second-half kickoff 29 yards to the Maroons' 39.

Craig went over from the three after Harvey Johnson's runs of 20 and 10 yards had sparked the march, and then Jefferson tallied.

Sophomore Fullback Charles Yancey made the other third-period score, going over from the three-yard line after a 65-yard drive.

Bob Ford, tailback, and Fullback Felix Neal, both third-stringers, scored for the Maroons in the last period, while Millsaps' Ed Gillum, halfback, scored on a 16-yard pass from Charley Ward, and Curtis King plunged for another.

Michigan made nine first downs to Northwestern's eight, but the Wildcats rolled for 285 yards by rushing and passing to Michigan's 211. Hahnenstein raced 103 yards in 13 tries for individual ball carrying honors, while Harmon picked up 95 yards and Westfall 92, each in 23 attempts.

YELLOW JACKET DRIVE IN FINAL MOMENTS FAILS

Nelson, 'Bama Back, Returns Kickoff For 93 Yards And Touchdown

By Kenneth Gregory

ATLANTA, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Lil' David almost slew another Goliath today, but fate stepped in to side with the giant—Alabama's Crimson Tide—and courageous Georgia Tech's noble effort failed by the slim margin of a single point.

The big red-shirted Alabama football team won the argument in this Southeastern Conference duel, 14 to 13, but a gamely fighting Georgia Tech team rose from an underdog role to take the edge in all figures but the scoring and barely miss penetrating for a winning touchdown.

Some 25,000 customers, witnessing thrill after thrill, among them a 93-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Alabama's great halfback, Jimmy Nelson, saw Georgia Tech roll up 16 first downs to 5 for the Crimsons, rush the ball 160 yards to 125 and collect 165 to 13 yards for Alabama by passing.

Hardly had the game got underway before the Yellow Jackets—dressed in blue shirts for the first time in many a moon—marched 71 yards only to be turned back at the Alabama four. It was another drive like this that crashed to Alabama's three in the waning minutes where a desperate field goal attempt for victory failed.

Thwarting an Alabama threat at the 20, Georgia Tech took the ball and drove 80 yards to score, featuring a lateral from little Johnny Bosch to Jack Hancock. The touchdown came on a nine-yard pass from Bosch to End Bob Ison, who played a stellar pass snagging game.

Then came Nelson's spectacular run on which the highly favored Alabamans took the lead never to relinquish it. Guard Charlie Sanders kicked off to Nelson, who took it on the Alabama seven with a burst of speed that found perfect blocking. He raced the full 93 yards without a hand laid on him and George Hecht kicked the point.

A masterful piece of punt blocking by Alabama's alert end, Holt Rast, set the Crimson Tide up for its winning points. Rast darted in fast to block Hawk Cavette's kick and it rolled out at the 29. Alabama's lone pass of 13 yards helped to the Tech two and Fullback Paul Spencer rammed it over in four tries. DeShane's point after provided the victory margin.

Unshaken and playing far above the expected for a team that had lost its last three games, Georgia Tech took the kickoff and drove back 72 yards for a score. Substitute Back Dick Bates went in and started passing. His first found Ison for 27 yards. Then he fired a strike to George Webb for 11 and followed this with another toss to Webb who snagged it at the 15, tore loose from a defender and raced over. Goree kicked the point.

Still that single point behind, the blue-clad Yellow Jackets staged what looked like the payoff. With Bates passing alternately to Webb and Ison, Tech marched from Alabama's 49 to the nine. Line smashes picked up six and Tech gambled on a field goal.

The fate of the outcome was entrusted to the toe of Fullback Roy Goree. Goree kicked but it was too low. There was the game.

Lions Journey To Alexandria For Tilt With Bears Thanksgiving Day

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions will clash with the Bolton High Bears in Alexandria Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

After this game, the Lions will have only the postponed Byrd contest remaining on their schedule and it is doubtful that they will ever play that game. The epidemic of infantile paralysis, which caused the Shreveport schools to be closed and the cessation of football practice until November 25, forced the local school officials to postpone the game which was scheduled here.

Then should Fair Park defeat the Yellow Jackets, the Lions would be champions of the North Louisiana Class AA bracket and the game would not affect the standing to any great extent. Principal Jack Hayes and Coach Mack Avants, however, declared that a decision in the case would not be reached until the Shreveport schools opened.

The Lions, although given an extra week's rest by the postponement of the game, will still be crippled for their tilt with the Bears. Both Cullen Kirby and Mitchell Funderburk, first string wings, have injuries that will keep them on the bench for the remainder of the season. Both were hurt in the game with Fair Park. Kirby suffered a broken leg and Funderburk had the ligaments in his knee badly torn.

The Bolton eleven is coached by P. S. Walker and runs its plays from the Notre Dame formation. The Bears have engaged in a tough schedule this year, which has caused their victories to be fewer than their defeats. They have lost to Lake Charles, Jennings, Istrouma and Minden.

Velpo Guess, a converted backfielder, and Henry Hazilett, a 6 foot 4 inch gridder, have taken over the end assignments for the Lions. Hazilett has looked especially good during the week's practice, Coach Avants said. Milam Towns and Buron Sikes will be their replacements.

Sam McInnis and Sonny Foreman will be the tackles, Wayne Doss and "Cotton" Hall will be the guards, with Bill Eason at center.

Hewitt, Brown, Pate, and Pace will start in the backfield with McKeithen, Simpson, Moncrief, and Burdine the second string.

Northeast Junior College Plays Southeastern Lions

Spirited Rivalry Will Be Renewed At Brown Stadium Friday

The Northeast Junior collegians, no longer among the unbeaten teams, will meet the Southeastern Louisiana College Lions at Brown Stadium Thursday afternoon at 2:30 p.m., in a Thanksgiving Day contest.

This will be the seventh renewal of a gridiron rivalry that produces a hard-fought game regardless of past records of the two teams.

In the six previous games the Indians have won three and lost one. The other two were ties. The Northeast Junior College eleven won in 1934, 26-6, repeated in 1935, 16-6, and won last year, 2-0. The Lions won their lone victory in 1936, 22-7, while the contest in '37 and '38 ended in scoreless ties.

The Indians suffered their first defeat of the year Friday night at the hands of the Arkansas Tech eleven. Five victims have fallen before the Indians, including the Pensacola Flyers, who met defeat, 14-0. The Flyers tied the Southeastern eleven in Hammond, 7-7.

The Lions lost to Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs, 26-6, Friday night.

Coach Jim Malone of the Indians and Coach Lloyd Stovall of the Lions were teammates at Louisiana State University, while Assistant Coach Ernie Seago of Northeast Junior College and Assistant Coach Jess Fatheree of Southeastern were teammates at the same school several years later.

The contest between these two teams have been featured by upsets. In the 1937 tilt, the Indians were the highest scoring eleven in junior college circles while the Lions had only a fair season, but the game ended in a scoreless tie. The following year the Lions were heavy favorites to win and the Indians held them to another scoreless tie. Again, in 1939, the Lions were supposed to win and, when the results were in, the score was 2-0 in favor of the Indians.

During the first three years of this gridiron rivalry the Southeastern school was a junior college, but in 1937 they became a four-year college and entered the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association and later entered the Louisiana Intercollegiate Conference.

However, the annual tilt with the Indians remained their big game of the year, and the Lions would rather beat the Indians than any other team on their schedule.

This will be the next to the last game on the Indians' schedule. A tilt with the East Central Mississippi Junior College will be the final clash. That game is also scheduled for Brown Stadium.

HUSKERS TAKE PITT

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 16. — (AP) — The Pitt jinx which the Nebraska Cornhuskers buried a year ago nearly heaved its way through the cold sod of the stadium here today but couldn't quite make it, and the Huskers left the snow-laden gridiron with a 9-to-7 decision, their sixth since they were defeated by Minnesota in the season's opener.

TENNESSEE VOLS WALLOP VIRGINIA

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Courage and Little Bill Dudley were insufficient today, and a fighting crew of Virginia Cavaliers went down under Tennessee's steamroller, 41-14, before 7,000 frost-bitten fans.

The Virginia team, unable to penetrate beyond Tennessee's 47 in the first quarter, uncorked a barrage of passes in the third period to march 71 yards to its first touchdown. The second came in the final quarter when Dudley gathered in Tennessee's last kickoff and raced 87 yards for the tally. The slender halfback, who weighs 168 pounds, also kicked both extra points.

Virginia's touchdowns were the first scored on Tennessee on Shield Watkins field since Ken Kavanaugh of Louisiana State turned the trick in 1938.

For the rest of the game it was all Tennessee. The big Orange team, winning its 30th consecutive game in regular season competition, drove relentlessly over the lighter Virginia team. Most of the Vols' six touchdowns came on straight, hard football with a minimum of frills and little chance-taking.

FERRIDAY, Nov. 16.—(Special)—Ferriday's Bulldogs cleared another barrier in their race for the class C championship of North Louisiana and a possible state title by disposing of a light, but battling Franklin county, Mississippi, Aggie team, from Meadville Friday night at Fisher Field by a score of 19 to 0.

Playing without the services of S. G. Williams, high scoring fullback and All-State Victor Cross, standout terminal, the Bulldogs outplayed the visiting Mississippians, leading 6 to 0 in the last period after James Beard, reserve back crossed the Aggies goal line in the second quarter.

The Bulldogs sparked by Austin Wilson, stellar quarterback, scored 13 more points on Wilson's broken field run for a marker. Welsh's extra point placement and Ben Green's interception of a Meadville pass in the closing minutes of the contest. Green, an end, ran 40 yards, after an interception, for a score.

Coach Charles Loomis' locals were playing under wraps as the team meets the undefeated Newellton Bears in Newellton Thanksgiving day, November 21 in a game which may decide the North Louisiana Class B title.

Newellton is without a tie while Ferriday was tied by Clarks. Last year's runners-up, Clarks, also made more first downs than the Bulldogs and if Newellton ties the locals, they might win because of this. However, a Bulldog victory would send the Canines into the playoff with another Class B team.

Rebels Down Fighting Band Of Tennessee Teachers In Easy Manner

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The University of Mississippi Rebels played in fitful bursts of excellent form today to down the West Tennessee Teachers of Memphis 38 to 7.

Dodson led an early third period drive of 72 yards and gave the Rebels a 25-0 margin, but Watts sparked another for the Teachers equally as good. He ran the ball and passed to Sam Hindsman for most of the yardage and closed the march with a short aerial to Hindsman for the market.

Officials at selective service headquarters in New Orleans yesterday explained the rights and immunities of men who volunteer or who are called into the service. It was pointed out that the new law, which became effective October 17 and is to remain in force until May 15, 1945, supercedes similar provisions of law incorporated in the national guard and selective service acts.

Purpose of the act, as explained by officials at Jackson Barracks, is to free persons in military service from harassment and injury to their rights and to enable them to devote their full energies to the nation's defense needs.

Generally, the method of the act is to provide for adequate representation of the soldier during his absence or to authorize the postponement of certain proceedings and transactions until his return from military service. There is nothing in the act which relieves a soldier from the eventual payment of his obligations.

It is only when the soldier's ability to meet his obligations has been impaired, because of military service, that relief is afforded, and this relief is principally against the penalties that would be imposed for non-payment of such obligations. In the traditional American way, the war department states, the question of the extent to which relief is to be afforded generally is left to the descretion of the courts.

federal administrative agencies. Opponents of the bill contend it would hamstring such bodies as the securities commission and the National Labor Relations Board. It was passed by the House last June.

In addition, there have been renewed demands, backed by the American Federation of Labor, for Senate action on House-approved amendments to the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

A source of possible major controversy is a proposal by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, to relax present restrictions and permit Great Britain to make war purchases in this country on credit. This resolution is before the Senate foreign relations committee which must be reorganized since its chairman, Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, died last Sunday.

Among other matters which may arise if the session is continued are these:

1. Election of a president pro tempore in the Senate to succeed Pittman. With Vice-President Garner home in Texas, some Democratic senators are anxious to have this key position filled at once. The president pro tempore presides in the absence of the vice-president.

2. The nomination of Representative Dempsey, Democrat, New Mexico, to be a member of the maritime commission. Dempsey unsuccessfully opposed Senator Chavez for renomination in a bitter New Mexico Democratic Senatorial primary.

Truck crops in north central Florida were damaged, and the sugar and trucking regions of Louisiana were exposed to sub-freezing temperatures.

Several north Georgia communities shivered in morning lows of 15 and 16, while the cold wave in Alabama was the most severe in its history for November, temperatures falling to 21 along the gulf coast and as low as 12 at Florence in the northern part of the state.

In upstate New York driving was hazardous after heavy snows and freezing temperatures glazed the streets with ice. Twelve passengers in a bus en route from New York City to Buffalo were shaken up in a collision with an automobile near Batavia, where nearly four inches of snow fell.

SNOWDRIFT IS DEATHTRAP

Mrs. Clarence Tretbar and her daughter, 15, were frozen to death during a severe fall snowstorm which trapped their automobile in a huge drift near Mankato, Minn. Mrs. Tretbar's husband and two other children survived. Rescue workers are digging the car out of the snow. At least 20 others perished either on land or at sea during the storm which swept Minnesota and Lake Michigan.

ROANOKE, Va.—Mrs. Gordon Henry's Chihuahua pup went to the cleaners, but came back home none the worse for his experience.

The one-and-a-half-pound dog went to sleep in the family laundry bag. Shortly afterward, Mrs. Henry missed her pet and called the laundry. He was found beneath a pile of collected laundry, and returned home—unlaundered.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Because two buildings look alike from the rear, a contractor has completed a gratuitous $400 repair job.

The firm was given a contract for repairing a length of Genesee river wall behind a red brick building, completed the work and then discovered the contract was for the red brick structure next door.

SAYS GOVERNMENT WILL FAVOR A. F. L.

were making final preparations for their convention opening Monday when President William Green is expected to make a peace gesture toward the C. I. O.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, who will also address the convention Monday, is expected to urge labor peace as an aid in the United States defense program.

A. F. L. leaders, confident of tranquility in their session, frankly admit they are watching keenly developments in the C. I. O. convention opening at the same time in Atlantic City.

Events there, these leaders say, may have a profound influence on happenings in their own convention which may last three weeks, although they are openly skeptical that Lewis' promised resignation from the C. I. O. presidency will mean a lessening of his influence.

"What is wanted," Woll said, "is a reunion of the organized labor forces rather than a relationship of peace founded upon the existing order."

Defending the position of President Green in the labor conflict, Woll said he had never attempted to influence the A. F. L. executive council charged with carrying on peace negotiations with the C. I. O.

"He has constantly urged," said Woll, "that every effort be put forth to harmonize conflicting points of view and reestablish friendly relations, reaffiliations and unity."

Considering it "inconceivable" that the C. I. O. would disregard any suggestions of Lewis on the succession to the presidency, Woll said:

"To do so would immediately release President Lewis from every promise made and given to the C. I. O. unions. Then, too, he would be free to shape the course and destiny of the United Mine Workers regardless of the consequences that would befall the balance of C. I. O. unions."

Woll said he considered it likely the "impending conflict in the C. I. O." will weaken that organization and strengthen the A. F. L.

STIMSON ON TOUR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP)—Secretary Stimson left this morning by army plane for Fort Benning, Ga., on a five-day inspection trip of army posts in the south.

Stimson plans to visit Maxwell Field and Fort McClellan, Ala., and Camp Blanding, Fla., after addressing the American Federation of Labor convention at New Orleans Monday. He expects to return to Washington Thursday or Friday.

The war secretary was accompanied by his aide, Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Regnier.

communists in high C. I. O. jobs, and make all the acts of the C. I. O. president subject to the approval of an executive committee.

Questioned about the resolution from his Amalgamated Clothing Workers to prohibit any one from holding a paid job in C. I. O. who is a member of a Communist, Nazi and Fascist organization, Hillman said:

"The resolution is not controversial. All responsible C. I. O. leaders feel that way.

"I believe it's a sound policy for C. I. O. especially with national defense at stake. Labor must make sure that those who hold official positions have no divided loyalty."

Lewis, on the other hand, refused to discuss the resolution.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Steels, motors and other prominent industrials bore the brunt of further selling in today's stock market.

Sliding tendencies were in evidence at the start. A few isolated issues managed to cling to modest advances but losses of fractions to two or more points were widespread at the close.

Dealings were exceptionally light throughout, transfers for the two hours approximating 500,000 shares against better than 1,000,000 last Saturday. The let-down in volume came after nine consecutive million-share days.

While bearishness was not particularly pronounced in Wall Street, brokers found many of their customers inclined to lighten accounts for the week-end because of the renewal of intensified air bombings of England and fears fresh axis blows between now and Monday might prove unsettling to speculative sentiment.

United States Steel opened 10 minutes late on a block of 6,000 shares, off a point. It extended the retreat before mild support arrived.

Well down the greater part of the time were Bethlehem, Republic, Crucible Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Anaconda, Kennecott, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed, United Aircraft, Boeing, Texas Corporation and American Smelting.

Occasional resistance was shown by Johns-Manville, du Pont, Union Carbide, Sperry and American Telephone. Utilities and rails were narrowly lower.

Bonds and commodities were irregular.

Officials at selective service headquarters in New Orleans yesterday explained the rights and immunities of men who volunteer or who are called into the service. It was pointed out that the new law, which became effective October 17 and is to remain in force until May 15, 1945, supercedes similar provisions of law incorporated in the national guard and selective service acts.

Purpose of the act, as explained by officials at Jackson Barracks, is to free persons in military service from harassment and injury to their rights and to enable them to devote their full energies to the nation's defense needs.

Generally, the method of the act is to provide for adequate representation of the soldier during his absence or to authorize the postponement of certain proceedings and transactions until his return from military service. There is nothing in the act which relieves a soldier from the eventual payment of his obligations.

It is only when the soldier's ability to meet his obligations has been impaired, because of military service, that relief is afforded, and this relief is principally against the penalties that would be imposed for non-payment of such obligations. In the traditional American way, the war department states, the question of the extent to which relief is to be afforded generally is left to the descretion of the courts.

CONGRESS FACING MAJOR PROBLEM

federal administrative agencies. Opponents of the bill contend it would hamstring such bodies as the securities commission and the National Labor Relations Board. It was passed by the House last June.

In addition, there have been renewed demands, backed by the American Federation of Labor, for Senate action on House-approved amendments to the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

A source of possible major controversy is a proposal by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, to relax present restrictions and permit Great Britain to make war purchases in this country on credit. This resolution is before the Senate foreign relations committee which must be reorganized since its chairman, Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, died last Sunday.

Among other matters which may arise if the session is continued are these:

1. Election of a president pro tempore in the Senate to succeed Pittman. With Vice-President Garner home in Texas, some Democratic senators are anxious to have this key position filled at once. The president pro tempore presides in the absence of the vice-president.

2. The nomination of Representative Dempsey, Democrat, New Mexico, to be a member of the maritime commission. Dempsey unsuccessfully opposed Senator Chavez for renomination in a bitter New Mexico Democratic Senatorial primary.

serious damage in the pre-dawn freeze, some growers took precautions against the cold again last night by firing smudge pots.

Truck crops in north central Florida were damaged, and the sugar and trucking regions of Louisiana were exposed to sub-freezing temperatures.

Several north Georgia communities shivered in morning lows of 15 and 16, while the cold wave in Alabama was the most severe in its history for November, temperatures falling to 21 along the gulf coast and as low as 12 at Florence in the northern part of the state.

In upstate New York driving was hazardous after heavy snows and freezing temperatures glazed the streets with ice. Twelve passengers in a bus en route from New York City to Buffalo were shaken up in a collision with an automobile near Batavia, where nearly four inches of snow fell.

were making final preparations for their convention opening Monday when President William Green is expected to make a peace gesture toward the C. I. O.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, who will also address the convention Monday, is expected to urge labor peace as an aid in the United States defense program.

A. F. L. leaders, confident of tranquility in their session, frankly admit they are watching keenly developments in the C. I. O. convention opening at the same time in Atlantic City.

Events there, these leaders say, may have a profound influence on happenings in their own convention which may last three weeks, although they are openly skeptical that Lewis' promised resignation from the C. I. O. presidency will mean a lessening of his influence.

"What is wanted," Woll said, "is a reunion of the organized labor forces rather than a relationship of peace founded upon the existing order."

Defending the position of President Green in the labor conflict, Woll said he had never attempted to influence the A. F. L. executive council charged with carrying on peace negotiations with the C. I. O.

"He has constantly urged," said Woll, "that every effort be put forth to harmonize conflicting points of view and reestablish friendly relations, reaffiliations and unity."

Considering it "inconceivable" that the C. I. O. would disregard any suggestion of Lewis on the succession to the presidency, Woll said:

"To do so would immediately release President Lewis from every promise made and given to the C. I. O. unions. Then, too, he would be free to shape the course and destiny of the United Mine Workers regardless of the consequences that would befall the balance of C. I. O. unions."

Woll said he considered it likely the "impending conflict in the C. I. O." will weaken that organization and strengthen the A. F. L.

STIMSON ON TOUR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson left this morning by army plane for Fort Benning, Ga., on a five-day inspection trip of army posts in the south.

Stimson plans to visit Maxwell Field and Fort McClellan, Ala., and Camp Blanding, Fla., after addressing the American Federation of Labor convention at New Orleans Monday. He expects to return to Washington Thursday or Friday.

The war secretary was accompanied by his aide, Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Regnier.

communists in high C. I. O. jobs, and make all the acts of the C. I. O. president subject to the approval of an executive committee.

Questioned about the resolution from his Amalgamated Clothing Workers to prohibit any one from holding a paid job in C. I. O. who is a member of a Communist, Nazi and Fascist organization, Hillman said:

"The resolution is not controversial. All responsible C. I. O. leaders feel that way.

"I believe it's a sound policy for C. I. O. especially with national defense at stake. Labor must make sure that those who hold official positions have no divided loyalty."

Lewis, on the other hand, refused to discuss the resolution.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Steels, motors and other prominent industrials bore the brunt of further selling in today's stock market.

Sliding tendencies were in evidence at the start. A few isolated issues managed to cling to modest advances but losses of fractions to two or more points were widespread at the close.

Dealings were exceptionally light throughout, transfers for the two hours approximating 500,000 shares against better than 1,000,000 last Saturday. The let-down in volume came after nine consecutive million-share days.

While bearishness was not particularly pronounced in Wall Street, brokers found many of their customers inclined to lighten accounts for the week-end because of the renewal of intensified air bombings of England and fears fresh axis blows between now and Monday might prove unsettling to speculative sentiment.

United States Steel opened 10 minutes late on a block of 6,000 shares, off a point. It extended the retreat before mild support arrived.

Well down the greater part of the time were Bethlehem, Republic, Crucible Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Anaconda, Kennecott, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed, United Aircraft, Boeing, Texas Corporation and American Smelting.

Occasional resistance was shown by Johns-Manville, du Pont, Union Carbide, Sperry and American Telephone. Utilities and rails were narrowly lower.

Bonds and commodities were irregular.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Sugar narrow; covering and switching operations. Metals quiet; prices nominally unchanged. Wool tops mixed; trade covering, hedge selling.

ATMENT FOUND HROUGH TRAGEDY

Cure For Bad Burns Followed Crash Of Huge Nazi Dirigible

By Stephen J. McDonough
(Associated Press Science Editor)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Out of such a horror as the explosion of the German dirigible Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N. J., in 1937 came a new method of treatment for severe burns.

Lieutenant Commander Harry S. Ivory of the medical corps of the United States navy reported today in the Military Surgeon that the lives of three of the persons involved in the disaster had been saved by the administration of hormones from the cortex or covering of the adrenal glands which lie just under the kidneys.

Four persons in the same family were badly burned in the explosion, and all were treated with the usual administration of tannic acid sprayed on the burned surfaces, opiates to relieve pain, administration of salt and sugar solutions and blood transfusions.

One of the four, a 14-year-old girl, died despite all the efforts of Dr. Ivory and his hospital associates because more than three-fourths of her body had been burned.

With the other three, the mother and her two sons, who also had extensive third degree burns, Dr. Ivory began administering the adrenal cortex extract.

"Each case presented a severe state of toxemia, which, in my opinion, usually would have been fatal," he said. All three were in a semi-conscious condition with high fever, rapid breathing, extremely high heart rates, and blue color of the skin.

Very tiny amounts of the extract, one cubic centimer every hour, were administered and the result was dramatic. The patients rallied quickly from their comatose state, their pulse and heart rates dropped back to normal and they were able to eat.

"At least one of these patients would unquestionably have died had not the cortical adrenal extract been used," Dr. Ivory said. "Possibly the others might have survived without the extract, but even in their cases the clinical improvement after administration was strongly evident" and when the treatment was discontinued during certain periods they slipped back to their former state.

The effect of this treatment is apparently to replace a deficiency of hormones from the adrenal glands and to prevent the absorption of toxic substances from the burned areas into the body.

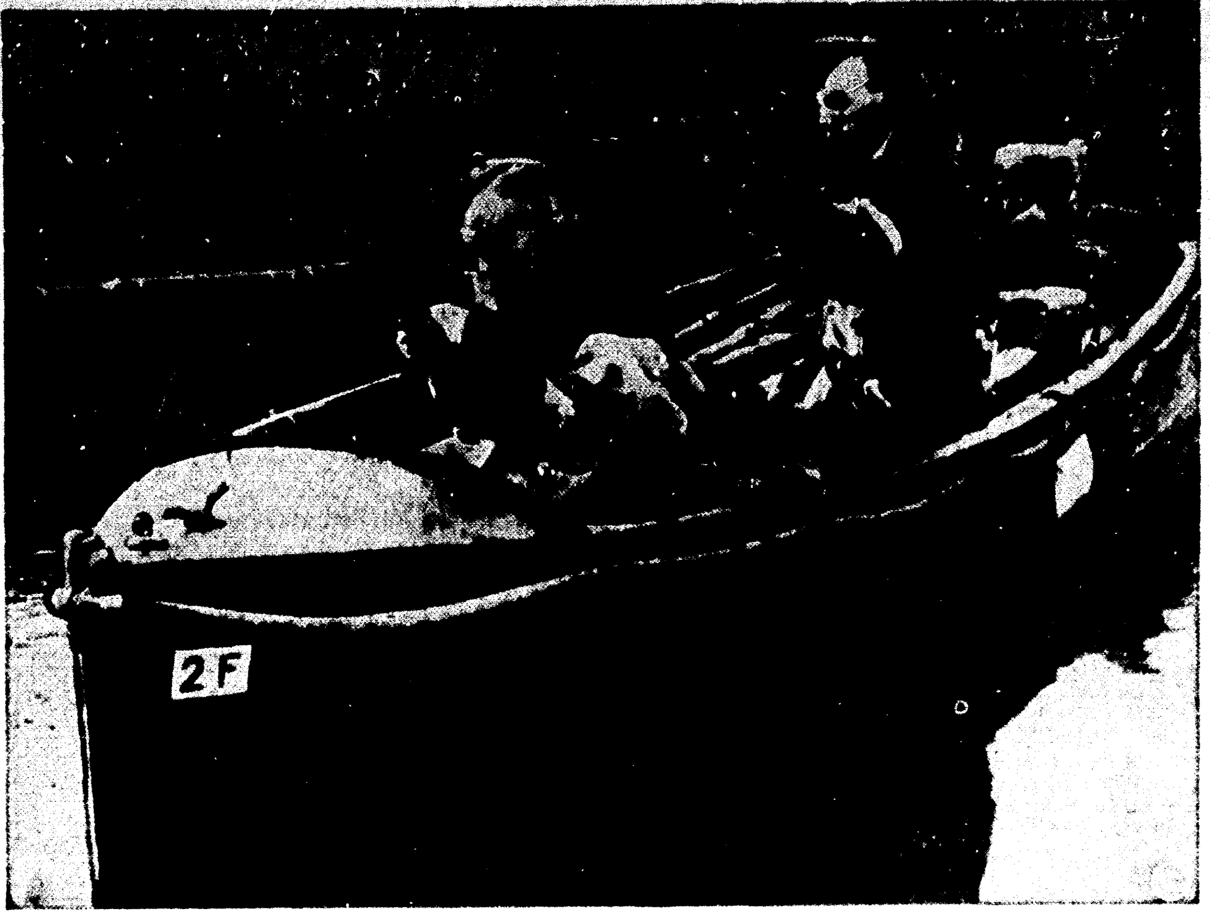
SCOTSMEN'S INLAND 'BATTLESHIP'



It's hardly a battleship, but this outboard motorboat can navigate the waterways of Scotland where regular naval ships can't go. So the Home Guards of a Scottish town have organized patrols in these small craft to protect their villages. Lewis machine gun mounted on bow is the "heavy artillery." Rifles complete boat's armament.

LITTLE THEATER ASSIGNS 6 ROLES

'The Inspector-General' Will Be Presented Here On December 13

Six additional members of the cast of "The Inspector-General," second Little Theater production scheduled for production Friday night, December 13, at the auditorium of the Northeast Junior College, were announced last night by Director Lorenzo Smith.

Courtney Ryland, 1109 Jackson street, will play Lyapkin-Tyapkin, the graft-infected judge of the provincial Russian town which is the setting for Nikolai Gogol's famous four-act satiric comedy on corrupt municipal government.

Max Braswell, 803 North Fourth street, West Monroe, is cast as Artmy Fillipovitch, the hospital commissioner who hires as doctor a "good fellow" who can't speak Russian. All of Fillipovitch's relatives are living in the hospital—empty of patients—in government-supported luxury.

Harry Peters, 811 North Third street, West Monroe, will play Mishka, a servant in the mayor's house. Bert Robinson, 319 North Third street, will play a constable; Roy Barr, Shreveport road, West Monroe, is police chief.

Tut Priou, 505 North Fifth street, is cast as a merchant who joins the throng in paying off the fake inspector-general.

(Hoss) Ross, the mayor; Clifton Furlow, Shepkin, the postmaster; Julius McKnight, Luka-Lukitch, superintendent of schools; Roy Henderson, Dobshinsky; Louis Pecastaing, Bobshinsky; Mary Bergevin, Marya, the mayor's daughter; Mrs. John F. Rehearsals have been going on all week at Little Theater headquarters, 307 North Second street. There will be a full rehearsal at 2 p.m. today to which Director Smith invited all of the public interested in any part of Little Theater work.

The War Today

(This daily feature, conducted by DeWitt MacKenzie, is being written by Fred Vanderschmidt while MacKenzie is taking a brief vacation.)

The Nazis are making another attempt to break the British blockade, the first on a sizeable scale since early in the war.

The start of this adventure can scarcely be called auspicious. Two of the four German freighters which left Tampico, packed to the beam-ends with material to keep the German war machine going, ran into distress before they were out of sight of land. One of them is burning, the other back in port with machinery trouble. Still another ship, heading eastward from Colombia, is reported to have been sent to the bottom by the British navy's Caribbean squadron.

Nevertheless, the fact that these ships in such number are leaving the ports where they have sheltered for more than a year—and leaving with every evidence of haste—has considerable significance.

First of all, it is evidence of the steady, silent pressure which the garrote of the British blockade is applying to the neck of Germany.

Second, it illustrates the Nazi belief that their U-boats and planes and the length of the axis coastline have so weakened the British Atlantic patrols that it may now be possible to bring contraband cargoes from the Western Hemisphere.

Third, and perhaps most important, the departure of these ships may be timed to precede an offensive against Gibraltar, which is vital to Britain not only as the guardian of the Western Mediterranean but as a blockade base for Southern Europe and Africa.

In other words, the Nazis and their Italian friends may be confident that by the time the German freighters get to Spain, where most of them appear to be headed, Gibraltar won't be British and the warship patrols either will be sewed up in the Mediterranean or engaged in urgent business elsewhere.

This is no isolated straw in the wind about Gibraltar. Right now Ramon Serrano Suner, brother-in-law of Francisco Franco and foreign minister of Spain, is traveling toward Berlin.

Senor Serrano Suner is the axis' best friend in Spain and he has set something like a record for traveling on axis business in the last couple of months. Even if it is not quite time for him to discuss passage of German troops through Spain toward Gibraltar, Serrano Suner is very much interested indeed in breaking the British blockade, for it is pinching Spain, too, and Spain is hungry.

So it is safe to say that Spain will do all she can to help the axis open the sea lanes again. Spain already has performed preliminary service by moving into the once-internationalized zone of Tangier, hard across the Gibraltar straits from the frowning British rock.

As for the German freighters, or those of them which do get away from Mexico, they probably will not be lonesome on their trip east. There is a German raider in the Atlantic, perhaps a pocket battleship, which already has plucked a number of victims from at least one British convoy. It is entirely possible that this raider will rendezvous with one or more of the freighters, take on oil and supplies, and keep a watchful eye on the adventurers as they cruise warily toward Europe, taking full advantage of the long pre-winter nights.

But there are long odds against the German freighters getting even out of the Caribbean, for the British still are on constant guard there, and on the other side of the Atlantic, the Royal Navy has, so far, been equal to the demands of a blockade that now stretches from the North Cape to Madagascar.

How tight this blockade is stretched was illustrated the other day by an over-zealous shot that crossed the bows of an American ship, and it is probably more than a coincidence that this German attempt to crack the blockade comes at a time when some Germans are eating dog meat.

STORE TO ISSUE CLUB PLAN FUNDS

Special Money Will Add To Efficiency Of Palace System

The Palace has issued a new medium of exchange called "club plan money," available to anyone who maintains a satisfactory credit rating. The issue, printed on a special watermarked stock and signed by authorized members of the company, is backed by the company's entire merchandise resources," an official of The Palace said.

The purchaser of "club plan money" can obtain the medium of exchange on a regular 30 or 60-day charge account, or the "money" can be purchased on installment accounts to be repaid over a period of three to six months.

"Because the issue is known as a form of money and resembles in size, currency issues of the government, samples were submitted to various government agencies having jurisdiction over money and documents," the official said. "These agencies, including the Federal Reserve Bank, the United States Secret Service and the United States District Attorney, decided there was no reason why this money could not or should not be used.

"There are no strings attached to this money, other than it must be used to purchase merchandise. The Palace cashiers may issue change for the various denominations. The holder of "club plan money" may transfer it to others without endorsement. Any tradesman may accept it and in turn spend it at The Palace."

The use of this medium of exchange will tend to eliminate chances for errors in charge accounts, The Palace officials believe. It also will shorten the time required to complete transactions.

"Club plan money has the same purchasing power at The Palace as government money," said a store official. "It will be handled with the same care and exactly as government money, with the same accuracy and security.

GROUP WILL FIGHT PARISH INDICTMENTS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—(AP)—James I. McCain, special assistant to Attorney General Eugene Stanley, is scheduled to appear Monday in the Calcasieu parish district court to oppose motions for quashing a number of indictments brought by the parish grand jury after the district attorney had been superseded by the attorney general.

McCain appeared to advise the Calcasieu grand jury which sometime ago returned 44 indictments, the majority of which were against former parish and state officials charged with embezzlement of tax and highway funds.

Of the 44 persons indicted, according to Mr. McCain, 28 pleaded guilty to the charges and the remaining 15 elected to fight their cases, with 11 of the number filing motions asking quashing of the indictments against them. They attacked the right and manner in which the attorney general superseded the district attorney.

The cases are scheduled to be heard before District Judge Mark C. Pickrel.

TREATMENT FOUND THROUGH TRAGEDY

Cure For Bad Burns Followed Crash Of Huge Nazi Dirigible

By Stephen J. McDonough
(Associated Press Science Editor)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Out of such a horror as the explosion of the German dirigible Hindenburg at Lake-Hurst, N. J., in 1937 came a new method of treatment for severe burns.

Lieutenant Commander Harry S. Ivory of the medical corps of the United States navy reported today in the Military Surgeon that the lives of three of the persons involved in the disaster had been saved by the administration of hormones from the cortex or covering of the adrenal glands which lie just under the kidneys.

Four persons in the same family were badly burned in the explosion, and all were treated with the usual administration of tannic acid sprayed on the burned surfaces, opiates to relieve pain, administration of salt and sugar solutions and blood transfusions.

One of the four, a 14-year-old girl, died despite all the efforts of Dr. Ivory and his hospital associates because more than three-fourths of her body had been burned.

With the other three, the mother and her two sons, who also had extensive third degree burns, Dr. Ivory began administering the adrenal cortex extract.

"Each case presented a severe state of toxemia, which, in my opinion, usually would have been fatal," he said. All three were in a semi-conscious condition with high fever, rapid breathing, extremely high heart rates, and blue color of the skin.

Very tiny amounts of the extract, one cubic centimer every hour, were administered and the result was dramatic. The patients rallied quickly from their comatose state, their pulse and heart rates dropped back to normal and they were able to eat.

"At least one of these patients would unquestionably have died had not the cortical adrenal extract been used," Dr. Ivory said. "Possibly the others might have survived without the extract, but even in their cases the clinical improvement after administration was strongly evident" and when the treatment was discontinued during certain periods they slipped back to their former state.

The effect of this treatment is apparently to replace a deficiency of hormones from the adrenal glands and to prevent the absorption of toxic substances from the burned areas into the body.

STORE TO ISSUE CLUB PLAN FUNDS

Special Money Will Add To Efficiency Of Palace System

The Palace has issued a new medium of exchange called "club plan money," available to anyone who maintains a satisfactory credit rating. The issue, printed on a special watermarked stock and signed by authorized members of the company, is backed by the company's entire merchandise resources," an official of The Palace said.

The purchaser of "club plan money" can obtain the medium of exchange on a regular 30 or 60-day charge account, or the "money" can be purchased on installment accounts to be repaid over a period of three to six months.

"Because the issue is known as a form of money and resembles in size, currency issues of the government, samples were submitted to various government agencies having jurisdiction over money and documents," the official said. "These agencies, including the Federal Reserve Bank, the United States Secret Service and the United States District Attorney, decided there was no reason why this money could not or should not be used.

"There are no strings attached to this money, other than it must be used to purchase merchandise. The Palace cashiers may issue change for the various denominations. The holder of "club plan money" may transfer it to others without endorsement. Any tradesman may accept it and in turn spend it at The Palace."

The use of this medium of exchange will tend to eliminate chances for errors in charge accounts, The Palace officials believe. It also will shorten the time required to complete transactions.

"Club plan money has the same purchasing power at The Palace as government money," said a store official. "It will be handled with the same care and exactly as government money, with the same accuracy and security.

GROUP WILL FIGHT PARISH INDICTMENTS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—(AP)—James I. McCain, special assistant to Attorney General Eugene Stanley, is scheduled to appear Monday in the Calcasieu parish district court to oppose motions for quashing a number of indictments brought by the parish grand jury after the district attorney had been superseded by the attorney general.

McCain appeared to advise the Calcasieu grand jury which sometime ago returned 44 indictments, the majority of which were against former parish and state officials charged with embezzlement of tax and highway funds.

Of the 44 persons indicted, according to Mr. McCain, 28 pleaded guilty to the charges and the remaining 16 elected to fight their cases, with 11 of the number filing motions asking quashing of the indictments against them. They attacked the right and manner in which the attorney general superseded the district attorney.

The cases are scheduled to be heard before District Judge Mark C. Pickrel.

EDUCATION WEEK IS MARKED HERE

Instructor Cites Need Of U. S. Funds To Equalize School Grants

A lecture on "The Purposes of Education in the United States" by D. W. Griffith, mathematics instructor at Neville High school, Friday at the Barkdull Faulk school, featured the seven-day program commemorating American Education Week.

Mr. Griffith told fathers and sons in the school auditorium that "there will be no progress in education until the federal government makes plans to equalize money grants to the schools."

Following the lecture, refreshments were served in the school library.

The 20th American Education week was marked the past week and was sponsored here by the Parent-Teachers association and the Barkdull Faulk school authorities.

Mrs. Otis Crawford, president of the P.-T. A., presided at meetings of the women's division, and Otis Crawford was in charge of the men's group. Receptions were held Thursday and Friday for mothers and fathers, respectively, by the students.

A motion calling for representation of men on the P.-T. A. board was adopted during one of the sessions. The motion was made by Bill Matthews. Formerly only women were represented on the board.

Posters prepared by the school children depicted the progress of education in the United States.

Monroe's Social Activities Increase With Approach Of Holiday Season

Local Women Assist In Charities' Drive

Jean Dickenson Concert Outstanding Event Of Week; Clare Tree Major Production Popular

By Eve C. Bradford

THIS is the time of year when families and friends draw closer together and hearth fires spread a warm and cheery glow. Now that the special holiday season is approaching, the social whirl will pick up speed and there will be surcease from war and politics. Check writing, the favorite indoor sport, will continue, however, as all charities are in need of funds and the various drives, one of which is the Red Cross, are now in progress and must, as customary each year, go over the top. Mary Lee Milam, in charge of Red Cross enrollment in the residential section, sounded a clarion call for 200 workers, and they began springing up like mushrooms after a shower. With Mary Lee and members of her committee thundering at our doors, fountain pens will no doubt be scratching overtime. The Red Cross, mighty, powerful and merciful, is the "greatest mother of them all" and it must continue so.

A biting, cold wind straight from the north didn't keep Civic Music Association members from hearing lovely Jean Dickenson warble Thursday night at the Northeast Junior College auditorium. The concert went forward with much charm and distinction and following the program, as customary, a portion of the audience rushed forward to meet the artist. It was a vastly appreciated concert, as the singer, a youthful, lovely girl, gave the audience the music they liked best—"The Last Rose of Summer" one of the most beautiful and best loved of all English folksongs—"Listen to the Mocking Bird"—"At Eve I Heard a Flute"—"The Blue Danube"—"Beautiful Dreamer." The supersong in the estimation of many was the Aria, Shadow Song from "Dinorah." That song left one feeling thankful for everything so that one trotted home and counted one's blessings.

Later, at the G. B. Cooley home, a privileged few were invited to meet the singer and her accompanist, socially. It was indeed a shining hour with the lovely guest of honor, a fascinating creature with gorgeous brown eyes, dark brown hair and personality plus, the central figure in the group of devotees. Conversation buzzed to the accompaniment of entrancing music. Miss Dickenson's accompanist, Marion Kalayjian, wearing a Dresden blue taffeta evening model, took her place at the piano and gave her little audience some of the best music heard in many a day. Her fingers flew over the keys from one number to another—lovely melodies played as only a true musician is capable. All in all, this charming interlude following the concert was one that will forever stand out in memory.

Speaking of music brings to mind the distinct gap the departure of Garland Shell leaves in Monroe's musical circles. He didn't wait to be called to the colors—he volunteered for the reason (aside from the highly patriotic one) that he wanted to be in Major J. B. Thornhill's regiment. He will leave with the Major the latter part of November for a camp in Florida. Garland is one of our favorite singers, possessing a deep voice of dramatic qualities. He sang "God Bless America" superbly at a recent patriotic meeting. He sang with so much fervor and with such depth of feeling those present suggested that a record be made of his voice. He consented to have it made, and now if you wish to hear "God Bless America" sung as only a young patriot who will soon be in the United States Army, could possibly sing it, the record is available.

The zip and exuberance of the younger generation found an outlet at the Clare Tree Major production, "Seven Wishes" last week. They hissed the cruel king, applauded the hero and wept at the sad plight of the princess.

Never has a similar production for children been received with so much enthusiasm. Even the grownups who accompanied their young sons and daughters were enraptured with the play and entered into the spirit of the occasion with as much zest as the youngest of them.

We saw Eunice King wearing a most becoming hat and a sparkling ornament on her coat lapel, hurrying into the auditorium with her young son who seems to have suddenly grown up. Hand in hand with Eunice and Ralph, Jr., was Wesley Shafto, Jr.

"Winkie" Ashcraft, hand in hand with son, Wyche, could easily have passed for a high school student, so youthful looking is she. So eager was Wyche to see the play he begrudged the time it took for the society photographer to take his picture.

Marion Lewis and daughter, June, were very gracious about having their picture snapped even though it was time for the curtain to rise. June, a lovely young modern who is fast approaching the 'teen age, looked like a Scotch highland lassie with pleated plaid skirt, short coat, a Scotch cap with jaunty feather and a pair of bright red gloves.

Jennie Mitchell, having no children of her own, borrowed her two nieces and nephew, Alice, Anita and Bill O'Kelly, and enjoyed quite as much as the youngsters, Maeterlinck's famous play, "Seven Wishes."

Jennie's heart is centered in that young nephew of hers as he is the only boy in a family of girls. He in turn is devoted to her.

Olive Munholland, in a sea green corduroy skirt and green chamois jacket, had her young daughter and Martha Clayton Sparks in tow. They wore bright colored handkerchiefs on their heads Gypsy fashion.

Mrs. W. T. Davis, a lovely young matron in gray tweeds and jaunty gray felt hat, accompanied daughter, Lynda, a beautiful child with long golden curls.

Mrs. Guy DuPriest, a youthful looking mother in smart black tailleur, was with her handsome young son of pre-school age. By the way, Guy, Jr., is posing for his portrait now being painted by Betty Saenger. It will be life size and is rapidly taking shape under Betty's skillful brush. Mrs. Saenger has acquired a flair for portraiture and has more sittings than you can shake a stick at. At the moment she is painting Patricia Gladcock of Tyler who comes to Monroe for the sittings. There is another portrait she is busily at work on. It will be a Christmas gift to the child's father so the utmost secrecy prevails.

On the side of things charming last week was the twilight tea and program sponsored by the members of the Welcome Branch Book club at Northeast Junior College. Twenty-five or thirty members and their guests were seated in the attractive lounge, a handsome room large enough for a lecture and tea later, and without danger of one impinging on the other.

Outside of the afternoon's program always of first consideration the tea table decor is the next vital thing. In this particular case the arrangement of fruit was rather dramatic. Mrs. J. R. White and Mrs. George Holland performed the hefty task of pouring tea and coffee for the fifty or more guests.

Going forward into another week two feasts await us—one at the groaning board on Thanksgiving day and the other a feast for the soul at the Ouachita Parish school auditorium where Richard J. Davis of San Jose, Calif., will lecture on a subject most welcome at this particular time—"Truth and Love." He is an able speaker, one of the very best in the lecture field, and many there are who have encircled this date on the calendar with red.

Exceptionally luminous on the week's calendar of events is the Lotus club dance Thursday night and the cocktail party at which Mr. and Mrs. Alan Sugar will entertain at the Lotus club on Monday night.

De Soto's Route Traced Through This Section

Interesting Address Given By Miss Sallie Humble Before Ouachita Valley Historical Society

The colorful route De Soto took through the Ouachita valley was traced in the most engaging and most dramatic manner by Miss Sallie Humble, head of the department of social studies of the Ouachita Parish High School when the Ouachita Valley Historical Society met for its quarterly program in the courthouse.

The Society is showing unusual interest in the De Soto route because of the centennial celebration planned by the United States De Soto Expedition Commission for 1942, the four hundredth anniversary of the explorer's death. The Ouachita Valley is one of the most important areas believed to have been visited by this army of Spaniards.

Miss Humble said in part:

"De Soto began his North America venture at Tampa Bay, Florida, 1539. After wandering aimlessly and fruitlessly through the states of the lower South, the expedition met a near tragedy at Mauvilla, a site now believed to be Demopolis, Ala. The quest for gold and the more pressing food problems led the army to strike northwest and to cross the Mississippi, discovered by De Soto in 1541. The crossing was made at Sunflower Landing, near Sherard, Miss., according to the evidence disclosed by the commission.

"A brief sojourn with the Indian tribes of Casqui and Pacaha in the vicinity of Helena, Ark., convinced De Soto that the territory so alluringly described in the tales of Cabeza De Vaca lay northwest in the region of the Ouachita mountains the source of the Ouachita river.

"The hope of treasure proved vain and the army marched south to Cayas, identified as Hot Springs, Ark., where they tarried a month. From Hot Springs De Soto went into winter quarters at Autiamque, Camden, Ark. From there he set out in search of Nilco, Jonesville, La., March 6, 1542. De Soto sought to return to the Mississippi river but the route to Nilco led through the Ouachita Valley and the army passed by Ayas on the Rio de Anilco. Ayas is identified with Monroe or its vicinity. Here the army crossed the Ouachita river either at Sterlington, at Monroe, at the mouth of the Cheniere au Tondre, or at Columbia. The De Soto commission gives support to the Columbia crossing but the evidence in favor of the other crossing sites is weighty.

"Anilco, Jonesville, La., proved to be the largest Indian town in Florida but entirely inadequate as a base of supply for the army until reinforcements from Cuba or New Spain could arrive to kindle their already fading hopes.

"De Soto's death occurred at Guachoya, probably Clayton, La., in the neighborhood of Lake St. John. The Indians of Guachoya are believed to have been some branch of the Taensas encountered by La Salle in his descent of the Mississippi, 1682. Discouragement over flood conditions in the area, the weakness of the army, and the constantly increasing numbers of Indians when the flooded area brought into the mound group near Natchez is believed to have been the cause of De Soto's death.

"The route of Moscoso, De Soto's successor, into Texas and back sheds much light on the problems of the wanderings of the great explorer."

Miss Humble stated that the entire route was necessarily hypothetical. The absence of data and the confusing record of the events from Autiamque to Nilco precluded any possibility of tracing this route in an exact manner.

Miro Book Club Hears Review Of New Book

Gracious hospitality was extended members of Miro Book club in the home of Mrs. J. B. Collins, Wednesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield, presiding.

The highlight of the afternoon's program was the review of "The Fire and the Wood," by Mrs. A. L. Peters. She said:

"'The Fire and the Wood,' by R. C. Hutchinson, is a triumphant novel of tenderness and beauty in the face of the demoniacal forces loose in our world today.

"It is a story of a brilliant young doctor in the Germany of 1932 and of the patient he intends to sacrifice if necessary, in his cold passion for research, in his belief that he has found a specific cure for tuberculosis and his insistence that 'the individual does not matter.'

"Young Josef, country bumpkin in appearance, uncouth in his cheap clothes and hobnail boots, has other dreams than becoming house surgeon of the Maltke Hospital or returning to his native village where his parents want him to take the place of the old country practitioner. Josef is not a doctor at heart; doctoring means little to him.

"He is the born scientist, impersonal, painstaking, sacrificing everything to give to the world the new discovery on which he has worked during every moment of his spare time.

"Thwarted by red tape and unpopular with his colleagues, he finds in Miana, a poor servant, the subject for his first experiment.

"Mr. Hutchinson has never written with such clarity and dramatic power as in this study of the transformation of these two, the girl from a haunted, youthful simplicity to a woman of vision and courage, the man from an insensitive and almost brutal robot, to a lover of gentleness and an indomitable fighter.

"As the Nazis came to power, these two are caught in an absorbing rush of muddled passions, and violent events in Germany. They escape and their individual tragedy becomes a hope for the world's future."

Mrs. C. R. Tidwell gave an interesting paper on the department of legislation of the general federation.

The hostess served refreshments to the following: Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, Mrs. H. M. Venable, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. M. M. Munholland, Mrs. S. M. Collins, Mrs. J. M. Russell, Mrs. William Whitfield.

Welcome Branch Club Sponsors Silver Tea

A charming interlude in the week's occupations was the silver tea and book review in the social lounge of Northeast Junior College with members of the Welcome Branch Book club, beautifully gowned, extending courtesies.

Mrs. Zell Smith, chairman of the library commission, in her introduction to the main part of the program, a book review by Mrs. F. H. Peterson, thanked those attending for their cooperation and announced that through their generosity the club was able to maintain the library for patients at the Cooley sanatorium. She announced that the library [illegible] more than [illegible] volumes and many [illegible] magazines. Last year [illegible] new books were added. The proceeds from the silver tea will make possible further aid to the library.

Signalizing National Book Week the club presented an appropriate program in featuring Mrs. F. W. Peterson who reviewed "Mrs. Miniver," by Jan Struther.

"Mrs. Miniver," a British book about middle class England, tells of the small doings of Mrs. Miniver and her family of three children and husband, Clem. The war touches Mrs. Miniver, her family and servants are sent to secure gas masks, and her husband joins an anti-aircraft battery. Mrs. Miniver reflects that it should not take a war to teach England to paint curbs white, to put lights on bicycles, to give children holidays in the country. She believes England will learn many lessons from the war, and in her daily duties as a housewife Mrs. Miniver optimistically speaks of "back to normal" but in her heart she holds a prayer for the protection and preservation of the English nation.

At intervals during the team hour, Mrs. Dean Seliz, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. J. L. Cheshire and Mrs. E. Everett Lawson entertained guests with musical numbers.

The Thanksgiving season was charmingly portrayed in the colorful tea table decor arranged by Mrs. George Lofton, honorary member of the library commission. Luscious fruits overflowed from an immense hollow pumpkin imbedded in a mound of autumn leaves and vivid colored chrysanthemums.

Mrs. George Holland, president of Welcome Branch club, and Mrs. J. R. White poured, and other members of the library commission, Mrs. W. E. Sandel, Mrs. J. D. Petty and Mrs. Zell Smith, assisted in the serving.

"De Soto began his North America venture at Tampa Bay, Florida, 1539. After wandering aimlessly and fruitlessly through the states of the lower South, the expedition met a near tragedy at Mauvilla, a site now believed to be Demoplis, Ala. The quest for gold and the more pressing food problems led the army to strike northwest and to cross the Mississippi, discovered by De Soto in 1541. The crossing was made at Sunflower Landing, near Sherard, Miss., according to the evidence disclosed by the commission.

"A brief sojourn with the Indian tribes of Casqui and Pacaha in the vicinity of Helena, Ark., convinced De Soto that the territory so alluringly described in the tales of Cabeza De Vaca lay northwest in the region of the Ouachita mountains the source of the Ouachita river.

"The hope of treasure proved vain and the army marched south to Cayas, identified as Hot Springs, Ark., where they tarried a month. From Hot Springs De Soto went into winter quarters at Autiamque, Camden, Ark. From there he set out in search of Nilco, Jonesville, La., March 6, 1542. De Soto sought to return to the Mississippi river but the route to Nilco led through the Ouachita Valley and the army passed by Ayas on the Rio de Anilco. Ayas is identified with Monroe or its vicinity. Here the army crossed the Ouachita river either at Sterlington, at Monroe, at the mouth of the Cheniere au Tondre, or at Columbia. The De Soto commission gives support to the Columbia crossing but the evidence in favor of the other crossing sites is weighty.

"Anilco, Jonesville, La., proved to be the largest Indian town in Florida but entirely inadequate as a base of supply for the army until reinforcements from Cuba or New Spain could arrive to kindle their already fading hopes.

"De Soto's death occurred at Guachoya, probably Clayton, La., in the neighborhood of Lake St. John. The Indians of Guachoya are believed to have been some branch of the Taensas encountered by La Salle in his descent of the Mississippi, 1682. Discouragement over flood conditions in the area, the weakness of the army, and the constantly increasing numbers of Indians whom the flooded area brought into the mound group near Natchez is believed to have been the cause of De Soto's death.

"The route of Moscoso, De Soto's successor, into Texas and back sheds much light on the problems of the wanderings of the great explorer."

Miss Humble stated that the entire route was necessarily hypothetical. The absence of data and the confusing record of the events from Antiamque to Nilco precluded any possibility of tracing this route in an exact manner.

Miro Book Club Hears Review Of New Book

Gracious hospitality was extended members of Miro Book club in the home of Mrs. J. B. Collins, Wednesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield, presiding.

The highlight of the afternoon's program was the review of "The Fire and the Wood," by Mrs. A. L. Peters. She said:

"'The Fire and the Wood,' by R. C. Hutchinson, is a triumphant novel of tenderness and beauty in the face of the demoniacal forces loose in our world today.

"It is a story of a brilliant young doctor in the Germany of 1932 and of the patient he intends to sacrifice if necessary, in his cold passion for research, in his belief that he has found a specific cure for tuberculosis and his insistence that 'the individual does not matter.'

"Young Josef, country bumpkin in appearance, uncouth in his cheap clothes and hobnail boots, has other dreams than becoming house surgeon of the Maltke Hospital or returning to his native village where his parents want him to take the place of the old country practitioner. Josef is not a doctor at heart; doctoring means little to him.

"He is the born scientist, impersonal, painstaking, sacrificing everything to give to the world the new discovery on which he has worked during every moment of his spare time.

"Thwarted by red tape and unpopular with his colleagues, he finds in Minna, a poor servant, the subject for his first experiment.

"Mr. Hutchinson has never written with such clarity and dramatic power as in this study of the transformation of these two, the girl from a haunted, youthful simplicity to a woman of vision and courage, the man from an insensitive and almost brutal robot, to a lover of gentleness and an indomitable fighter.

"As the Nazis came to power, these two are caught in an absorbing rush of muddled passions, and violent events in Germany. They escape and their individual tragedy becomes a hope for the world's future."

Mrs. C. R. Tidwell gave an interesting paper on the department of legislation of the general federation.

The hostess served refreshments to the following: Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, Mrs. H. M. Venable, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. M. M. Munholland, Mrs. S. M. Collins, Mrs J. M. Russell, Mrs. William Whitfield.

Welcome Branch Club Sponsors Silver Tea

A charming interlude in the week's occupations was the silver tea and book review in the social lounge of Northeast Junior College with members of the Welcome Branch Book club, beautifully gowned, extending courtesies.

Mrs. Zell Smith, chairman of the library commission, in her introduction to the main part of the program, a book review by Mrs. F. H. Peterson, thanked those attending for their cooperation and announced that through their generosity the club was able to maintain the library for patients at the Cooley sanatorium. She announced that the library now contains more than 500 volumes and numerous magazines. Last year 25 new books were added. The proceeds from the silver tea will make possible further aid to the library.

Signalizing National Book Week, the club presented an appropriate program in securing Mrs. F. W. Peterson, who reviewed "Mrs. Miniver," by Jan Struther.

"Mrs. Miniver," a British book about middle class England, tells of the small doings of Mrs. Miniver and her family of three children and husband, Clem. The war touches Mrs. Miniver; her family and servants are sent to secure gas masks, and her husband joins an anti-aircraft battery. Mrs. Miniver reflects that it should not take a war to teach England to paint curbs white, to put lights on bicycles, to give children holidays in the country. She believes England will learn many lessons from the war, and in her daily duties as a housewife Mrs. Miniver optimistically speaks of "back to normal," but in her heart she holds a prayer for the protection and preservation of the English nation.

At intervals during the team hour, Mrs. Dean Selig, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. J. L. Cheshire and Mrs. E. Everett Lawson entertained guests with musical numbers.

The Thanksgiving season was charmingly portrayed in the colorful tea table decor arranged by Mrs. George Lofton, honorary member of the library commission. Luscious fruits overflowed from an immense hollow pumpkin imbedded in a mound of autumn leaves and vivid colored chrysanthemums.

Mrs. George Holland, president of Welcome Branch club, and Mrs. J. R. White poured, and other members of the library commission, Mrs. W. E. Sandel, Mrs. J. D. Petty and Mrs. Zell Smith, assisted in the serving.

Mr. And Mrs. Kirkland Honored At Reception

A lovely affair of last week was the reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kirkland of Lake Providence, whose marriage was an interesting event of recent date.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland were introduced to Monroe friends by Mr. Kirkland's sister, Mrs. Joseph Anders, who was assisted in extending courtesies by Mrs. Corey Kirkland and Mrs. K. Shook.

Mrs. Anders wore a black taffeta evening model and Mrs. Kirkland wore a black crepe evening model.

The guests who called between the hours of 7 and 9 were invited to the dining room, where Mrs. D. C. Black and Mrs. A. L. Peters presided over the silver coffee urns gracing either end of the beautifully appointed refreshment table. A low plaque of yellow chrysanthemums running down the full length of the table formed the central floral decor.

A variety of delicious confections, including open-faced sandwiches, pastries, salted nuts and crystallized fruits were passed among the guests on silver trays by Miss Louise Fitzgerald, Miss Helen Carr, Mrs. Credille Calhoun and Mrs. A. S. Gunter.

Mrs. Forest Seaman and Mrs. C. H. Gibson presided over the bride's book, where the guests were requested to register.

Interesting Program Is Presented At Meeting Of Ouachita Parish P.-T. A.

Program Sponsored By Grammar School Pupils

Business Meeting Follows Entertainment Feature Of Meeting; Clothing Drive Planned

The second meeting of the year of the Ouachita Parish P.-T. A. was held in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon. The meeting opened with all members repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The Ouachita Parish Grammar School presented the program announced by Miss Zelda Moss. First on the program was a reading, "A Thanksgiving Prayer," by Evelyn Gannaway. This was followed by songs by the sixth grade boys' chorus: Maurice Thompson, Lucius Walton, Bobby Greenlee, Gail Harkins, Boyce Humble, Eddie Ezell, Homer Doty, Billy Armstrong, Bobby Burch, Edward Clark, Perry Bedgood, Dwight Lipsey, Bennie Vose, Paul Brooks, Jimmie Atkins, Jack Trichell, Russell Trichell, Bob Firnberg, Monty Frazier, Cecil Fleming and Charles Dowdy.

Mrs. Yancey's fourth grade presented a bubble song and dance. The girls looked adorable in their pastel colored crepe paper dresses with balloons and bubbles, blown from bowls of soap suds, floating about them. The boys having colorful leis about their necks sang the "Bubble Song," while the girls danced gracefully among the bubbles. Those in the dance and song were Betty Sue Dixon, Edwin Facundus, Helen Ferris, Nancy Johnson, Betty Frances Maddux, Carla Beth McKenzie, Elizabeth Mulhern, Margaret Pickens, Princess Price, Ruby Ritchie, Patricia Shaughnessy, Mary Ann Studdard, Jean Trotter, Lillian Walton, Ochiltree Bancroft, Clifton Bryant, Billy Buckley, Dan Dennett, Elmer London, Joe McDonald, Lawrence McMullen, Bobby Mosely, Harry Prophit, Bill Rodriguez, Charles Russell, E. J. Sievers, Anthony Tornatore, Lawrence Worley, Charles Ray Venable, Don Gannawey, Willoughby Thomas.

The final number, "The Stars and Daisies," was cleverly portrayed by members of Miss Gunby's first grade, Mrs. Camp's second grade and Mrs. Buckley's third grade. Margaret Lamkin capably read the poem as the stars and daisies in their star and daisy faces acted their parts in a clever manner with Martha Carolyn Upshaw as the "Wind." Stars and daisies were Barlow Inabnet, Joe Bales, Dewey Slater, Frederick Cann, Speed Bancroft, Buck Brown, Dent Tisdale, Duncan Burford, Lee Agerton, Norman Goza, Ivy Lee Austin, Jerry Freeman, Marguerite Hill, Ann Todd, Sarah Ann Cann, Mary Henderson, Mary Gertrude Rodriguez, Emma Jean Durham, Barbara Monroe and Annielee Davis.

At the conclusion of this very lovely program Mrs. D. L. Nicol, the president, presided at the business meeting. After reading and approving minutes of last meeting as well as minutes of the executive committee meeting a copy of the by-laws of Ouachita Parish P.-T. A. was read and approved, Mrs. W. T. Mr. R. J. Goza urged members to refrain from parking in front of and between the schools inasmuch as this space is needed for the school buses. He asked for cooperation in traffic safety and also offered his cooperation in any phase of P.-T. A. work where he could help.

Miss Dorothy Calvert, secretary, read a message from Mrs. Paul Blanchard, state P.-T. A. president, who urged members, teachers and parents to attend the section P.-T. A. meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Christian church, at which time Miss Charl Williams, a P.-T. A. national representative, will speak on "Schools for Democracy, a Joint Responsibility of Home, School and Community." Also on the program will be Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Ouachita Parish P.-T. A. member, who will speak on "Practical Ways in Which the School and Home May Cooperate for National Defense." Other speakers are Miss Mary Bains, fifth vice-president, and Dr. M. S. Robertson, director of adult education, WPA. It is hoped that Ouachita Parish P.-T. A. will have a good representation at this meeting.

Mrs. D. L. Bornman took count of listeners to citizenship radio programs. Ouachita Parish P.-T. A. will sponsor the program Monday, November 25, at 5:30 p.m., over KMLB, at which time Miss Kate Perkins, member of the high school faculty, will speak. Members are asked to "listen in."

Mrs. William Rodriguez reported on the membership drive, prizes having been presented to rooms at home room mother meeting.

Any member interested in home room mother work was asked to join the group at their meetings, the second Thursday of each month, Mrs. S. C. Morris, chairman.

Mrs. John Young reported on the Twin City council meeting, and the association unanimously passed the motion to defray expenses of one representative to attend monthly luncheons of the social service agencies.

Coats for girls aged 10-12 and 14, and for boys aged seven and 12, are needed, and those having apparel were urgently requested to bring them to the school and give them to Mr. Craig in the grammar school, or Miss Wilson in the high school. If they are unable to deliver them to the school, they are urged to call either Mrs. Church, 5337, or Mrs. Nicol, 4772-W, and the garments will be picked up. This clothing is needed immediately as these children are unable to attend school at present because of lack of warm clothing.

A clothing drive was planned for Friday, November 29, to take care of future emergencies. On this date any wearing apparel outgrown but still wearable will be gratefully accepted in the foyer of the high school auditorium and at the grammar school. Cooperation is asked of those who can help in this drive for good used clothing for children.

A lovely affair of last week was the reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kirkland of Lake Providence, whose marriage was an interesting event of recent date.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland were introduced to Monroe friends by Mr. Kirkland's sister, Mrs. Joseph Anders, who was assisted in extending courtesies by Mrs. Corey Kirkland and Mrs. K. Shook.

Peters presided over the silver coffee urns gracing either end of the beautifully appointed refreshment table. A low plaque of yellow chrysanthemums running down the full length of the table formed the central floral decor.

A variety of delicious confections, including open-faced sandwiches, pastries, salted nuts and crystallized fruits were passed among the guests on silver trays by Miss Louise Fitzgerald, Miss Helen Carr, Mrs. Credille Calhoun and Mrs. A. S. Gunter.

Mrs. Forest Seaman and Mrs. C. H. Gibson presided over the bride's book, where the guests were requested to register.

The handsome wedding gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland were on display in a room set apart for them.

Many Prizes Won By Northeast Louisiana Members Of Federation; Mrs. Tisdale Lauded

Mrs. Leola Nixon, president of the Fifth District Federated Women's Club, who gave her year's report during the state convention in Alexandria, paid tribute to one of Monroe's outstanding clubwomen, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

The prominent place the Fifth district now occupies in federated club circles is due, Mrs. Nixon said, to the efforts of Mrs. Tisdale, former president, and her wide-awake members who worked with her in perfect harmony.

Mrs. Nixon said, "This district feels it is justified in claiming to be the outstanding club district of the state during the past year, due to the fact that seven prizes were offered and the Fifth district won six of them.

"Thirty-five clubs are now included in the Fifth district, six of which have entered the 'Hall of Fame' by being one hundred per cent in subscriptions to the Federated magazine. The Clubwoman. They are Welcome Branch Book club, Monroe; Woman's Department club, Ruston; Mangham Junior club; Lambda Kappa club, Rayville; Pierian club, Oak Ridge; Cosmos club, Ruston.

According to Mrs. Nixon, all eyes are turned toward one club in particular, the Altrurian Book club of West Monroe. A branch of this club, the Bobashelas club, organized last year, is forging ahead in the most remarkable manner.

To Mrs. Tisdale goes the credit for the new clubs organized during the past few years. She was a constant source of inspiration, attending meetings, presiding over institutes, attending board meetings and delivering radio talks.

Mrs. Nixon spoke in particular of the fine work being done by members of the Welcome Branch Book club of this city and the Cosmos club of Ruston, both of which were given the title of "Outstanding Clubs" at the convention.

Paintings exhibited by a member of the Welcome Branch Book club, Mrs. H. R. Saenger, won first place.

One of the highlights of the convention was the talk delivered by Mrs. Horace B. Ritchie of Athens, Ga., recording secretary of the General Federation of Women's clubs during the Golden Jubilee birthday dinner honoring Louisiana's pioneer club women.

Mrs. Ritchie reviewed the achievements of the general federation during the past 50 years in home-improvement, public welfare and education, setting up the premise that women's clubs are an effective force for the upbuilding of the community.

It is on this record of 50 years' service, Mrs. Ritchie said, that the clubs base their position of being the "No. 1 column in defense" in the national defense program.

Mrs. Ritchie told the delegates that, if freedom of destiny—of speech, press, educational opportunities and worship—are worth defending, "then all of us must put our efforts behind the movements to keep them."

No amount of "guns, ships or anything else can preserve our American way of life, if we fail in inculcating intelligence, patriotism and religion" in the youth of America, Mrs. Ritchie said.

Mrs. John Shuttleworth, 92 years old, of Shreveport, and Mrs. Laura Remage of Jennings, were honored as women with the longest, continuous membership and service in clubs affiliated with the general federation, and Mrs. Shuttleworth also received the honor of being the woman with the longest and most outstanding record of leadership, in district or state, in a club affiliated with the general federation.

Crosley P.-T. A. Holds Interesting Meeting

The Crosley Parent-Teacher association met in regular session Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock November 13 with 214 parents and friends in attendance. The meeting was opened with everyone singing "God Bless America" after which Mrs. W. K. Hunt, the president, presided over a short business session. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and a report from the treasurer was heard. Mrs. Hunt stressed the importance of membership in P.-T. A. In extending one membership drive through next week, she said "this associations is yours and mine and it is our duty to make it a living force for the good of our children." The membership last year was 283, this year the goal is 300. A box of candy offered as a prize to the room having the largest number of parents in attendance was won by Mrs. J. A. Rainbolts' room with 22 present.

An interesting game of charades was played by the seventh grade with the classes of Mr. J. P. Langston, Mrs. E. A. Walters, Mrs. Rene McCord, Miss Katherine Averett, Mrs. J. C. Stewart, Mrs. Amos Hood, Miss Helen Lafayett, assisting the children in portraying the titles of books. Mr. Langston's room won the prize, a beautiful set of library books.

The guest speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. C. K. Smith, gave an interesting talk on "The Importance of Choosing the Right Books for our Children." She said, in part:

"Books are the shining doors to wonderland through which, we as parents can guide our children to a higher, wider field of thought in the realm of pleasure as well as knowledge. We should choose our books as carefully as we do our friends as their influence is just as profound. We cannot read a book and remain the same in our thinking as we were before. Do not neglect the great classics when choosing books or the Fables and the lives of our own heros and great men and women make interesting reading to the receptive minds of eager youngsters. Mrs. Smith especially stressed the importance to both child and parent of reading together in the home. She said that most literary clubs do not take up the study of a book until the book has lived at least five years. Is not the reading habits of our children more important than even the studies of the literary clubs?" was the closing thought of Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. T. L. Clark prepared a list of books for children and gave them to the parents at the close of Mrs. Smith's talk. Mrs. Hunt adjourned the meeting with an appeal to all mothers of Crosley school children to become members of the P.-T. A.

Newly acquired children's books which are both informative and entertaining are: "Abraham Lincoln" by Ingri and Edgar Parin d'Aulaire; "Stories for Little Children" by Pearl Buck; "Little History of the United States" by Mable Pyne; "Blue Window" by Doris Gates; "Lost Locket" by Ethel Parton; "Jerry at the Academy" by Elmer E. Ferris; "Mister Ole" by Richard Bennett; "Boys' Book of Photography" by Edwin Teale; "Science Picture Parade" by Watson Davis.

Other children's books which are ordered are: "Happy Times in Czechoslovakia" by L. Bartusek; "Manuelito in Costa Rica" by P. Crespi; "Topsy Turvy Circus" by Georges Duplaix; "What Makes the Wheels Go Round" by Edward Huey; "Debby" by S. J. Johnson; "How to Fly a Plane" by H. P. Oldham; "Let's Look at Advertising" by William and Helen Pryor; and "American Children on the Map" by Cecil and Billie Salway.

"On the Long Tide" by Laura Krey, the author of "And Tell of Time," is a story of the birth of Texas and how a group of men and women gained their independence against incredible odds. Some of the famous figures of Texas—Sam Houston, Travis, Austin and Lafitte—appear as human beings rather than heroes of history.

In "Invitation to Live" by Lloyd C. Douglas, Dean Harcourt, the powerful figure who appeared in "Green Light," provides the motivating force that sends wealthy Barbara Breckenridge out into the world to learn whether she is loved for herself alone. Her curious adventures involve the lives and fortunes of a varied group of persons.

Another exciting new novel is "My Name Is Million" whose author is an Englishwoman and whose name is familiar to Americans but must, for the present, be concealed. This is a personal tale of her breath-taking adventures during the first days of Germany's invasion of Poland. This eyewitness story of the German invasion by a professional writer conveys the terror and suspense of those desperate months. This story is one that will never be out of date, for it tells what war does to human beings.

On November 12, the Monroe Opera club presented to the library the MacMillan Encyclopedia of Music and Musicians, the largest encyclopedia of music and musicians ever published in one volume and the most comprehensive work on the subject of music ever issued in any language. The library staff and board members are indeed grateful to the Monroe Opera club for having presented such a valuable book to our library.

NOVEMBER BRIDE . . . .

Mrs. Earl Breedlove, who before her marriage, November 9, was Miss Vesta Roark, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Roark of Natchitoches.

Friends of Monroe and Oak Ridge are welcoming Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Goss and son of Wichita, Kans., who are visiting here for a few days, combining business with pleasure. Mr. Goss is associated with Cessna Aircraft Company of Wichita.

Crosley P.-T. A. Holds Interesting Meeting

The Crosley Parent-Teacher association met in regular session Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, November 13 with 214 parents and friends in attendance. The meeting was opened with everyone singing "God Bless America" after which Mrs. W. K. Hunt, the president, presided over a short business session. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and a report from the treasurer was heard. Mrs. Hunt stressed the importance of membership in P.-T. A. In extending one membership drive through next week, she said "this associations is yours and mine and it is our duty to make it a living force for the good of our children." The membership last year was 283, this year the goal is 300. A box of candy offered as a prize to the room having the largest number of parents in attendance was won by Mrs. J. A. Rainbolts' room with 22 present.

An interesting game of charades was played by the seventh grade with the classes of Mr. J. P. Langston, Mrs. E. A. Walters, Mrs. Rene McCord, Miss Katherine Averett, Mrs. J. C. Stewart, Mrs. Amos Hood, Miss Helen Lafayett, assisting the children in portraying the titles of books. Mr. Langston's room won the prize, a beautiful set of library books.

The guest speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. C. K. Smith, gave an interesting talk on "The Importance of Choosing the Right Books for our Children." She said, in part:

"Books are the shining doors to wonderland through which, we as parents can guide our children to a higher, wider field of thought in the realm of pleasure as well as knowledge. We should choose our books as carefully as we do our friends as their influence is just as profound. We cannot read a book and remain the same in our thinking as we were before. Do not neglect the great classics when choosing books or the Fables and the lives of our own heros and great men and women make interesting reading to the receptive minds of eager youngsters. Mrs. Smith especially stressed the importance to both child and parent of reading together in the home. She said that most literary clubs do not take up the study of a book until the book has lived at least five years. Is not the reading habits of our children more important than even the studies of the literary clubs?" was the closing thought of Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. T. L. Clark prepared a list of books for children and gave them to the parents at the close of Mrs. Smith's talk. Mrs. Hunt adjourned the meeting with an appeal to all mothers of Crosley school children to become members of the P.-T. A.

The theme of the November program of the Parent-Teacher Association of the A. L. Smith school of Sterlington was "Citizenship."

The pupils of Mrs. Earl Brimberry's sixth grade presented the program.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. G. F. Mosby presided over the business session.

The membership drive ended November 4, having gotten about 125 members. Mrs. O. K. Bailey's second grade won the prize for getting the most members, and the same room won the prize for having the most mothers present at the meeting.

After adjournment a social hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. L. N. Larche, in giving "Impressions of Argentina," said in part:

"Argentina, the second largest nation in Latin America with thirteen million population, is situated in the South Temperate Zone. It has five wonderful river systems and is the center of the world's greatest prairie land. Argentina is called the bread basket of the world.

"The language of this country is Spanish, as is the greatest part of its population, although there are many immigrants from other countries, chiefly Italian and German.

"Buenos Aires, the largest city in the world south of the equator, is the capital, also the social and commercial center.

"The Pan-American Union is striving to unite all the countries of South America and create a feeling of brotherhood between the Americas. If we are to be a part of this great undertaking we must learn more about our southern neighbors."

"This was accomplished, and since March 13, 1904, the Christ of the Andes has stood in a majestic setting of snow-covered peaks, commemorating a series of peace and boundary pacts signed by the two countries in 1902 and 1903."

During the social hour Mrs. Dryburg served a lovely salad course to:

"Christ of the Andes is a monument to eternal peace erected on the summit of the Andes, and on the border line between Chile and Argentina. This colossal statue of Christ, lifted nearly three miles above the level of the sea, commemorates the conclusion of the most remarkable treaty of peace and arbitration ever made between two spirited nations, one which is accepted as the example of the world.

"The statue is cast from bronze of old cannon which the Spaniards left at the time of Argentine independence. On the monument is the inscription: 'Sooner shall these mountains crumble into dust than Chileans and Argentines shall break the peace, which at the feet of Christ, the Redeemer, they have sworn to maintain.'

"The conception of such a monument came from the hearts of Bishop Benavente and Senora de Costa, and it was she who, as president of the Christian Mothers' Association of Buenos Aires, undertook the work of securing funds and having the statue created.

"This was accomplished, and since March 13, 1904, the Christ of the Andes has stood in a majestic setting of snow-covered peaks, commemorating a series of peace and boundary pacts signed by the two countries in 1902 and 1903."

During the social hour Mrs. Dryburg served a lovely salad course to:

CHAPTER VII

When Bill left the house next morning he had every intention of dropping Buck's letter into the first mailbox. But before he could do so, Drowsy Peters moped up beside him.

"Don't kid," Bill begged. "I'm too low to take it.'

"Me, too," Drowsy said. "I saw Helen last night.'

"H-how is she?"

"Lousy. She'd been crying. You know, Bill, I feel like a heel. I got you to go after Dot. Now I wish I'd shut up. Can she really help Buck?"

"I've got to risk it," Bill said. "It's our only chance."

Drowsy shrugged. "I hope she ain't just stringing you along, kid."

Bill thought about this remark all during classes. At noon he managed to see Dot for a moment and she agreed to meet him after work.

When Bill arrived for work, Julius Peskin was waiting at the door to pounce on him.

"You've got a nerve, Mentor," he shrilled. "Coming here after the way you brutally assaulted Walton!"

"I hit him just once, Mr. Peskin," Bill said quietly. "In self-defense."

"Ha! You stole his girl, didn't you?"

Bill saw that it was useless to try to explain. "That needn't affect my job here, Mr. Peskin. I'll work harder than ever if you'll let me stay."

"Should have thought of that before you struck Walton," Peskin snapped. "You can finish the week out, Mentor, while I get a new boy. Now get busy polishing that dirty fountain."

The fountain was not dirty, but Bill polished vigorously. His first thought was that maybe Dot would explain to Peskin. But, like Drowsy, he was beginning to wonder about her powers. Suppose she was just stringing him along? Bill's knuckles whitened. Tonight he'd find out for sure. . . .

But Dot shied away from a direct commitment and turned on the tears.

"Bill, how can you doubt me so? Didn't I have Landis fired? Haven't I been talking to Father all day about Buck Mentor?"

Dot sank down on the bench in front of Peskin's. With her back to Bill, she assumed a crushed attitude. Bill said desperately, "Look, Dot! I didn't mean to be ungrateful. Honestly. But Buck and I are in a tough spot. Old Peskin'll make it hard for me to find another job."

"I—I can't perform a miracle in a few hours, Bill."

"What did your father say when you talked to him?" Bill asked.

"Why—why, he said he thought Buck Mentor was a good coach."

"Did he say he'd give Buck a chance?"

Dot hesitated. She was used to being queen of West High. During her reign only one boy had ever [illegible] her charms. Only one had ever questioned her power. That boy sat beside her now, still doubting her ability to rule her small domain. Dot met the challenge with a toss of her [illegible] head.

"Bill Mentor, I'm getting sick and tired of your questions! If you don't choose to believe me, we can just drop the whole matter."

It was his last shred of hope. Bill clutched at it. "Don't be sore, Dot. I believe you."

He heard footsteps and as he turned his heart bounded into his throat. "Helen!"

She said, "Yes, Bill. I came down to see you. I'm sorry, but I overheard what you just said."

Bill was so glad to see her he couldn't speak. He realized how badly he needed someone to confide in, someone he could trust. Her loyalty made his cheeks burn.

"It was swell of you to come," he muttered.

Dot bounced to her feet. "Well, I guess I'm intruding."

"No, you're not," Helen said crisply. She moved closer to Dot, her face white and set. "It's time you were honest with Bill."

"I like that!" Dot flared. "What business is it of yours how I treat Bill?"

"I happen to really like Bill," Helen said. "And I don't want to see him made a fool of by someone who makes promises just to keep a boy interested. Bill was the only boy in school who didn't jump when you snapped your fingers, so you decided to make him jump."

"That's not true." Dot spoke defiantly, but her eyes avoided Helen's.

"Oh, but it is, Dot. Bill's poor. He hasn't much time or money to spend on a girl. What other reason could you have for wanting to go out with him?"

Bill interrupted feebly, "Dot's promised to help Buck, Helen."

"Yes, I know all about that," Helen said grimly. She turned to Bill. "You're smart, Bill. Can't you see how ridiculous it is for her to pretend she can run the board?"

"She helped to get Landis fired," Bill objected.

"Oh, Bill, where's your common sense? Landis was fired because he was a bad coach, because Pat Hurly and every West High supporter wanted him to go. Dot had nothing to do with that."

"Is . . . that true?" Bill demanded.

"You can believe her if you like," Dot retorted. "I'm sick of this childish talk. I'm going home."

Helen planted herself squarely in front of Dot. "Bill and I are going with you."

"Why, you're—you're crazy!" Dot gasped.

"What's the idea, Helen?" Bill asked, puzzled.

"Well settle this now, Bill. If you don't see Mr. Skelton, you'll always think Dot might have helped Buck. The only way to find out for sure is to ask him."

"He's—he's not home," Dot said.

Suddenly Bill realized that Helen was right. Dot might be lying, but J. Conrad Skelton would tell the truth. "We can wait for your father, Dot," Bill said.

Dot was almost whimpering. "I—I don't want you to. I won't be bullied."

"We're going anyway," Bill said stubbornly. "I've got to know where we stand tonight."

Walking next to Helen, Bill felt free of worry and doubts. If Dot had been lying to him all along, he could take it better with Helen by his side.

They reached the big house and Dot sullenly showed them into the library. J. Conrad Skelton sat at his desk. He was a tall, thin man, with gold-rimmed eyeglasses set atop an ascetic nose. Pursing his lips, he said coldly, "What is the meaning of this intrusion, Dorothea?"

Bill stepped forward. "I'm Mentor, sir, and this is Helen Welch."

Skelton frowned. "Mentor, eh? Ah, yes, your father wrote me last summer about a job." He paused. "Recently, I believe, you were involved in a fight over my daughter. Reprehensible, Mentor!"

Helen said, "Please, Mr. Skelton, will you answer a question? Bill just has to know whether his father has a chance for the job of coaching West."

"What impudence!" Skelton snapped. "You come here at 11 o'clock and ask me to divulge board business. Dorothea, take them to the door."

"That's not fair!" Helen protested hotly. "It's Dot's fault we're here, Mr. Skelton. She promised Bill that you'd give Buck a chance."

J. Conrad Skelton scowled. "Is that true, Dorothea?"

"Why—why, I . . . ."

"I'll discuss this matter with you later, Dorothea. Leave the room."

Skelton turned to Helen and Bill. "Let me assure you that my daughter does not direct the activities of the board. If she has misled you, I'm sorry. But I pride myself upon being a just man. For this reason I feel that it is only fair to inform you of the truth. At no time since the resignation of Mr. Landis has the board considered the name of Buck Mentor."

CHAPTER VII

When Bill left the house next morning he had every intention of dropping Buck's letter into the first mailbox. But before he could do so, Drowsy Peters moped up beside him.

"How's the great lover?"

"Don't kid," Bill begged. "I'm too low to take it.'

"Me, too," Drowsy said. "I saw Helen last night.'

"H-how is she?"

"Lousy. She'd been crying. You know, Bill, I feel like a heel. I got you to go after Dot. Now I wish I'd shut up. Can she really help Buck?"

"I've got to risk it," Bill said. "It's our only chance."

Drowsy shrugged. "I hope she ain't just stringing you along, kid."

Bill thought about this remark all during classes. At noon he managed to see Dot for a moment and she agreed to meet him after work.

It's interesting and informative reading that may save you many dollars. And besides, dropping in to get a copy gives you a good excuse for looking over (and maybe even trying out) that big honey of a 1941 Buick that everybody's going for these days.

WHAT IS A "PACK"?

A pack is an extra item slipped into the delivered price of a new car to enable a dealer to offer more for your present car than it is really worth in trade.

It is a sort of "bait" intended to make you think you're getting a better deal than you actually are. Ask us for a free copy of "What You Get for What You Pay" and see how the "pack" can cost you money.

The pastor, who is at the annual conference in Baton Rouge, will return in time to hold the regular services this morning. Since many were prevented from attending services last Sunday because of the continuous heavy rains it has been arranged for this special service at 11 o'clock today. It will be announced at the services this morning if there will be a worship service this evening. It is desired that all our members as well as our friends will come and worship with us at this service. Let all the parents as well as children come to the Sunday school and remain for the 11 o'clock hour for worship. At this time the pastor will bring the message announced for last Sunday but was deferred because many were prevented from attending. Come and bring your friends, and join us in earnest prayer for a great service. At a special meeting of the board of stewards Monday night the pastor was instructed to render a full report at the annual conference. The records show a substantial increase over last year in the work at Gordon Avenue Methodist church.

STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

Dr. Dale, of Birmingham, England, once received as his guest a Japanese gentleman, who had become a Christian.

One night, Dr. Dale asked this man what led him to become a Christian. The answer was that as a Confucian he studied the works of Confucius for many years, but he was greatly perplexed and dissatisfied. A Japanese convert to Christianity gave him a Bible and asked him to read it. This he did, until one day he came to I Corinthians and began to read the glorious thirteenth chapter. He was charmed, and read the chapter through. "I had never read or dreamed of a morality like that," said he. "I felt that it was above the reach of the human race, that it must have come from heaven and that the man who wrote that chapter must have received the light from God. And then I read the gospel of John, and the words of Christ filled me with wonder. They were not to be resisted. I could not refuse Him my faith." Hence he became a Christian.

The Word of God, the Psalmist declared, "Is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Psalm 119:105.

Church loyalty is an indication of gratitude, dissatisfaction with spiritual attainment, and an earnest desire to "Grow in Grace and in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus, the Christ." When man absents himself from the house of worship he not only retards the progress of the Kingdom; he fails to do his best for the honor and the glory of the Redeemer. Habit is a factor in man's life. How easy to get out of the habit of worshiping the Father at least once each Sabbath! Therefore in the interest of our observance of the command, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," our attention will be directed to the grounds of the psalmist's declaration, "I was glad when they said unto me, 'Let us go into the house of the Lord.'" Will you worship with us today as we consider the psalmist's church loyalty?

Our studies in Habakkuk will be continued at the evening hour; the woes are the subject of our message.

Our plans contemplate a Thanksgiving service in our church, since we as a people have many causes for rejoicing, among which is the liquidation of our indebtedness. The hour will be announced later.

You are wanted and needed in the Sabbath school. Will you study the Word with us today?

A most sincere invitation is extended to you to worship with us at any time.

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The real man is spiritual and immortal, but the mortal and imperfect so-called 'children of men' are counterfeits from the beginning, to be laid aside for the pure reality" (p. 409).

The Sunday school opens at the usual time 9:45 a.m. and the two Epworth Leagues will render programs at 6:30 p.m. The Wesley Brotherhood will meet this evening at 6:45. Last Sunday we had one hundred at Sunday school even though the weather was unfavorable. At the evening worship service the house was about half full of people who came out in the storm and rain. The pastor, who is at the annual conference in Baton Rouge, will return in time to hold the regular services this morning. Since many were prevented from attending services last Sunday because of the continuous heavy rains it has been arranged for this special service at 11 o'clock today. It will be announced at the services this morning if there will be a worship service this evening. It is desired that all our members as well as our friends will come and worship with us at this service. Let all the parents as well as children come to the Sunday school and remain for the 11 o'clock hour for worship. At this time the pastor will bring the message announced for last Sunday but was deferred because many were prevented from attending. Come and bring your friends, and join us in earnest prayer for a great service. At a special meeting of the board of stewards Monday night the pastor was instructed to render a full report at the annual conference. The records show a substantial increase over last year in the work at Gordon Avenue Methodist church.

STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

Dr. Dale, of Birmingham, England, once received as his guest a Japanese gentleman, who had become a Christian.

One night, Dr. Dale asked this man what led him to become a Christian. The answer was that as a Confucian he studied the works of Confucius for many years, but he was greatly perplexed and dissatisfied. A Japanese convert to Christianity gave him a Bible and asked him to read it. This he did, until one day he came to I Corinthians and began to read the glorious thirteenth chapter. He was charmed, and read the chapter through. "I had never read or dreamed of a morality like that," said he. "I felt that it was above the reach of the human race, that it must have come from heaven and that the man who wrote that chapter must have received the light from God. And then I read the gospel of John, and the words of Christ filled me with wonder. They were not to be resisted. I could not refuse Him my faith." Hence he became a Christian.

The Word of God, the Psalmist declared, "Is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Psalm 119:105.

Church loyalty is an indication of gratitude, dissatisfaction with spiritual attainment, and an earnest desire to "Grow in Grace and in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus, the Christ." When man absents himself from the house of worship he not only retards the progress of the Kingdom; he fails to do his best for the honor and the glory of the Redeemer. Habit is a factor in man's life. How easy to get out of the habit of worshiping the Father at least once each Sabbath! Therefore in the interest of our observance of the command, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," our attention will be directed to the grounds of the psalmist's declaration, "I was glad when they said unto me, 'Let us go into the house of the Lord.'" Will you worship with us today as we consider the psalmist's church loyalty?

Our studies in Habakkuk will be continued at the evening hour; the woes are the subject of our message.

Our plans contemplate a Thanksgiving service in our church, since we as a people have many causes for rejoicing, among which is the liquidation of our indebtedness. The hour will be announced later.

You are wanted and needed in the Sabbath school. Will you study the Word with us today?

A most sincere invitation is extended to you to worship with us at any time.

Games were played and at the conclusion of each one, a prize was awarded the winner. Fortune telling climaxed the evening's games. Chairman Of Red Cross Chapter Appeals To Citizens To Aid Drive

Every cent contributed to the American Red Cross is used to alleviate suffering every minute of every day, E. C. Gibson, chairman of the Ouachita Parish Chapter of the American Red Cross, pointed out in calling on citizens of this area to rally toward the fulfilling of the unit's quota in the annual Roll Call. The second week of the drive opens tomorrow.

"The Red Cross is always the first agency on the job in times of trouble," Mr. Gibson said. "It is an organized group which has a particular routine to carry out and always does its job.

"It may be called on to aid storm sufferers or those driven from their homes in time of flood; it is ready to act whenever some unfortunate incident brings tragedy to a community; it has gone overseas and is caring for those who have been made homeless by the guns of war.

"Our minimum quota is 3,200 memberships before November 30," Mr. Gibson said. "Our people have read of the Red Cross activities. They know how it assists, regardless of race or creed. I appeal to everyone in Ouachita parish to do his share in aiding our campaign."

Radio listeners will have a special treat from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. today (Monroe time) when a program dedicated to the Red Cross from Hollywood will be carried over the NBC Blue Network, CBS and the MBS. Stars will be Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Amos 'n' Andy, Don Wilson, Martha Tilton, Benay Venuta, Bob Hope, Donald Dickson, Lionel Barrymore, Bette Davis, Betty Brewer Quartette, Dave Brockman and his orchestra and Frank Freeman, president, Motion Picture Producers' Association.

Among those who are working in the chapter's campaign are Ivy Jordan, Roll Call chairman; Clifford Strauss, big gifts; P. E. Massey, group enrollment; S. A. Moss, business enrollment; Mrs. D. T. Milam, residential, Monroe; Judge Jesse Heard, general chairman, West Monroe, and Mrs. D. L. Nicol, residential, West Monroe.

WOMAN EDUCATOR IS GIVEN HONORS

Distinguished Band Of Southerners Pays Homage To Mother Berry

BLUE MOUNTAIN, Miss., Nov. 14—(AP)—A distinguished band of Southerners, headed by Senator Pat Harrison, met here today to pay homage on her 90th birthday to Mother Berry, one of the South's most beloved women educators.

"There is probably no other woman in the South whose life has inspired men and women," Senator Harrison said in an address honoring the distinguished daughter of "the bravest man who ever fought in the Confederate army," General Mark Perrin Lowrey, a fighting parson who founded Blue Mountain college with which his daughter still is connected.

The penniless and ruined general, survivor of many of the bloodiest battles of the War Between the States, and father of 11 children found his inspiration to found the college for the education of girls from his own titanic struggle amid carpetbagger days in Mississippi to educate his oldest daughter, Modena Lowrey, the "Mother Berry" of today's homely, simple celebration.

General Lowrey, an ordained Baptist minister, refused several bids to start his college in cities, and moved six miles into the country to start the school at Blue mountain, more hill than mountain.

General Lowrey was principal and Modena Lowrey lady principal of the school that opened in 1873. At the June commencement in 1876 and before her father as minister, she married Rev. W. E. Berry, who bought half the school and became professor of Greek and Latin the following year. Her father died in 1885.

Mrs. Berry remained with the school continuously, being today vice-president emerita of the institution. Senator Harrison said it "grew from a humble start into one of the outstanding colleges for women in the South."

"Because the picture is so challenging, it is heartening to stand here today in the presence of a kindly, warm-hearted and generous woman whose life has been dedicated to a continuous teaching and strengthening of the moral values. A figure such as Mother Berry is as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

At one time or another most of the Lowrey family have assiated with the school, and today Mother Berry's daughter, Miss Clara Etta Berry, is her principal assistant and heir in affairs of the school, now Baptist controlled, and attended by about 400 girls amid the red clay hills of northern Mississippi.

Government Will Rebuild Few Cannon Now On Lawns

Spikes Rumors That All Field Pieces Used As Ornaments Will Be Asked

By Eddie Gilmore

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The army shot to pieces today the rumor that the cannon on the country's courthouse lawns might be wrenched from their peaceful petunia beds and carted back to Washington for national defense.

Some field pieces, such as the one the government gave Colorado State college in 1919, are being asked for. But these guns are useable, most of them being of the "French 75" design.

As a part of the defense program, the army plans to overhaul them. They will have new carriages so they can be towed in motorized units and when this streamling is over, mechanics will go to work on the firing features.

Experts say that with a little labor and material the range of many of these guns can be stepped up and they can be made maneuverable.

Practically all the cannon in the courthouse brigade are weapons too old or too far gone for repair. Many of them are relics of the War Between the States and the Spanish-American war.

Furnishing guns for the main street front was once on such a land office scale of business that regular forms of procedure were established.

The mayor usually wrote to his congressman, and the congressman went to work for the old home town. Sometimes there were unveiling parties when mayor and congressmen alike could fire a few rounds of oratory.

It was a sad day for all concerned when the supply gave out.

BIG TOP CHANGES WILL BE MODERN

Real Old-Fashioned Circus Will Be Transformed By Designer

By Gladwin Hill

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Next year may be your last chance to see a real old-fashioned circus, like the one where you carried water to the elephants when you were a kid.

Norman Bel Geddes, the streamline designer who created the New York World's Fair highway futurama, joined the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus today to start a two-year modernization project calculated to produce for the season of 1942 a "big show" as different from the traditional circus as modern cars are from the model-T.

The elephants, clowns and acrobats will still be there, he guaranteed, but most of the exterior paraphernalia will be different—including, instead of the conventional "big top," a canvas auditorium without poles, suspended from huge portable steel towers 160 feet high.

Changes next year, Geddes and Circus President John Ringling North said, would be confined to the side show tent and the menagerie, where the customary oval of cage wagons will be eliminated and the animals displayed in an integrated exhibition in surroundings resembling their natural habitats.

The designer said he was trying to get transparent plastic bars strong enough to pen in wild animals and yet be invisible to spectators, but that he might have to compromise on metal bars with special chromium plate to make them inconspicuous.

North said [illegible] winter trip to Europe in search of new circus acts [illegible] by the war, and [illegible] South America, [illegible] outstanding European [illegible].

ORANGEVILLE, O., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Citizens of this little border village are talking turkey these days.

All the fuss came about because part of the village is in Ohio, which observes Thanksgiving November 21, and part in Pennsylvania, which marks the holiday November 28.

Orangeville's population is about 500. One side of Main street is in Ohio's Trumbull county and 264 persons are Buckeyes. The remainder of the people live on the other side of the street and give allegiance to the Quaker State.

Mayor N. R. Williams lives in Ohio and will celebrate November 21, but under protest. He prefers the traditional last Thursday in November, but is acceding because all the Ohio business places will be closed on the former date.

Druggist D. A. Tennant resides on the Pennsylvania side and will have his cranberry sauce on the 28th. But he's running into trouble. The Ohio friends he invited for dinner are coming on the 21st.

"So it looks as if I'll have to eat two Thanksgiving dinners," he said.

The Rev. B. A. Wilson, pastor of the Baptist church which is situated in Pennsylvania, has people from both states in his congregation. The Thanksgiving literature sent him from national headquarters of the church is released for the 21st though so he's going to follow that date.

AGENCY CAMPAIGN IN SECOND WEEK

Chairman Of Red Cross Chapter Appeals To Citizens To Aid Drive

Every cent contributed to the American Red Cross is used to alleviate suffering every minute of every day, E. C. Gibson, chairman of the Ouachita Parish Chapter of the American Red Cross, pointed out in calling on citizens of this area to rally toward the fulfilling of the unit's quota in the annual Roll Call. The second week of the drive opens tomorrow.

"The Red Cross is always the first agency on the job in times of trouble," Mr. Gibson said. "It is an organized group which has a particular routine to carry out and always does its job.

"It may be called on to aid storm sufferers or those driven from their homes in time of flood; it is ready to act whenever some unfortunate incident brings tragedy to a community; it has gone overseas and is caring for those who have been made homeless by the guns of war.

"Our minimum quota is 3,200 memberships before November 30," Mr. Gibson said. "Our people have read of the Red Cross activities. They know how it assists, regardless of race or creed. I appeal to everyone in Ouachita parish to do his share in aiding our campaign."

Radio listeners will have a special treat from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. today (Monroe time) when a program dedicated to the Red Cross from Hollywood will be carried over the NBC Blue Network, CBS and the MBS. Stars will be Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Amos 'n' Andy, Don Wilson, Martha Tilton, Benay Venuta, Bob Hope, Donald Dickson, Lionel Barrymore, Bette Davis, Betty Brewer Quartette, Dave Brockman and his orchestra and Frank Freeman, president, Motion Picture Producers' Association.

Among those who are working in the chapter's campaign are Ivy Jordan, Roll Call chairman; Clifford Strauss, big gifts; P. E. Massey, group enrollment; S. A. Moss, business enrollment; Mrs. D. T. Milam, residential, Monroe; Judge Jesse Heard, general chairman, West Monroe, and Mrs. D. L. Nicol, residential, West Monroe.

Leaders in rural sections of the parish include Mrs. W. A. Brant, Bosco; Mrs. Mouser, Calhoun; Mrs. S. M. Rutledge, Cheniere; Mrs. M. L. deFreese and Mrs. J. R. Frantom, Claybourne community; J. E. Rutledge, Lapine community; T. T. Jones, Watson community; Mrs. Clara Gillilam, Drew community; Mrs. Reese Camp, Liberty community; Mrs. A. C. White, White's Ferry Road community; Mrs. H. C. WOMAN EDUCATOR IS GIVEN HONORS

Distinguished Band Of Southerners Pays Homage To Mother Berry

BLUE MOUNTAIN, Miss., Nov. 14.—(AP)—A distinguished band of Southerners, headed by Senator Pat Harrison, met here today to pay homage on her 90th birthday to Mother Berry, one of the South's most beloved women educators.

"There is probably no other woman in the South whose life has inspired men and women," Senator Harrison said in an address honoring the distinguished daughter of "the bravest man who ever fought in the Confederate army," General Mark Perrin Lowrey, a fighting parson who founded Blue Mountain college with which his daughter still is connected.

The penniless and ruined general, survivor of many of the bloodiest battles of the War Between the States, and father of 11 children found his inspiration to found the college for the education of girls from his own titanic struggle amid carpetbagger days in Mississippi to educate his oldest daughter, Modena Lowrey, the "Mother Berry" of today's homely, simple celebration.

General Lowrey, an ordained Baptist minister, refused several bids to start his college in cities, and moved six miles into the country to start the school at Blue mountain, more hill than mountain.

A village, then town sprang up around it, taking the same name.

General Lowrey was principal and Modena Lowrey lady principal of the school that opened in 1873. At the June commencement in 1876 and before her father as minister, she married Rev. W. E. Berry, who bought half the school and became professor of Greek and Latin the following year. Her father died in 1885.

Mrs. Berry remained with the school continuously, being today vice-president emerita of the institution Senator Harrison said "grew from a humble start into one of the outstanding colleges for women in the South."

"Because the picture is so challenging, it is heartening to stand here today in the presence of a kindly, warmhearted and generous woman whose life has been dedicated to a continuous teaching and strengthening of the moral values. A figure such as Mother Berry is as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

At one time or another most of the Lowrey family have assisted with the school, and today Mother Berry's daughter, Miss Clara Etta Berry, is her principal assistant and heir in affairs of the school, now Baptist controlled, and attended by about 400 girls amid the red clay hills of northern Mississippi.

MRS. WILSON HEADS CARRIERS' AUXILIARY

Mrs. Thomas Wilson was elected president of Auxiliary 760, National Association of Letter Carriers, at a meeting at the home of Mrs. J. L. McDonald recently.

Other officers elected were Mrs. J. J. Shell, vice-president; Mrs. R. E. Mathews, secretary; Mrs. J. K. Warner, treasurer; Mrs. A. G. Reno, sergeant-at-arms.

During the social hour, prizes were awarded to Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. McDonald as winners in contests.

Mrs. Warner sold a cake in slices, and Mrs. Shell, who found a dime in her slice, will bake a cake for the next meeting.

The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Warner, served refreshments to those present.

WOODBRIDGE EXPLOSION TOLL AMOUNTS TO NINE

WOODRIDGE, N. J., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The death toll of the violent explosion of the United Railway Signal Corporation plant reached nine today when Miss Elizabeth Fitzpatrick, 22, of Port Reading, died of burns in Perth Amboy General Hospital.

Miss Fitzpatrick was an employe of the plant which blew up Tuesday, injuring more than a score. Two victims were reported in serious condition today.

Government Will Rebuild Few Cannon Now On Lawns

Spikes Rumors That All Field Pieces Used As Ornaments Will Be Asked

By Eddie Gilmore

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The army shot to pieces today the rumor that the cannon on the country's courthouse lawns might be wrenched from their peaceful petunia beds and carted back to Washington for national defense.

Some field pieces, such as the one the government gave Colorado State college in 1919, are being asked for. But these guns are useable, most of them being of the "French 75" design.

As a part of the defense program, the army plans to overhaul them. They will have new carriages so they can be towed in motorized units and when this streamling is over, mechanics will go to work on the firing features.

Experts say that with a little labor and material the range of many of these guns can be stepped up and they can be made maneuverable.

Practically all the cannon in the courthouse brigade are weapons too old or too far gone for repair. Many of them are relics of the War Between the States and the Spanish-American war.

Furnishing guns for the main street front was once on such a land office scale of business that regular forms of procedure were established.

The mayor usually wrote to his congressman, and the congressman went to work for the old home town. Sometimes there were unveiling parties when mayor and congressmen alike could fire a few rounds of oratory.

It was a sad day for all concerned when the supply gave out.

ENLIST IN ARMY

FERRIDAY, Nov. 16.—(Special)—Norval N. Bush, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Bush, Sr., and George T. Snyder, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Snyder, Sr., have enlisted in the United States army, and have left for Tampa, Fla., where they will be stationed with the United States Air Corps at Fort McDill Field.

BIG TOP CHANGES WILL BE MODERN

Real Old-Fashioned Circus Will Be Transformed By Designer

By Gladwin Hill

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Next year may be your last chance to see a real old-fashioned circus, like the one where you carried water to the elephants when you were a kid.

Norman Bel Geddes, the streamline designer who created the New York World's Fair highway futurama, joined the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus today to start a two-year modernization project calculated to produce for the season of 1942 a "big show" as different from the traditional circus as modern cars are from the model-T.

The elephants, clowns and acrobats will still be there, he guaranteed, but most of the exterior paraphernalia will be different—including, instead of the conventional "big top," a canvas auditorium without poles, suspended from huge portable steel towers 160 feet high.

Changes next year, Geddes and Circus President John Ringling North said, would be confined to the side show tent and the menagerie, where the customary oval of cage wagons will be eliminated and the animals displayed in an integrated exhibition, in surroundings resembling their natural habitats.

The designer said he was trying to get transparent plastic bars strong enough to pen in wild animals and yet be invisible to spectators, but that he might have to compromise on metal bars with special chromium plate to make them inconspicuous.

North said his customary winter trip to Europe in search of new circus acts would be precluded by the war, and that instead he would go to South America, where many outstanding European acts have migrated.

Weavers, Elviry At Capitol

Heartbreaking Story Of Thousands Is Revealed By Writer

A NEW Republic picture starring the Weaver Brothers and Elviry, "Friendly Neighbors," bows in at the Capitol theater today to delight picture fans who enjoy earthy, homespun humor.

The story presents the Weavers as [illegible] who are obliged to leave their ancestral homes because of the [illegible] general [illegible] of the land. On the road they meet a group of hoboes with whom they become friendly, finding themselves eventually in "Wilsonville," a town which has been rendered [illegible] by the rising flood water. A levee would control these flood waters, but the inhabitants lack the political influence to secure appropriations for the break-water.

When the Weavers arrive on the scene, however, they take matters into their own hands and, in their own picturesque way, manage to get the funds appropriated so that not only the former residents of Wilsonville, but the homeless hoboes as well will have an opportunity to build newer and better lives for themselves.

The Weavers, Leon, Frank and June, are cast in the leading roles, with daughter Loretta contributing her share to the comedy. John Hartley and Lois Ranson provide love interest. Spencer Charters is cast in the role of the loveable old Constable, Bumblebee Hobbs.

Nick Grinde directed, from an original screenplay by Dorrell and Stuart McGowan. Armand Schaefer was the associate producer in charge.

TOWNSPEOPLE TIRED

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—"Outside Sather gate" has become a traditional scene of noisy student meetings prohibited on the University of California campus.

Now a long-patient populace has gotten tired—not of self-expression but of plain racket. An ordinance by the Berkeley city council prohibits "unnecessary noise" in certain zones.

When the Weaver brothers and Elviry get together they are bound to have "Friendly Neighbors," and they do at the Capitol theater, today only. The story of a ghost town that they bring to life with a fake hold-up and how the governor decided to build a levee to be [illegible] everybody "Friendly Neighbors" is entertainment you'll certainly enjoy.

"The Great Profile," could only belong to John Barrymore. You're right! Playing Wednesday only, at the Paramount theater, you will see a madder, wilder and funnier John Barrymore than ever before. Preview audiences claim that "The Great Profile" is the laff riot of the year.

"Who Killed Aunt Maggie," playing Tuesday at the Capitol theater is a thriller-diller with a top-action cast: John Hubbard, Wendy Barrie, Edgar Kennedy, Onslow Stevens, and Willie Best, dusky comedian. If you want murder mysteries see this honey; three murders, a secret room, and a cat mewing leads the way toward solving "Who Killed Aunt Maggie."

"Flowing Gold" is a powerful story of the oil fields and booming towns. Played with refreshing vigor by John Garfield, Pat O'Brien and Frances Farmer, the picture can be enjoyed this Friday at the Capitol theater.

So when "Bill" was transferred from the post he held for a year more than a thousand children paraded before the school carrying scribbled placards stating that "if Bill don't come back neither will we."

"Bill" got orders today to forget the new assignment and report back to his old job.

Shearer, Taylor In Top Roles

Nazimova, Conrad Veidt, Albert Bassermann In Supporting Cast

THE new romantic and dramatic team of Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor makes its first film appearance in "Escape," picturization of the Ethel Vance best-seller which opens today and will continue Monday and Tuesday at the Paramount Theater.

Surrounding these two stars is a "name" cast of almost unprecedented brilliance, including Conrad Veidt, star of European films; silent film star, Nazimova; Felix Bressart and Albert Bassermann, who were outstanding figures of the continental stage; Philip Dorn, young Dutch leading man; Bonita Granville, Edgar Barriar, Elsa Bassermann and Blanche Yurka.

Miss Shearer, who last scored in "The Women," now appears in the much-coveted role of Countess von Treck, American by birth but European by choice, who finds herself much against her will involved in the desperate attempt of American artist Mark Preysing to rescue his ex-actress mother, Emmy Ritter, from a concentration camp where she has been sentenced to execution. As Preysing, Taylor is given a characterization even more dramatic than that of his Captain Cronin in "Waterloo Bridge."

Nazimova returns to the screen for the first time in 15 years as Emmy Ritter. Conrad Veidt portrays the general, lover of the countess and ultimate menace to Emmy's escape. Bressart is the stubborn but loyal family servant, Fritz; Basserman the aged and fearful attorney, Henning, who refuses to help Mark; Dorn is Dr. Ditten, concentration camp physician who makes it possible for Emmy to be carried out in a coffin; Bonita Granville is Ursula, leader among the countess' schoolgirls; Blanche Yurka portrays the brutal prison nurse. Mervyn LeRoy, who filmed "Waterloo Bridge," directed "Escape."

The owner of those typhoonic eyes is Steffi Duna, the tempestuous lady of the tropical saloon where "The Great McGinty" tells his story. Starring Brian Donlevy and Akim Tamiroff, the plot shows how two men had their respective downfalls in one mad moment. Donlevy was a crook all his life; went honest during a brash moment (induced by Muriel Angelous) and this momentary honesty was the undoing of "The Great McGinty." The other man was honest all his life, and during one rash moment he went berserk. They both meet. Now see the picture, for yourself, at the Capitol theater playing Monday (one day) only. You'll enjoy every minute of it.

"The Hit Parade of 1941," playing at the Paramount theater Friday and Saturday, is a song-swingy and tune-hit parade of love and romance. The cast include: Kenny Baker, Frances Langford, Hugh Herbert, Mary Boland, Ann Miller, Patsy Kelly, Borrah Minnevitch and his Harmonica Rascals, and Jan Garber's band. With Kenny Baker and Frances Langford, you have romance a la the song road; with Hugh Herbert and Mary Boland, you have comedy and humor; with Patsy Kelly, anything is likely to happen and when Patsy nabs herself a man and kisses him, he stays kissed! Adventurous Life Of Yerex Unfolded To Correspondent

Huge Air Service Is Built Up Through Years Of Hard Work

By James Marlow

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16—(AP)—Out of a German prison camp into the Central American jungles . . . shot and blinded in one eye. . . .

A dim beginning for the success story of Lowell Yerex, World war flier who ran nothing into a fortune. . . .

There is no future in aviation, Yerex thought, so he quit . . . broke . . . bumpy weather on the ground . . . back in aviation . . . sickening tailspins out of jobs. . . .

His vision of the future began to take shape. . . . He flew planes through the air with the greatest of ease over jungles where Indians had hauled them in tropical sweat by hand. . . .

Yerex' friends say today he has made at least $2,000,000 as president and principal stockholder of an air transport company blanketing Central America with planes and landing fields nine years after he went there with $25 in his pocket.

Last year Yerex company officials say, carried 12,000 tons of freight, larger than any other airline in the world, in addition to mail, express, extra baggage and approximately 65,000 passengers.

Yerex, a middle-sized man, 45 years old, graying, with glasses, a compact body and good, strong hands, says little, and the little he says he soft-pedals.

The start was ambitious enough but not new: at 16 in his Wellington, New Zealand, home he thought the United States was the place to make a fortune. So he came here to study and went to Valparaiso University in Indiana.

Five years later he was graduated into the midst of World war No. 1.

"I was a British subject," he says. "So I enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps in Canada, got my training, was shipped across, was commissioned a lieutenant, shot down three Germans, was shot down twice myself."

The first time he went down behind his own lines. The second time 35 miles behind the German lines in Belgium. The armistice was six weeks old when the Germans released him from prison camp on the Danube. He returned to London on Christmas eve, 1919, in rags.

Nine months later he was mustered out of the service and, picking up where he had left off on the fortune hunt, he came back to the United States with $1,500 he had saved from his lieutenant's salary.

That was the day of flying circuses in America. Yerex barnstormed all over the west and at the end of five years, $10,000 to the good, he quit aviation and opened an automobile agency in Santa Fe, N. M.

In that year, 1924, aviation was at lowest ebb.

As an automobile dealer Yerex industriously lost the $10,000 he had made in aviation and, broke, had nowhere to turn except back to aviation.

The time was June, 1929. He flew for a transport company, became manager of one of its airports and in December was fired with other pilots because the stock market had taken its own famous tailspin.

Disgusted, he turned south from the promised land to Mexico and became operating manager for another transport line that folded up exactly 18 months later.

Out of a job again, with $25 in his pocket, the drift was still southward.

"It was 1931," he says. "And then I got a chance to go to Honduras with three American boys going there to start a flying business with a small plane that could carry three passengers."

The boys couldn't pay Yerex' salary and, in lieu of pay, he kept acquiring an interest in the plane until he owned it.

Within that first year after arriving in Honduras he owned three small planes and a tri-motor worth altogether $30,000. He built up to that figure ferrying passengers and freight all over the Central American jungle tops.

It was a good idea, paying dividends in that country where tortuous journeys that took two weeks by foot and mule over hazardous trails could be made now by Yerex' planes straight as a hawk flies in 45 minutes and for only half the price of the land journey.

For example: The 14-day trip from Guatamela City to Flores, center of the chicle industry, was by trail to Puerto Barrios, by launch to Belize, by launch to El Cayo, by mule to Flores. The minimum cost, $50.

Yerex' ships made the trip in 4[illegible] minutes for $20, eliminating the danger of the trail from man, beast and the malarial insects.

That was the first year. In 1932 came a revolution in Honduras. Yerex was friendly with the government. So was Guy Molony, former superintendent of New Orleans police. They decided to help the government.

On one expedition, with Yerex at the controls, they flew over rebel territory with Mr. Molony [illegible] lower. Yerex objected but went lower until a rebel bullet struck him in the eye. He lost the sight in [illegible]

But his air-ferry service made money. He bought more planes [illegible] horses, cows, mules, [illegible] through the air to these [illegible] inaccessible places where [illegible] the refinements of life [illegible] had been hauled through the [illegible] by Indian labor.

He took time out to [illegible] Maria Antonieta Rodriguez, beautiful daughter of Dr. Jesus Maria Rodriguez, Honduran minister of education, and eloped with her by plane to the United States. They have a daughter now.

His air service spread through British Honduras and the five Central American republics of Honduras, Costa Rica, Guatamela, El Salvador and Nicaragua.

Landing fields had to be made all over the territory he served with his planes that were now a fleet.

Chicle trees, a hundred feet tall, were cleared out for the fields in some areas and in one instance the top of a hill was cut off so a landing stage could be thrown across to a valley floor.

By 1935 his transport service was big business. He incorporated it under the name of Transportes Aeros Centro-Americanos (TACA) with himself as president owning 85 per cent of the stock.

By September, 1939, when Germany invaded Poland, he knew the United States would be looking to the defenses of the western hemisphere and thinking particularly of that string of Central American republics that link the northern and southern continents together.

He offered this government full information on the 225 landing fields used by his 52 planes operated by 30 pilots, 25 of whom are Americans. Of the other five, three are British and two Central Americans.

In October, 1940, he moved into the big time, a recognized success at last in the United States where he had sought to make a fortune and failed.

The American Export Airlines made a deal with him to take over his company, he remaining as its president and at the same time making him a vice-president of the parent company with a [illegible] of stock to boot.

The deal, of course, is subject to the approval of the Civil Aeronautics [illegible] the American Export Airlines also asked for permission to inaugurate an air service from New Orleans [illegible] through Central America to the Panama Canal Zone.

The first leg of the trip, over the Gulf of Mexico from New Orleans to Guatemala City, officials of the company [illegible] could be made in about [illegible] with planes capable of [illegible] and traveling [illegible] miles an hour.

[illegible] flying-boat [illegible] to the officials [illegible] counterparts of the [illegible] bombers capable of [illegible] flights of [illegible]

ARMY'S TRAINING TO HELP CITIZENS

Program, However, Will Be Planned To Serve Military Purposes

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Colonel William H. Draper, Jr., of the army general staff said today that although the army would make every effort to develop skills among selective service soldiers their training would be planned fundamentally to serve military rather than civilian purposes.

"The airplane mechanic will be taught all that time permits about airplane engines and their care," Draper said in an address prepared for the eighth metropolitan conference on employment and guidance. "Incidentally such a man may get a much better job when he goes back home. The same may be true of those men in anti-aircraft artillery and in the infantry as well, but actually the specialty a man learns in most cases will be a military specialty, not a civilian specialty."

Draper said that educators had raised the question of instituting vocational training for drafted men, but the "basic purpose" of the draft, he declared is "to train an American army capable of coping with the best troops of any other nation."

"For that reason," he said, "any formalized program for selective service trainees would be a mistake."

DEALER'S OPENING IS HELD SUCCESS

McCain-Richards, Inc., Officials Pleased With Response Here

Several thousand persons visited the modernistic showroom of Monroe's new Ford dealer, McCain-Richards, Inc., 206 South Grand street, Friday and Saturday to participate in the formal opening festivities.

William McCain and J. W. Richards announced that they were well pleased with the enthusiastic public acceptance o fthe new Ford special car, which was introduced in Monroe.

The showroom was gaily lighted and decorated with many baskets of flowers, and was one of the most beautiful automobile displays ever presented in Louisiana. The grilles of the new Fords were indirectly lighted by concealed colored lighting, which was first used at the Los Angeles automobile show.

Many valuable prizes were given away to celebrate the gala occasion. A six-piece orchestra entertained the many visitors both afternoon and evening.

Talking motion pictures, with Lowell Thomas as commentator, gave a vivid description of the gigantic Ford River Rouge plant. Several interesting travel pictures and a talking picture of the New York World's Fair were also shown.

Several well-known Monroe citizens participated in the showroom broadcast Friday afternoon, when a 15-minute radio program was presented. Radio speakers included: Floyd Martin, Central Savings Bank; Fred Millsaps, Ouachita National Bank; George Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and W. L. Ethridge, Monroe Auto Company. Mr. McCain, Mr. Richards and Mike Smith of McCain-Richards, Inc., also participated in the broadcast, which was handled by E. F. Hughes of the Ford Motor Company.

Mr. McCain and Mr. Richards said that they were overwhelmed by the splendid cooperation and spontaneous enthusiasm that they received and wished to express their appreciation to their many new friends and business associates who made their formal opening such a success.

Adventurous Life Of Yerex Unfolded To Correspondent

By James Marlow

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Out of a German prison camp into the Central American jungles . . . shot and blinded in one eye. . . .

A dim beginning for the success story of Lowell Yerex, World war flier who ran nothing into a fortune. . . .

There is no future in aviation, Yerex thought, so he quit . . . broke . . . bumpy weather on the ground . . . back in aviation . . . sickening tailspins out of jobs. . . .

His vision of the future began to take shape. . . . He flew pianos through the air with the greatest of ease over jungles where Indians had hauled them in tropical sweat by hand. . . .

Yerex' friends say today he has made at least $2,000,000 as president and principal stockholder of an air transport company blanketing Central America with planes and landing fields nine years after he went there with $25 in his pocket.

Last year Yerex' company, officials say, carried 12,000 tons of freight, larger than any other airline in the world, in addition to mail, express, extra baggage and approximately 65,000 passengers.

Yerex, a middle-sized man, 45 years old, graying, with glasses, a compact body and good, strong hands, says little, and the little he says he soft-pedals.

The start was ambitious enough but not new: at 16 in his Wellington, New Zealand, home he thought the United States was the place to make a fortune. So he came here to study and went to Valparaiso University in Indiana.

Five years later he was graduated into the midst of World war No. 1.

"I was a British subject," he says. "So I enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps in Canada, got my training, was shipped across, was commissioned a lieutenant, shot down three Germans, was shot down twice myself."

The first time he went down behind his own lines. The second time 35 miles behind the German lines in Belgium. The armistice was six weeks old when the Germans released him from prison camp on the Danube. He returned to London on Christmas eve, 1919, in rags.

Nine months later he was mustered out of the service and, picking up where he had left off on the fortune hunt, he came back to the United States with $1,500 he had saved from his lieutenant's salary.

That was the day of flying circuses in America. Yerex barnstormed all over the west and at the end of five years, $10,000 to the good, he quit aviation and opened an automobile agency in Santa Fe, N. M.

In that year, 1924, aviation was at lowest ebb.

As an automobile dealer Yerex industriously lost the $10,000 he had made in aviation and, broke, had nowhere to turn except back to aviation.

The time was June, 1929. He flew for a transport company, became manager of one of its airports and in December was fired with other pilots because the stock market had taken its own famous tailspin.

Disgusted, he turned south from the promised land to Mexico and became operating manager for another transport line that folded up exactly 18 months later.

Out of a job again, with $25 in his pocket, the drift was still southward.

"It was 1931," he says. "And then I got a chance to go to Honduras with three American boys going there to start a flying business with a small plane that could carry three passengers."

The boys couldn't pay Yerex' salary and, in lieu of pay, he kept acquiring an interest in the plane until he owned it.

Within that first year after arriving in Honduras he owned three small planes and a tri-motor worth altogether $30,000. He built up to that figure ferrying passengers and freight all over the Central American jungle tops.

It was a good idea, paying dividends in that country where tortuous journeys that took two weeks by foot and mule over hazardous trails could be made now by Yerex' planes straight as a hawk flies in 45 minutes and for only half the price of the land journey.

For example: The 14-day trip from Guatamela City to Flores, center of the chicle industry, was by rail to Puerto Barrios, by launch to Belize, by launch to El Cayo, by mule to Flores. The minimum cost: $50.

On one expedition, with Yerex at the controls, they flew over rebel territory with Mr. Molony wanting to go lower. Yerex objected but went lower until a rebel bullet struck him in the eye. He lost the sight in it.

But his air-ferry service made money. He bought more planes, carried pianos, horses, cows, mules, machinery through the air to those remote and inaccessible places where hitherto all the refinements of life and industry had been hauled through the jungle by Indian labor.

He took time out to woo and win Maria Antonieta Rodriguez, beautiful daughter of Dr. Jesus Maria Rodriguez, Honduran minister of education, and eloped with her by plane to the United States. They have a daughter now.

His air service spread through British Honduras and the five Central American republics of Honduras, Costa Rica, Guatamela, El Salvador and Nicaragua.

Landing fields had to be made all over the territory he served with his planes that were now a fleet.

This deal, of course, is subject to the approval of the Civil Aeronautics board which the American Export Airlines also asked for permission to inaugurate an air service from New Orleans clear down through Central America to the Panama Canal Zone.

The first leg of the trip, over the Gulf of Mexico from New Orleans to Guatemala City, officials of the company said, would be made in about three hours with planes capable of carrying 32 passengers and traveling better than 200 miles an hour.

These great four-engined flying-boat transports, according to the officials, are commercial counterparts of the navy's long range bombers capable of sustained non-stop flights of 5,000 miles.

Late in October, to celebrate the merger of his company with American Export Airlines and the proposed new route to the south, Yerex and a crew flew from Guatamela City to New Orleans over the gulf in five hours.
